A Century of Good Books

When in 1825 Daniel Appleton opened a general store in New York City his largest department was that of books, and it was not long before the business was confined entirely to books. Prosperity encouraged him to enter the publishing field with the tiny volume, "Crumbs from the Master's Table" by W. Mason, and from that time on the firm progressed rapidly into the famous international publishing house of D. Appleton and Company. The Appletons were first to publish Darwin, Spencer, Huxley and Tyndall in America. Publishing history was being made when Spencer, who had himself been publishing his books, saw the sale of them, under the Appleton guidance, mount to 500,000 copies. William Cullen Bryant, Mary J. Holmes, Cardinal Newman, Disraeli, Guizot, Generals Sherman and Sheridan, Admirals Farragut and Porter, Bancroft, Bernhardt, these are but a few of the famous authors on the Appleton list. The American Cyclopedia, the Town and Country Library, the Webster Blue Back Speller, which sold 75,000,000 copies, have been some of the Appleton enterprises. "David Harum," "Uncle Remus" and "Alice in Wonderland" are Appleton books which have become classics.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS
347 MADISON AVENUE
NEW YORK

PRICES SUBJECT TO CHANGE WITHOUT NOTICE

ASSOCIATION PRESS is the publishing unit of the National Council of Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States. It publishes books and pamphlets designed to be useful in the operation of character-building activities among young men and boys and for individual reading and study. Many of its publications arise from the research, experimentation, and actual program operations of the Associations, while others are specifically written to meet recognized needs in the life of men and boys.

While much of the material may have been written to deal with the program of a particular group in a Young Men's Christian Association, yet many individual books and pamphlets have a wide range of interest far beyond the scope of any Young Men's Christian Association group.

These may be found of assistance to all workers with boys and young men—in many types of organizations under many conditions.

Religious educators; Sunday School superintendents and teachers; Boy Scout executives and leaders; Camp directors and counselors; Boys' Work committeemen in Y's Men, Rotary, Kiawanis, Lions, Civitan, and other service clubs; leaders of 4-H Clubs and many other workers with boys, will find much of interest among the books and pamphlets listed in the Boys' Section.

Similar workers with young men, such as leaders in the De Molay and Antlers Movements, will want to avail themselves of many of the activities and character development tools, described in the Young Men's Section.

Thoughtful men—of all denominations and creeds —may find much of inspiration, of stimulation of thought and action in the translation of Christ-like ideals into daily living—among the books and pamphlets described under specific topics and interests.

The arrangement and classifications this year are somewhat new. Twenty-five members of the staff of the Home Division of the National Council have collaborated in the classifications and descriptions of the various books and pamphlets, and aided in the selection of supplemental lists of related books of other publishers.

The aim has been to make this Catalog a working manual for the Association secretary, religious educator and Christian worker—to acquaint them with the range, the adaptability, and the concise usefulness of each document to each particular task, topic, or interest.

It will be noted that books and pamphlets of other publishers are listed under many topics and classifications. This has been done to bring workers in touch with what are deemed additional aids in their endeavors.

The arrangement, classification and descriptions are admitted to be far from perfect in this first attempt. Constructive suggestions, criticisms, reappraisals are solicited for guidance in subsequent issues of this Catalog.

Where and how to find the particular book or pamphlet you seek

If you know either the title or author of any particular book, refer at once to the Index, beginning on Page 74, from which you will get immediate reference to the page where you will find the description of that book.

If you are seeking material related to a particular interest, topic, or subject, or centering around a particular age or departmental grouping, consult the Table of Contents on Page 4, or refer to the Index, beginning on Page 74, where you will be referred to the specific page where the book or books are described.

For example, if you are working with a particular group interested in Race Relationships, refer immediately to Race Relationships on Page 60, under which subject you will find brought together not only all the Association Press books, but a careful selection of books of other publishers related specifically to this subject.

The effort has been made this year to have this Catalog serve as a working manual in bringing to the attention of all Association workers, religious educators, and workers with boys and men, helpful material around their particular tasks.

Perchance you might even like to sit down with this Catalog for an evening and browse through it to note the many helpful aids bearing on some of our own particular problems.

Discounts Available to the Trade

Association Press has changed prices on a number of its publications and has also slightly revised its discount policy. The prices and terms given in this catalogue take effect August 1, 1929, and supersede all previous lists and quotations.

The discount available on each title is indicated by a figure in parenthesis after the description of the title. These figures are interpreted as follows:

(1) indicates Regular Discount from price listed, which is
On 1 to 9 copies — 33⅓ per cent.
On 10 or more copies — 40 per cent.

(2) indicates Short Discount from price listed, which is
On 1 to 9 copies — 25 per cent.
On 10 or more copies — 33⅓ per cent.

(3) indicates Special Short Discount, which varies with different titles. Information will be furnished on request.

(4) indicates No Discount, the prices announced being net prices. Practically all titles in this category are Association technical material and seldom handled by the Trade.

Organization and Administration of the Young Men's Christian Association

In this section are included books and pamphlets dealing with general organization and administration of the Young Men's Christian Association, including also material for personnel training.

These are aids related to all types of Associations and will be found of interest not only to general and executive secretaries, but also to those desiring to familiarize themselves with the general workings of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Specific program and activity material is grouped under two main headings—Work With Boys, and Work With Young Men.

Association Administration

J. W. McCANDLESS

Revised edition, paper boards, 1.75

A review of basic principles and successful practices in organizing, promoting, operating, and financing the local Young Men's Christian Association, and in planning, developing, and conducting the program of activities. This book should be in the technical library of every Y M C A Secretary. (2)

Association Year Book

Paper boards, 5.00

The 1928-1929 statistical report of the work of the Young Men's Christian Associations, including list of Association employed officers and valuable analysis of the report materials. (4)

Committees and Boards in the Early History of the New York City Y M C A

J. A. URICE — Pamphlet, .75

Occasional Studies, No. 6

A study based on the published annual reports of the New York City Young Men's Christian Association, Numbers I to XVII (1852 to 1870 inclusive), documents published in connection with these reports, and other papers bound with them in the files of the Historical Library of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. A historical contribution to some present-day questions regarding committee service, this paper reviews the work of committees and boards in one association prior to the advent of secretarial leadership and the changes made by that professional leadership in the functioning of the lay committees and boards. (4)

Community and the Y M C A

Fourth edition FRANK RITCHIE — Cloth, 1.00

The enlistment of every constructive agency in a community—church, home, school, industry—in united effort for the welfare of its youth, but without a special building, is the goal of this book. (2)

How to Establish a City Y M C A

Pamphlet .15; 12 for 1.50; 50 for 5.25

Clear statement of the essentials and the procedure to be followed in inaugurating a city Association. (4)

How to Study Your Association and Community

FRANK H. RITCHIE — Paper, 2.00

A clear and practical survey outline throughly described. Helpful to Associations wishing to re-study and analyse their field, program and policy. (4)

Model Constitution and By-Laws for City, Semi-Metropolitan and Metropolitan Associations

JAMES W. McCANDLESS

Pamphlet, 1.00; 12 for 10.00

Program Paper, No. 6

Sample documents based on reviews and analysis of a considerable number of such instruments. Several adaptable forms presented. (4)

New York City Survey

ARTHUR L. SWIFT — Cloth, 10.00

This volume contains the results of the 1925 survey of the Young Men's Christian Association in the City of New York. The text is given in full with only a few omissions necessary in the publication of a local survey for general use. (3)

DISCOUNT Available to the Trade is indicated by the figure in parenthesis after the description of each title. For explanation of these symbols (1) (2) (3) (4) see page 5

Operation and Management of the Local Y. M. C. A.

JUDSON J. McKIM Cloth, 1.50

For thirty years the author has been connected with the Y M C A. On more than one occasion he has had to find a way out of a relationship tangle. It is for those who are interested in avoiding such a situation as well as for those who find themselves already in it that this record from experience is set forth. There are chapters on the principles of organization, the Association organization chart, employed staff, and lay committees. The author discusses helpfully the problem of committee and staff organizational relationships and offers a consistent principle of organization as a solution for it. (2)

Organization and Budget Check List

JAMES W. McCANDLESS Pamphlet, 2.00

Program Paper, No. 11

A complete check list of all tasks involved in setting up and operating a building and community program. Valuable either as a guide in organization or in the annual check-up of organization, administrative procedure and budgeting. (4)

Simplified Association Accounting

Program Paper, No. 10

This monograph presents general accounting principles and the Association accounting system with a wealth of illustrative forms and entries, and in language easily understood by men untrained in accounting. Useful alike as a guide to revising and simplifying present local practice in the interest of convenience, economy, and uniformity and as a simple manual on accounting for staff groups. Flexibly adapted to large and small Associations. (4)

Small City Secretaries' Conference Report

Pamphlet, 1.50

Agenda, discussions, and personnel at the first national conference for secretaries of cities of 5,000 to 25,000 population, held at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, 1924. (4)

Smaller City Association, The

Edited by HENRY ISRAEL Pamphlet 2.00

Program Paper, No. 12

A laboratory manual for the guidance of Y. M. C. A's. in centers of approximately 5,000 to 25,000 population in the study and development of their work. (4)

Some Sample Forms for Program Appraisal

Edited by GOODWIN B. WATSON

Pamphlet, 1.00; 12 for 10.00

Program Paper, No. 4

Presents a number of sample forms for such program study making them available for effective use in the hands of local staff secretaries. (4)

Study of the Relations between the Churches and Y M C A in Small Cities

DAVID G. LATSHAW Pamphlet .50

Occasional Studies, No. 1

This report and analysis was drawn from both Church and Association leaders with 520 pastors answering the questionnaire and 199 sent in letters to their denomination commissioner relative to Church-Association cooperation in their towns. The analysis of questionnaire replies gives a fair picture of cooperative activities from local pastor's angle, whereas the 199 letters give a valuable picture of clerical opinion both for and against the Association as an ally of the Church.

Supervision of Group Work

A. J. GREGG Pamphlet, 1.00; 12 for 10.00

Program Paper, No. 9

Mr. Gregg has attempted to summarize the answers of groups of Y M C A secretaries who have been endeavoring to answer such questions as How Shall Groupings be Determined, How are Leaders Recruited, How are Leaders Trained, How is Success Measured. (4)

Uniform Classification of Accounts for Y M C As

Pamphlet .50

A plan for the financial administration of Associations, illustrated with charts, typical balance sheets, and schedules, sufficiently flexible to meet varying local needs. (4)

What is the Y M C A?

PAUL SUPER Cloth, 1.50

A genuine contribution to Association thinking—an interpretation of the Association by one of its world leaders. Mr. Super outlines the functions of the Y M C A, the problems and rewards of service in the movement, and the wide field of helpfulness that the future promises for the Y M C A. (1)

Related Books of Other Publishers

Developing Executive Ability

ENOCH BURTON GOWIN Cloth 4.00

A book of unusual value to secretaries who wish to master the skills which have to do with office efficiency, personal management, and human relationships. Extremely readable; definite and practical in its suggestions.

Institutional Household Administration

LYDIA SOUTHARD Cloth 2.00

A valuable handbook by an instructor in Institutional Administration at Teachers College, covering such subjects as housekeeping methods, purchasing, and care of equipment, direction of employees, and house management.

Membership and Publicity

Advertising the Young Men's Christian Association

Pamphlet, 1.00

This is a study by the Advertising and Planning Committee of the Association of Membership Secretaries, supplemented by observation of trends covering eight years experience of the Association of Membership Secretaries and the Membership Service of the National Council, in attempting to adapt modern advertising to the Young Men's Christian Associations. It is a study full of interesting disclosures and can serve as a guide to many Associations concerned about this problem. (4)

Assimilation into Membership

A. W. ALLEY — Pamphlet, 2.00

The greatest Membership Problem facing the average Association is that of assimilation as an answer to this problem, "Assimilation Into Membership" was erected. This pamphlet is a companion piece to "Revitalizing Membership" and develops certain theories outlined in the first pamphlet showing how they have been definitely proven and put to work by local Associations. The appalling turnover and high membership mortality evident throughout the country can almost invariably be traced to the fact that these "drop outs" were not assimilated properly into the program of the Association. This pamphlet shows the way to a solution that will mean a higher continuance and a more satisfied membership throughout the country. (4)

Informing Your Public

IRVING SQUIRE and KIRTLAND A. WILSON

Cloth, 1.50

Here is the answer to the Y. M. C. A. secretary who is concerned with the question as to how he can best secure helpful publicity for the Association. It gives him the information necessary in carrying on an aggressive, intelligent information program. The authors have stressed spiritual values as a real point of contact with the public which at once enlists the interest of every intelligent editor. The book is written painstakingly and intelligently by authors who have had experience in the publicity field for the Association, and have developed a technique, which they place at the disposal of Associations, and it is a treatise on the subject of helpful, constructive publicity written in an idealistic, yet practical way. The foreword written by James Wright Brown, editor and publisher, testifies to the soundness of treatment and to the experiences and competency of the authors. (1)

A. M. S.—Membership Service

$5.00 per year.

Secretaries or laymen wishing to keep in constant touch with all the new material, constructive membership, publicity, advertising and promotion ideas, emanating from the Association of Membership Secretaries and Membership Service, should be enrolled as members of the Association of Membership Secretaries. Checks should be sent to A. W. Alley, Secretary-Treasurer, Room 712, 347 Madison Avenue, New York City. This exceedingly helpful service provides inclusion in the special mailing list, covers occasional individual correspondence help on membership problems, and includes the Membership Bulletin and all A. M. S. reports as issued.

Revitalizing Membership

A. W. ALLEY — Pamphlet 1.25

There is a growing consciousness on the part of Associations throughout the country that Membership in the Young Men's Christian Association should be more meaningful, and honest effort is being made in many quarters to make a thorough study of how the meaning of membership may be made more vital. To Associations making such a study, the pamphlet, "Revitalizing Membership" is inestimable worth. It is a searching inquiry of the implications involved. It treats with present practices and analyses the situation, but it goes further and points the way to the solution of this problem. Boards of Directors and Membership Committees of Associations are finding this a helpful tool. (4)

Style

L. ARMSTRONG KERN

Pamphlet, .25; 12 for 2.50; 50 for 8.75

The manual for Association men who write is a most helpful little booklet for those who do not have any particular knowledge or experience of newspaper writing. "Style" has brought together the best prevailing customs, a veritable gold mine of information, which the average laymen has no way of discovering in the routine course of events. (4)

Emblem Club Report

Pamphlet, 1.00

A review of this least expensive method of securing enrollments in Y M C A activities—now in use in over 225 Y M C As. This A. M. S. report gives complete details and information to aid Associations in establishing Emblem Clubs, keeping them enthused and producing.

Invaluable suggestions on organization, routine, relationships, and a thorough analysis of the Association secretaryship, written by a man who has had opportunity for conference and study of methods in almost every Association in America and the Orient. (1)

Training Group Leaders

A. J. GREGG Pamphlet, .25; 12 for 2.50; 50 for 8.75

The new type of program requires a new type of leader. He needs a different kind of training. Where can he get it? How can he be helped in his search for it? It was with this demand in mind that these fifteen discussion outlines were planned. They aim to "help leaders see the meaning of what they do and build out of their own experience both a philosophy and a method for doing their tasks." (4)

Activities of the Executive Secretary

L. W. BARTLETT, R. M. HOGAN, and A. W. BOYD Cloth, 2.00

For the first time there is available a scientifically constructed picture of what the executive secretary does. One of the most exhaustive techniques of job analysis has been used. The resulting analysis is treated with reference to improved training provisions, but has considerable interest and value for all secretaries.

Constructive Citizenship

L. P. JACKS Cloth, 2.00

From an unusual life of leadership in affairs of religion, education, labor, and latterly adult education, Principal Jacks brings forward a conception of work-life-faith as a unity expressed thru skill, trusteeship, and scientific method. He presents a basic social philosophy for individual workmanship which illuminates every occupational relationship, and the Association secretaryship not least of all.

Mainsprings of Men

WHITING WILLIAMS Cloth, 2.00

One of the few books which offers fresh insight into perhaps the most important personnel problem of all—what the worker wants as a person. Mr. Williams prepared to write this book by several years of actual labor among the men he writes about. The most readable book on the subject.

Principles of Employment Psychology

H. E. BURTT Cloth 3.00

This volume, written in forceful everyday language attempts to set forward the whole field of practices which have developed in recent years under the general heading of personal science. Possibly the best bird's eye view of the subject at the present time. Excellent bibliography. A good book to begin with.

Procedures in Employment Psychology

W. V. BINGHAM and MAX FREYD 3.00

Anyone who employs other people whether on a publicly or private supported budget should be aware of the devices which have become available through modern personnel science. The authors have attempted to set forth the best of these in useful and tangible form for business executives.

Professional and Business Ethics

C. F. TAEUSCH 3.00

Professional ethics in whatever field, the secretaryship included, has been a slow development of actual practice which presently won approval. Dr. Taeusch traces this development in the major professional and business fields, studies the trends and social philosophy of current relationships.

Training for Group Experience

ALFRED DWIGHT SHEFFIELD Boards 1.50

An excellent analysis to aid the general secretary and his staff who are trying to rethink the educational purpose of their whole enterprise. This book re-studies against the background of experience of the Association and a number of other national organizations, the educational function of the class, the committee, the special group conference.

Vocational Information: A Bibliography

The Committee on Vocational Counsel and Placement Paper, .50

In this most recent excellent bibliography of books and articles giving the facts and opportunities in 109 occupational fields, the Association secretary and lay counsellor will find critical descriptions and library references right at hand when they face one of the most exacting personnel tasks of all—that of giving dependable vocational counsel to a boy or young man.

ADEQUATE BUDGETING FOR BOOKS

—for vital, Christian character producing work with boys and men in these rapidly changing times—

does it strike you that it is more necessary to budget adequately for growth material than for salary or office expense. Results of studies—of research—of program development—rich experience reduced to the written page—each one carefully scrutinized and critically appraised before publication—are all listed in this Catalog in abundance.

There are many books and pamphlets that will set going in your mind new visions—new ideals—surer inspirations and truer determinations to make your own specific task more resultful.

You budget annually for postage, for salaries, for light, and heat, as a matter of routine, but are you budgeting at all adequately for the very helps upon which your entire present and future work depend—new ideas—new inspiration—new courage for the gigantic task ahead?

"He that stands still—stands not still—but floats unconsciously backward along the stream of life."

Work With Boys

The books in this section have been arranged so that boys' work secretaries and group leaders can quickly find adequate resources around the more common problems which they face in their work with boys.

The four main headings are expected to be helpful in grouping resources around general problems of the Young Men's Christian Association and around the problems of specific age groups. There is a special classification for problems mainly for boys' work secretaries.

Please report to Association Press the circumstances around any effort you make to locate resources in this Catalog which fail to give you satisfaction. Such experiences will be of great value in the next issue of the Catalog.

Books of General Interest to Boys' Workers

SIR ARTHUR K. YAPP, K.B.E. — Cloth, 1.50

Sir Arthur Yapp has spent 40 years in intimate touch with youth and with the problems of young men and boys. In this book, Sir Arthur deals with many such problems and suggests ways in which they may be faced and dealt with. Some parts of the book are intended more especially for parents and workers in the service of youth. The book is divided in six main sections—the Adventures of Youth, of Manhood and Womanhood, of Sport, of Service, of Youth Overseas; and the Adventure of Adventures.

Education for a Changing Civilization

W. H. KILPATRICK — Cloth, 1.00

This little book contains three readable lectures bearing upon the objectives and processes of education in a civilization which is changing rapidly. It helps to define the alterations which our educational systems must undergo to prepare children properly for such changes.

Foundations of Method

W. H. KILPATRICK — Cloth, 2.00

By an informal conversational method, the processes of education in our public schools are discussed around the problems which arise in a school. The psychology of the learning process is the background of each discussion. The method of presentation will appeal to some but bother others. The meat of the book is worth getting at whatever cost.

Understanding Our Children

FREDERICK PIERCE — Cloth, 2.00

A most useful study of some character-conduct problems of the family. The author appeals largely to practical common sense in his examination of the emotional bases of conflict.

What Ails our Youth

GEORGE A. COE — Pamphlet, 1.00

"What chiefly ails our youth is that they have not the right kind of parents and teachers," says Dr. Coe. In this book, the problem of youth in modern civilization is taken up from a different angle, that of school and church, and the conclusions drawn by the author throw an interesting light on the relationship between youth and those organizations. A book for every minister, Sunday school leader, and parent.

Father and Son

Adventure of a Prodigal Father

F. H. CHELEY — Paper boards, 1.00

Five Minutes a Day

H. W. GIBSON
Pamphlet .25; 12 for 2.50; 50 for 8.75

For use of boys, older and younger, a scripture passage for each day, with brief thought provoking suggestions. The daily readings for the week are grouped under such timely topics as "Cheerfulness," "Words," "Self Control," "Honesty," "Service," "Work," "Prayer," "Conscience," "Decision."

While arranged primarily for devotional use, it is frequently used for topical Bible study groups. (4)

Heroes

HUGH ANDERSON MORAN Cloth 1.00

The author asked the members of his discussion groups to list "Heroes,"—the result was this textbook for use with older boy groups. Bible passages for each day and special weekly comments on these heroes "not in the Bible" make this a particularly valuable book for hero-loving boys. The life history of twelve great heroes are studied with especial emphasis on their boyhood in order to show the forces and influences that resulted in their achievements. (1)

How Jesus Met Life Questions

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT Cloth .75

A "Problem Discussion" series book.

The whole viewpoint of the approach to the life of Jesus is that of considering the issues he met. The reader is confronted, not by comment on Scripture passages, but by one searching question after another. The use of Moffatt's translation of the New Testament for the Scripture passages gives a further freshness of approach. (1)

Jesus and a Boy's Philosophy of Life

Edited by L. K. HALL Cloth, .60

A course of twelve lessons which proceed logically in helping a boy between the ages of fifteen and twenty-one to see the implications of Jesus' life upon the way he, himself, looks at life. This is more than a problem discussion course, and it does not confine itself to textbook Biblical material. Rather, it picks up the boy's interest in Jesus and God and by the skillful use of resource materials which are placed in the back part of the book helps him to build up a philosophy of life like that of Jesus. (1)

Jesus in the Records

H. B. SHARMAN Thin paper, cloth, 1.25

A single record of the material covered by Matthew, Mark and Luke, arranged in the order of the synoptic record. At the beginning of each chapter (divided into sections for daily reading) is the Purpose and a method for the Study, and at its close stimulating questions on the content, with the emphasis on the personal study of the records themselves. The book forms a direct study of the Life and Teachings of Jesus. It is a most helpful guide to the student, to the professor, and to the leader of a Bible study group. (1)

Jesus' Measure of a Christian

ARTHUR RUGH
Pamphlet, paper, .40; 12 for 4.00; 50 for 14.00

Here is a Bible course for thirteen weeks of intimate fellowship with Jesus in a study of his characteristics, life program, dealing with temptation, prayer, working with others, meeting social need and other themes of lively interest to older boys of this generation. Daily readings, search-stimulating questions, and problems for group discussion are included in this unusually helpful course. (4)

The topics have grown out of actual experiences with Hi-Y groups, and include such subjects as "School Spirit," "Leadership," "Life Decisions," "Chivalry," "The Right Use of Time." (4)

Life Questions of School Boys

JEREMIAH W. JENKS — Paper board, 1.00

Boys may accept the conclusions of someone else about the important things of life—work, play, love, worship—or they may think out their own philosophy. To arrive at sane conclusions they must recognize all the facts. To guide their thinking by helping them to see all sides of these vital questions is the purpose of this book. For a discussion of the ethics of high school boys this book offers basic material on such topics as custom, fraternities, profanity, lying, cheating, gambling, attitude toward work, sex, politics, success. (1)

Manhood of the Master

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Thin paper, cloth, pocket size 1.35; Full Morocco, gilt edges, 3.25

An Older Boy's Problems
E. F. DEXTER .35; 12 for 3.50; 50 for 12.25

A series of twenty-seven discussion outlines on questions raised by high school boys on individual, group and social problems, with valuable suggestions to adult leaders. Each topic from "Amusements" and "Athletics" to "work" is complete in itself and is arranged for use at the time of special need. (4)

Social Theory of Religious Education, A
GEORGE ALBERT COE Cloth, 1.75

Professor Coe begins, not with a list of things that should be taught, but with the kind of society he regards most desirable. A "course" in social living consists, according to him, not in formally outlined sets of ideas, but in a series of problems to be solved; and these—not problems imported into youth's world by the teacher but those found in the enterprises already there.

Camping and Character

HEDLEY S. DIMOCK and CHARLES E. HENDRY

Cloth, 3.50

Five experimental years in a camp where the social situations in camp were guided by the best educational procedures possible, have yielded a guiding book for camp directors, camp leaders and counsellors and all educators interested in camp as an educational medium. It is the first book of its kind on camp program and its character outcomes.

This camp dealt with all ages of boys—in a great variety of outdoor handicraft, skill, nature study and other character building situations.

The leadership training, supervisory and administrative procedures are most stimulating to better practices for all camps.

Here is a theory of camping fashioned from the experiences of camp life under the guidance of the best that is known about the social and individual growth of boys, leaders and their supervisors. (1)

Camping for Boys

H. W. GIBSON Buckram, illustrated, 1.75

This is one of those books which will always have a good deal to contribute to the man who is starting out to organize a boy's camp and who needs practical suggestions. It deals with the selection of the site, sanitation, care of the sick and injured and many matters of program. (1)

Camp Recreations and Pageants

MARI RUEF HOFER Cloth, 2.25

A book of useful suggestions for the conduct of recreation features in summer camps. The author has had a wide experience in the preparation of pageants. (1)

Quartettes and Choruses

Cloth, single copy, .50; per dozen, 5.00

(For men's voices).

A collection of old songs that are not worn out and new ones that will live to be old. Part of the selections are sacred, but favorite melodies are added for social occasions. (4)

Sanctuary, The

GEORGE STEWART

Pamphlet, .50; 12 for 5.00; 50 for 17.00

In compiling these services of prayer and praise, Dr. Stewart has rendered a service which reaches far beyond the boundaries of the church of which he is a member. Prayer and praise are not denominational. All significant contributions to them are contributions to a common stock, and beyond their immediate use possess this additional value, that they promote the cause of Christian unity, (4)

Songs for Young and Old

Pamphlet, .50

National Council of Canada, Toronto, Can.

An interesting collection of songs for all occasions for use in group work, mass meetings, camps and hiking or canoe trips. Folk songs of fine musical quality predominate, but hymns and worship services are provided which appeal to youth. Altogether these are songs which people love to sing.

Discussion Materials

Boy Camper's Problems, A

ROLAND W. URE

.75; 12 for 7.50; Student's edition, .10; 12 for 1.00. Special sets consisting of 12 Leader's Guides and 100 Student's for 13.50

In this book a man not too far beyond boyhood himself presents for discussion some of those problems which boys face together in camp and therefore in life. The material has grown out of actual experiences in two camps for boys. (4)

Measuring Results

Behavior Frequency Scales

Pamphlet, .05; 12 for .50; 100 for 3.50; 1000 for 25.00

Camp Directors and Tent Leaders have been puzzled about getting acquainted quickly and thoroughly with the boys in their tents. These Scales help both in getting at needed information and in watching a boy's behavior in camp and comparing it with what other knowledge the scales give. It is just the device needed to better our camp work with individual boys. (4)

Camp Evaluation Blanks

Pamphlet, .40 a set; 12 for 4.00

The old camp Standardization Blanks created the demand for a way of getting at the real values of a camp to boys and leaders. These scales, check lists and rating devices have been provided to meet the demand.

All students of camping, A. B. W. S. Camp Conferences, Camp Directors, Boys' Work Secretaries, Boys' Committeemen and General Secretaries should face their camps under the guidance of the appraisals which these blanks help to provide. (4)

Process of Group Thinking, The

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT Cloth, 3.00

Mr. Elliott has confined himself entirely to voluntary discussion groups, conferences and conventions, leaving out academic work entirely. This makes the book all the more valuable for the Y M C A field. These chapters explain Elliott's philosophy and method, telling both what they are and what they are not. This is a volume beaten out in actual experiences, there are many valuable practical suggestions on the preparation and conduct of discussions. (1)

E. C. FOSTER Revised edition, Cloth, 1.25

A book for leaders of boys' Bible classes. Studies in first principles adapted for use in the early stages of teaching. The author is an authority on the conduct of boys' classes. (1)

The Tool Chest Club—1929-30

This offer contains ten tools for 5.00. If purchased separately they would cost 7.50.

Tool No. 1—Boys Work to Match the Times

Pamphlet, .75; 12 for 7.50

This is an ingenious educational interpretation of the Y. M. C. A. principles of Boys' work as exemplified by actual Association experiences with boys. A great thing for Boards, contributors and parents who need to understand the Association Boys' Work. (3)

Tool No. 2—Evaluation and Measurement of Boys' Work

Pamphlet, 1.50; 12 for 15.00

A very useful series of eighteen scales, check lists and information-gathering blanks by which to study the Associations "Group and Groupings," Volunteer leaders, Membership and use of Equipment, Committee Service and Appraisal of Results. Of use to secretaries, committeemen, A. B. W. S. Meetings, Boards of Directors. (3)

Tool No. 3— The Hi-Y Movement

Pamphlet, .25

A popular, gripping presentation of the facts, purposes and attainments of the Hi-Y Movement. For wide distribution to school authorities, ministers, boys and contributors who should know about the Hi-Y. State imprint editions will be popular. (3)

Hi-Y Members and Officers Book

Pamphlet, .25

A book to be carried in the pocket of every Hi-Y member, for dates, instructions about Hi-Y duties and privileges, school events and daily personal memoranda. (3)

Hi-Y Tool Chest

Pamphlet, .50; 12 for 5.00

Ways of helping secretaries and leaders of Hi-Y Clubs face and make the most of the things Hi-Y Clubs want to do. A great variety of tools are offered. All of them could not be used in one year, but the confidence they inspire and the skill they give to leaders will help greatly in bettering the quality of Hi-Y work. State Officers and all Metropolitan and County and City Associations should keep supplies of this chest on hand for Hi-Y leaders and Hi-Y Retreats and Training Camps. (3)

Tool No. 4—Messenger Club Manual

Pamphlet, .75; 12 for 7.50

In every city of any size there are messenger boys. This manual tells secretaries and leaders how to deal with the employing company officials, with the boys and with all the situations of a Messenger Club. It ought to help solve the work with this difficult grouping and increase mightily the Association's contribution to these boys. (3)

Tool No. 5—A. R. E. B. Clubs

Pamphlet, .50

(American Railroad Employed Boys Clubs) Growing out of the Railroad Conferences of railroad boys, have come an increasing number of A. R. E. B. Clubs. This manual tells how to deal with Railroad officials, with boys and with A. R. E. B. Clubs. It is a handy tool for all secretaries, interested railroad officials, officers of A. R. E. B. Clubs and leaders. (3)

Tool No. 6—A Boys' Club History

Pamphlet, .35

Often the story of how one club made a success is just what is needed to help some other club solve a hampering difficulty. By stressing the methods used in successful clubs, real contributions will be made to struggling clubs. Such is the contribution of this history to leaders, secretaries and club officers. (3)

Tool No. 7—Cumulative Record

Folder, 12 for 1.30

A tool to help secretaries and leaders of Association, Church and interest groups do better, more thorough personal work with boys. The record provides for the collection of the important life facts of each boy each year and comparing these facts with preceding years. The moving forces in the life of a boy can be discovered and interpretated to him much to the boy's advantage and growth toward Christian Citizenship. A folder should be used for each boy in the the group. (3)

Tool No. 8—The Problem of Grouping

J. C. McCASKILL Pamphlet, 1.00; 12 for 10.00

Which group of the many to which a boy belongs influences his character most? Some people would say his Sunday School, some would say his home, some would say the boys' group in which he shares most interests and spends the most time. It would be difficult to answer this question generally but it must be answered for each boy.

With which group of the many to which a boy belongs should the Association ally its influences? How can this best be done? This is also a difficult question for many local Associations have prior loyalties to churches. Some have their best relationships with schools. Some have relations only with boy groups in the Association building.

For several years, J. C. McCaskill, while in New York City and later in Montclair, N. J., has been experimenting with and studying boy grouping in order to answer to his own satisfaction these two problems—i.e., which group influences boy character most and how can the Association work best with these most productive groupings.

This tool will have great usefulness for all secretaries and all leaders dealing with boy groups; for A.B.W.S. Study, Summer School Groups and Religious Educators generally. (3).

Supervision of Group Work

A. J. GREGG Pamphlet 1.00

Program Paper, No. 9

There is widespread conviction that the best reason why we do not have better group work is because secretaries do not know enough about supervising the efforts of boys and leaders in a creative way.

This Program Paper attempts to describe what the processes and procedures of a creative supervisory would be around the main tasks in group work. (4)

Training Group Leaders

A. J. GREGG Pamphlet, .25; 12 for 2.50; 50 for 8.75

The new type of program requires a new type of leader. He needs a different kind of training. Where can he get it? How can he be helped in his search for it? It was with this demand in mind that these fifteen discussion outlines were planned. They aim to "help leaders see the meaning of what they do and build out of their own experience both a philosophy and a method for doing their tasks." (4)

Bearing of Psychology upon Religion, The

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT Cloth, 1.00

Psychology has been finding out many things about human nature. Many of these things have a direct bearing upon personal religious experience. The focus of this problem is in relation to the kind of God in whom one can believe and the place of prayer in life. This is the problem discussed by one who is a psychologist as well as religious educator. The book is a clear exposition of the way in which psychology may enrich all of one's personal religious experience. (1)

Work With Young Men

The Young Men's Christian Association as a Religious Educational Movement

Viewing the Young Men's Christian Association as essentially a Christian Educational Movement, there is listed in this section all the books and pamphlets of Association Press and many other excellent books and pamphlets of other publishers related to a large variety of interests and subjects.

Frankly, the topical arrangement of this section may not be as perfect as might be desired; also, it is very probable that some titles may have been listed under certain headings which some might consider should be properly listed under others.

Association Press would be delighted to receive constructive criticisms and suggestions around both groupings and listings. The arrangement is offered with a sincere desire to provide for the Association Movement and for individual workers with young men and men of all types and under all environments an aid in the application of Jesus' principles to all of life's manifold relations.

Viewpoint and Technique

Bearing of Psychology Upon Religion
HARRISON SACKET ELLIOT Cloth, 1.00

Three short readable essays written to help those who are trying to rethink their religious faith in terms of a more adequate understanding of human nature. (1)

Case Studies for Teachers of Religion
GOODWIN B. WATSON and GLADYS H. WATSON
Cloth, 3.00

Something refreshingly new for Bible school teachers or club leaders, for use individually or in training classes. Actual situations that have arisen in classes or clubs are presented, accompanied by provocative questions and helpful suggestions quoted from a variety of modern educators. (1)

Experimentation and Measurement in Religious Education
GOODWIN B. WATSON Cloth, 3.75

A remarkably useful guide to anyone who is trying to find out how recent advances in experimental method can be made useful in his practical situation. Summarizes the various possible methods of approach to a problem, tells what tests are available, how to make others, and how to interpret results. Largely illustrated from Association experiments. Written with a lightness of touch that robs even the sections of statistics of some of their terrors. (1)

DISCOUNT Available to the Trade is indicated by the figure in parenthesis after the description of each title. For explanation of these symbols, (1), (2), (3), (4), see page 5.

Group Leaders and Boy Character

ABEL GREGG Cloth, 1.50

Here in one little volume is the gist of the Association's experience in the leadership of boyhood. The book tells how to start to help a group of boys, how to build a program, how to develop the best in the boys of the group—in short, it is a complete primer on leadership. Without assuming to be so, it is really a text book on sound educational method in the guidance of group work in church, Scouts, Y M C A, or school. (2)

Process of Group Thinking

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT Cloth, 3,00

Mr. Elliott has confined himself entirely to voluntary discussion groups, conferences and conventions, leaving out academic work entirely. This makes the book all the more valuable for the Y M C A field. These chapters explain Elliott's philosophy and method, telling both what they are and what they are not. This is a volume beaten out in actual experience. For this reason the suggestions are all the more helpful. A book for discussion group leaders. (1)

Experiments with Religious Education Tests

GOODWIN B. WATSON

Pamphlet, 1.50; 12 for 15.00

Program Paper, No. 5

Report submitted to Committee on Religious Education Examinations. Of particular interest to all concerned with the development of better procedures in religious education. (4)

Related Books of Other Publishers

About Ourselves

HARRY A. OVERSTREET Cloth, 3.00

How Y M C A members, politicians, our wives, our children and other folks (perhaps even ourselves) act in different circumstances and why.

The Conquest of Fear

BASIL KING Cloth, 2.00; popular edition, 1.00

A practical and understandable book for the modern man who faces this common life problem. Fear and the life principle; the life principle and God are the titles of first two chapters that indicate the range of the author's own difficult but radiant experience with the all too common enemy. It strengthens one's grip on himself because it points the way to contact with the power of God.

Modern Educational Theories

B. H. BODE Cloth, 1.80

Professor Bode analyzes some current theories of education as represented by such leaders as Bobbitt, Charters, Kilpatrick, and many others. He deals pointedly with the social basis of an education which should be adequate for a democracy, and gives a timely analysis of the weakness and strength of both the measurement movement in education, and the conception of training as self-directed activity in life situations.

An Experiment in A Project Curriculum

ELLSWORTH COLLINGS Cloth, 2.40

A three year controlled experiment with the free approach to education in a public school system is here described. Most interesting is the method used in the experimental school, and the fascinating variety of activities which the children undertook.

How We Think

JOHN DEWEY Cloth, 2.50

An analysis of a complete process of thought is here given. This book has meaning for all who are attempting to think for themselves or to help others to think.

A Preface to Morals

WALTER LIPPMAN Cloth, 2.50

"This book is written for those who can no longer believe in the religion of their fathers, but who are not defiant or indifferent or proud because of their 'freedom', and are at a loss as to how to find a criterion which will give some point to the business of living." It is one of the most encouraging signs of our time that books like this are among the best sellers.

Education for a Changing Civilization

W. H. KILPATRICK Cloth, 1.00

This little book contains three readable lectures bearing upon the objectives and processes of education in a civilization which is changing rapidly. It helps to define the alterations which our educational systems must undergo to prepare children properly for such changes.

Influencing Human Behaviour

H. A. OVERSTREET Cloth, 3.00

All who would be leaders of others in any phase of life, from selling foods to teaching religion, will find here an abundance of everyday illustrations in applied practical psychology. Students, parents, merchants, teachers, writers, are in the author's mind throughout his stimulating chapters on such introductory and fundamental techniques as the following: "The Key Problem: Capturing the Attention", "The Appeal to Wants", "The Problem of Vividness", "Making Ideas Stick", "The Building of Habits", "Straight Thinking", "The Technique of Humor", "Training the Creative Mind."

Personality and Social Adjustment

ERNEST RUTHERFORD GROVES Cloth, 1.75

This book was written for the use of parents, leaders, and teachers of children. It helps one to study the child's personality, to see the forces which are forming it, to view the process, and to develop skill in bringing about desirable social adjustments.

Reality

BURNETT HILLMAN STREETER Cloth, 2.50

Here is a new correlation of science and religion out of the experience of one who found his way by scientific methods from doubt into reality. This book is an endeavor to help the reader to discover Truth. For the college student, for thinking business or professional man, this modern scientist—philosopher—preacher—teacher has a friendly sympathy and presents thought-provoking material on such themes as "Materialism," "Science, Art, Religion," "The Life Force, the Absolute, or God," "Creative Strife," "The Christ," "The Defeat of Evil," "Religion and the New Psychology."

Religious Education

THEODORE GERALD SOARES Cloth, 2.50

Are you still a bit hazy as to just what Religious Education is. Dr. Soares' readable book will help clear up the fog; and it will not ask you to forget what you know about psychology and sociology.

Social Discovery

EDUARD C. LINDEMAN Cloth, 2.00; Paper, 1.00

For all who sense their responsibility to share in the development of community life this "approach to the study of functional groups" is stimulatingly suggestive. The author reviews the following methods of Social Discovery: Historical, Analogical, Logical, and Statistical. His last chapters are careful reviews of the studies of the community groups and their leadership.

Americanization

Civics for Coming Americans

PETER ROBERTS Paper, .60

Nearly a quarter of a million people a year who make application for citizenship in this country! It is not good for them or for the country to have them fail to pass the examinations. Here in concise and reliable form is the information they will need. (2)

English for Coming Americans

PETER ROBERTS

A rational system of teaching English to foreigners quickly by calling to mind the familiar incidents of their daily lives and showing them how to label each idea with the right word. Prepared after years of study of the methods that have been used. Those who have seen or used the system declare it to be the most practical and effective method ever devised. (4)

Bible, Life Study and Discussions

Viewpoint and Training For Leaders

Bearing of Psychology upon Religion

HARRISON S. ELLIOTT — Cloth, 1.00

Psychology has been finding out many things about human nature. Many of these have a direct bearing upon personal religious experience. The focus of this problem is in relation to the kind of God in whom one can believe and the place of prayer in life. This is the problem discussed by one who is a psychologist as well as religious educator. The book is a clear exposition of the way in which psychology may enrich all of one's personal religious experience. (1)

Cooperative Technique for Conflict

"INQUIRY" SERIES

Pamphlet, .20; 12 for 2.00; 50 for 7.00

Factors which help group discussion to develop real "interthinking" instead of mere clash of opinion are outlined in this booklet. (4)

Creative Discussion

A. D. SHEFFIELD

Pamphlet .50; 5.00 per doz.; 50 for 17.50

"Group Discussion" is a phrase and a method much used and abused today. This pamphlet distinguishes clearly the difference between "creative discussion" and aimless conversation or debate. It goes further and gives concrete suggestions for creating a situation where discussion can take place, for leading the discussion, for making it really valuable to the whole group. The place of the leader in discussion, of authorities, of books, of individual members of the group all are set forth in this handy manual. All the suggestions are made in terms of concrete cases. (4)

Facing Student Problems

A. BRUCE CURRY — Pamphlet, 1.00

C.C.A. Series.

A book for leaders of discussion groups. The result of Mr. Curry's experiences in his work among the colleges. This book takes up with straightforward sincerity and force the typical questions that student groups must face. (1)

Bible Study, Problem and Discussion Material

Adventurous Religion

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK Cloth, 2.50

Essays seeking to blaze a new path through the perplexities of the religious situation in America today. Adventurous or cautious according to the reader's viewpoint, but certainly a stimulating presentation of liberal thought. (1)

Attitudes Toward Other Faiths

DANIEL JOHNSON FLEMING
Cloth, 1.75; paper, 1.25

The passing of human isolation, so characteristic of these days, brings with it an interplay of cultures. One aspect of this involves the relationship of religions. This volume is an effort to face the increasing religious contacts which lie ahead, with attitudes refined by the spirit of Christ and marked by a love capable of being both discriminating and unconventionally creative. This is a book for the secretary, members of the World Service Committees, and others who are working with the problems of world brotherhood. (1)

Challenge to Life Service

HARRIS-ROBBINS Cloth, 1.25

A "College Voluntary Course" book.

Holding up to view the great task of the Church, these studies call the individual to responsible relationship to that task. Specific information is given regarding the opportunities for life dedication. (1)

Christ and the Kingdom of God

S. H. HOOKE Cloth, 1.00

A fresh point of view of the mission of Christ. The value of this book for use in study circles as well as for private use lies in the many helpfully suggestive lines of thought opened up and in the clarity with which the author has brought out two widely different approaches to the subject. (1)

Christ in Everyday Life

E. I. BOSWORTH Thin paper, cloth, pocket size 1.25

An "Everyday Life" book.

The style is graphic, the application is personal and gives us the Christian view of the problems of daily living. A devotional book for older boys and young men. A good outline to follow in employed staff meetings. Arranged for thirty-five weeks. (1)

Christian Standards in Life

Gospel Out of Doors

FRANCIS E. CLARK Craft buckram, 1.00

Dr. Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, reveals in this book a wealth of geniality and humor. He tells of the joys of "the seed catalog," "farming as a moral equivalent for war," and, all in all, weaves about the reader a magic spell. (1)

DISCOUNT Available to the Trade is indicated by the figure in parenthesis after the description of each title. For explanation of these symbols, (1), (2), (3), (4), see page 5.

How Jesus Met Life Questions

A "Problem Discussion" series book.

The whole viewpoint of the approach to the life of Jesus is that of considering the issues he met. The reader is confronted, not by comment on Scripture passages, but by one searching question after another. The use of Moffatt's translation of the New Testament for the Scripture passages gives a further freshness of approach. (1)

Daily Bible Readings based on "How Jesus Met Life Questions." Pamphlet, .15; 12 for 1.50; 50 for 5.25. (4)

How We Got Our Denominations

STANLEY I. STUBER — Cloth, 2.00

This volume is one for which many readers have been waiting. It is a brief and direct story of the origin and development of the churches. The author has avoided as far as possible all references to obscure controversies and all technical terms which are not essential to the main story. It will be found useful either for class or individual study. (1)

International Problems and the Christian Way of Life

Jesus in the Experience of Men

T. R. GLOVER — Cloth, 1.50

A book that in its sound scholarship, deep spirituality and literary charm suggests the author's "The Jesus of History," which so many thousands of readers have learned to prize. Like Dr. Glover's earlier volume, this one demonstrates afresh that "Jesus of Nazareth does stand in the center of human history, and that he has brought God and man into a new relation." (1)

Jesus in the Records

H. B. SHARMAN — Thin paper, cloth, 1.25

A single record of the material covered by Matthew, Mark, and Luke, arranged in the order of the synoptic record. At the begining of each chapter (divided into sections for daily reading) is the Purpose and a Method for the Study, and at its close stimulating questions on the content, with the emphasis on the personal study of the records themselves. The book forms a direct study of the Life and Teachings of Jesus. It is a most helpful guide to the student, to the professor, and to the leader of a Bible study group. (1)

Jesus' Measure of a Christian

Meaning of Faith

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Thin paper, cloth, pocket size, 1.35
Full morocco, gilt edges, 3.25

An "Everyday Life" book.

It clears away the misapprehension involved in the commonly accepted theories of faith, indicates the relationship of faith to other aspects of life, and faces frankly the serious question of suffering as an obstacle to faith. Combines in a rare degree intellectual instruction with a warmth of emotional appeal. Arranged for twelve weeks. (1)

Meaning of Prayer

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Thin paper, cloth, pocket size, 1.35
Full morocco, gilt edges, 3.25

An "Everyday Life" book.

This vitally helpful book throws much light on God's attitude towards us and our needs. The author considers three phases of prayer: as communion with God; as petition for the things we need; and as the expression of dominant desire. Arranged for ten weeks. (1)

Meaning of Service

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK
Cloth, round corners, pocket size, 1.35
Full morocco, gilt edges, 3.25

An "Everyday Life" book.

Today's problems call for a type of Christianity which shall express itself in serviceable action. A life that rightly conceives of PRAYER, that is dominated by FAITH, must be serviceable. This is a call for complete expression of the Christian life through SERVICE. Arranged for twelve weeks.

A Specially Bound Set of Fosdick's three "Meanings."

"The Meaning of Prayer"

"The Meaning of Faith"

"The Meaning of Service"

Modern Use of the Bible, The

Cloth, 2.00

Some people feel greatly disturbed in their thinking about the Bible as an authoritative and sacred book because of what science and the scientific study of history, particularly as applied to Bible lands, times, peoples, and characters, have recently revealed. Dr. Fosdick meets that situation squarely and helpfully, giving one new assurance in the continued use of the Bible as reinterpreted in the light of modern knowledge. (1)

New Studies in Acts

E. I. BOSWORTH Cloth, 1.50

An enlightening discussion of the significant events which accompanied the growth of the conception that Christianity was not merely a Jewish sect but a universal religion, and of the equally stirring happenings connected with the taking of the Gospel to other lands and peoples. (1)

Psalms of the Social Life

CLELAND B. McAFEE
Thin paper, cloth, pocket size, 1.25

An "Everyday Life" book.

Studies in the Psalms. A sympathetic unfolding of the significance of some of the most wonderful messages of Hebrew poetry. Shows how the Psalms grew out of the actual lives of men who were vividly conscious both of God and of humanity. Arranged for thirteen weeks. (1)

Records of the Life of Jesus

H. B. SHARMAN Cloth, 2.50

Produced in the language and in the order of the original records. By a unique arrangement all of the advantages of the old Harmonies are retained without any of their disadvantages. The consecutive story of each Gospel is told, but the arrangement allows for comparison of the same page of matter appearing in two or more Gospels. It has been the plan to show on each page all related material from all parts of the records. (1)

Social Principles of Jesus

WALTER RAUSCHENBUSH Cloth, pocket size, 1.25

A "College Voluntary Course" book.

An author who stands preeminent in the field of social Christianity gives in these vivid studies his conception of the social principles enunciated by Jesus. The treatment is original and marked by constant reference to the present conditions that Christians are facing. Arranged for twelve weeks. (1)

Social Significance of the Teachings of Jesus

JEREMIAH W. JENKS — Cloth, 1.00

A professor of political economy and politics shows how the teachings which Jesus applied in his own life fit themselves into the view and practices of the best thinkers of the present day. Jesus' attitude toward individual responsibility, pleasures, wealth, poverty, crime and criminals, and social reform are some of the topics considered. (1)

Story of Jesus

THOMAS W. GRAHAM, Editor — Cloth, 1.50

A complete record of Matthew, Mark, and Luke in a single narrative—an interweaving of all the material in these gospels into a single story. Dr. Moffatt's translation has been used. The editor's introduction and footnotes supplying the historical and religious background for the story make the book a course in itself. (1)

Student Standards of Action

ELLIOTT-CUTLER — Cloth, pocket size, 1.25

A "College Voluntary Course" book.

Twelve outstanding student questions have been considered from the viewpoint of Jesus' standards for action. The text has grown out of the widest discussion and experimentation in local colleges, and has been prepared by men intimately acquainted with students and their problems. (1)

Cloth, 4.00; new cheaper edition, 2.00

A Study in Human Nature.
"The Varieties of Religious Experience" carried the philosophy of religion from a world of abstractions into the living world of reality. Taking the psychological experiences of fervent believers and zealots, William James studied them from the viewpoint of the experimental psychologist, explaining sympathetically but scientifically such spiritual phenomena as conversion, repentance, aspiration, hope, despair, saintliness and the experience of mysticism.

With Christ as Guide
A. HERBERT GRAY Paper, 1.00

An apprehension of Christianity. This little book has fallen into three parts. The first is an account of the personality of Jesus. The second is an attempt to realize what are the religious convictions and experiences to which Jesus leads. And the third is a more negative section which dissociates the religion of Jesus from some of the hampering and perplexing accretions which have been formed around it.

Plays and Pageants

The plays listed below have been chosen for the following reasons:

1. They portray the life of Jesus and his times vividly and reverently.
2. They are flexibly constructed and can be cut and generally modified for amateur presentation.
3. They are supplied with complete directions by the authors for making the simple scenery and costumes as well as for changing the action of the play to meet various conditions.

All the plays have been widely used and are recommended by the Drama League of America and the Federal Council of Churches of America.

Appropriate times for presenting these plays would be at the Christmas or Easter season, although they might well be produced any time during the year.

They may be given for an intimate circle of friends, for a general audience, in place of a church service, or under other conditions.

The Last Passover Night

W. H. T. GAIRDNER Paper, .35

This is a short and impressive account of Christ's last supper with his disciples. The speeches are simply phrased in Biblical form. The parts of Christ and Judas require careful acting. There are thirteen characters and some extras.

The Nativity

ROSAMOND KIMBALL Paper, .35

This is an excellent arrangement of the Biblical accounts of the Nativity: Zacharias in the temple, the Annunciation, the shepherds in the field, the visits of the shepherds and the wise men.

All the speaking is done by a reader which makes amateur presentation easy and effective. Fifteen characters, a choir, and a reader are required. Only four or five rehearsals are necessary.

The Rock

MARY P. HAMLIN
55 pages, 1¼ hrs. playing time, .50

A very good, rather long play on the life of Peter. It can be cut however. It shows his struggles, his weakness, and his strength. Written simply, it creates an atmosphere of the times. The speeches are not difficult; the characters are interesting and the descriptions of the crucifixion are poignant. Of the eleven characters, three are women with important parts, which can be shortened if necessary.

The Terrible Meek

CHARLES RANN KENNEDY 44 pages, 2.00

In the darkness after the crucifixion an army captain who ordered the execution, a soldier who obeyed his orders, and a peasant woman, the mother of Jesus, talk together of the meaning of the event which they have just witnessed. They talk of the new duty and new courage which shall inherit the earth. It is a sincere modern interpretation of the crucifixion.

It may be read in Holy Week, or in a worship service.

The Trial of Jesus

JOHN MASEFIELD 116 pages, 1.75

This is a beautifully written play on Christ's trial and crucifixion. In the first act Jesus is examined by the Jewish authorities, in the second by the Roman governor, and in the third his death is recounted by a centurion to the wife of Pilate. The play is so finely constructed that it should not be changed unless absolutely necessary. It requires good acting and careful staging. Although it is a difficult play to produce it is well worth the attempt and a study of it will prove most rewarding.

Race Attitudes in Children
BRUNO LASKER Cloth, 4.00
A comprehensive account of the growth of prejudice in childhood and adolescence. This book more especially analyzes the ways in which irrational attitudes toward persons of other racial and national groups come about. It suggests how home, school, church, and the Y M C A may best contribute toward inter-racial understanding.

Of One Blood

ROBERT E. SPEER Cloth, .75

A Short Study of the Race Problem.

A series for class use of most stimulating discussions of such themes as the origin of race, the idea of race superiority, the evils and abuses of race, some specific race problems of today, and the solution of the race problem; based on the conviction "that the Son of God, Jesus Christ, is the one solution of the race problem as of every other moral and social problem."

What the Negro Thinks

DR. ROBERT RUSSA MOTON Cloth, 2.50

Registers some facts heretofore unknown outside of the Negro Race concerning what the Negro, himself, thinks of the experiences to which he is subjected in America because of his race and color. The book is not intended as propaganda. It is not intended to incite resentment and stimulate animosities. It aims, rather to "speak the Truth in Love" —it aims, as it were, to describe the Negro's pains—to tell an interested public where the hurt is. In a most candid and straightforward way, it tells what the thoughts are that rush through the mind of the average Negro when he contemplates the attitude of the average white man in America toward the Negro race; thoughts that for the most part the Negro keeps to himself or expresses only to his own people.

Clash of Color, A,

BASIL MATHEWS Paper, .75

The author takes us around the world with him, showing us in a series of vivid pictures the new spirit of unrest where white men and colored meet since the War. An excellent introduction to racial and international problems. The style is delightful.

America Comes of Age

ANDRE SIEGFRIED Cloth, 3.00

Mr. Siegfried, a Frenchman, has written one of the best recent books about the United States. A large section is given to a critical survey of American ethnic problems. The chapter on the American Negro and his problem is the most concise and realistic statement on the subject available in brief form.

Toward Interracial Cooperation

Modern Problems as Jesus Saw Them

H. H. HORNE Cloth, 1.50

More and more are men asking, Can Jesus save society? What did he have to say about wealth, marriage, crime, labor, religion? Are his theories applicable today? The author feels that the principles of social reform as lived and taught by Jesus are the enduring things in a changing world. The book is a protest equally against unsocialized religion and unreligious sociality. (1)

Modern Use of the Bible

HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK Cloth, 2.00

How in the midst of modern conditions in society shall we use with real effect the ancient source and foundation of our religion? Dr. Fosdick gives his answer with his customary clarity, commanding sincerity, and vivid style. For general reading by leaders of Bible classes, by young men, and by teachers. (1)

Hidden Years, The

JOHN OXENHAM 2.00

A story of the Boyhood, Youth, and Early Manhood of Jesus.

"This extraordinary book is much more than fiction. It is inferential biography . . . more human, more gripping, more tremendous in its emotional power than any other life of Christ ever written. It becomes an epic. Nothing in any previous book about Christ is so overwhelming. There are consummate works of art that appear just to have happened. This is one of them. One suspects that what seems to have been skill was sheer inspiration."

Extension of Kingdom

Christ and the Kingdom of God

S. H. HOOKE — Cloth, 1.00

A fresh point of view of the mission of Christ. The value of this book for use in study circles as well as for private use lies in the many helpfully suggestive lines of thought opened up and in the clarity with which the author has brought out two widely different approaches to the subject. (1)

C.C.A. Series.

The object of this book is to face the problems suggested by the fact that there could take place almost simultaneously a World Missionary Conference and a World War. It gives a brief survey of the material forces at work in the prewar world; discusses current world movements and the vital forces at deadly grips with these movements; the relevancy of Jesus Christ to them all. (1)

Continental Youth Movements

GEORGE STEWART — Pamphlet .35

C.C.A. Series.

A brief, vivid outline of what European students are doing since the war. (1)

Economic Problems and the Christian Ideal

Pamphlet .25

C.C.A. Series.

A discussion outline prepared especially for college or school groups. In the Christian World Education Series. (4)

Facing Student Problems

A. BRUCE CURRY — Paper, 1.00

C.C.A. Series.

A book for leaders of discussion groups. The result of Mr. Curry's experiences in his work among the colleges. This book takes up with straightforward sincerity and force the typical questions that student groups must face. (1)
Student's outline, .25; 12 for 2.50. (4)

Furnace, The

DAN POLING — Cloth, .50

C.C.A. Series.

This story of the great steel strike illustrates in a graphic way the whole problem of our industrial civilization. (4)

Ideals and Realities in Europe

MARGARET WRONG — Paper, .75

C.C.A. Series.

"Miss Wrong has written the book we have wanted for a long time," says The Christian World. "To most of us the European situation is either an abstract problem, or else a hopeless tangle in which we clutch at odd threads. (2)

In Quest of Life's Meaning

H. P. VAN DUSEN — Paper, 1.00

C.C.A. Series.

A study of realities by one who has lived in the full stream of life of modern youth. The problem of belief in God and the problem of human purpose are dealt with in a spirit of serious fairness. (1)

Men, Women, and God

A. HERBERT GRAY
American revised edition, Paper, .75

C.C.A. Series.

A frank and sympathetic discussion of sex questions from the Christian point of view, already widely read in England, where it was published for the Student Christian Movement. Mr. Gray mingles authoritative information, friendly advice, and inspiring example to make a book with a vast amount of constructive help for the student age and young married people. (2)

Modern Discipleship

EDWARD S. WOODS — Paper, 1.25

C.C.A. Series.

A description, in terms that present-day students can understand, of what it means to follow Jesus. Those who are perplexed as to the meaning of the Christian religion will find in this book a clear and attractive explanation. (1)

Our Far Eastern Assignment

FELIX MORLEY — Paper, 1.25

C.C.A. Series.

An unprejudiced review of the present situation in the Far East. (1)

Rebuilding of Europe

RUTH ROUSE — Paper, .75

Luther and the Lutheran Church

LUTHER AS AN EDUCATOR. By Prof. G. M. Bruce, Ph. D., Luther Theological Seminary. 318 pages. Cloth, $2.00.

From comparative obscurity as an educator the great Reformer of the Church is brought into the light and set forth as a Reformer of Education. The book is a product of wide research, written in a lucid and interesting style.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCHES OF THE WORLD. Edited for the Executive Committee of the Lutheran World Convention by Prof. Alfred Th. Jørgensen, Copenhagen, Denmark; High Church Councilor P. Fleisch, Hanover, Germany; Prof. Abdel Ross Wentz, Gettysburg, Pa. 432 pages. Cloth, $2.00.

A picture of the Lutheran Church Universal, through the presentation of accurate objective information about the present status of every Lutheran church body in the world. The data and facts gathered in this volume have been furnished by leading churchmen within the various Lutheran church bodies.

THE YOUTH MOVEMENT IN THE AMERICAN LUTHERAN CHURCH. By Gerald Jenny. 170 pages. Cloth, $1.25.

Develops the historical background of the youth movement in the different Lutheran synods and gives an account of present-day Young People's work as it is conducted in each synod.

LUTHER'S SMALL CATECHISM—1529-1929. A New Translation Prepared by an Inter-Synodical Committee. 157 pages. Cloth, 75 cents. De Luxe blue leather edition, $2.50.

The great Reformer's Catechism with an historical introduction and the many vivid pictures by Hans Brosamer which illustrated the early Frankfort on the Main edition in 1553. The very attractive make-up of this book commemorates the 400th anniversary of Luther's Small Catechism.

LIFE OF MARTIN LUTHER. By Rev. O. Nilsen. 90 pages. Second edition. Cloth, 60 cents.

Told for young people. In seventeen brief chapters the author tells interestingly about Luther's parents and early childhood years, his school days, his university years, his years in the monastery, about Wittenberg, the journey to Rome, the doctor's oath, the 95 theses, farewell to the papal church, at Worms, at Wartburg, about work and conflict, the diet at Augsburg, Luther's children, Luther's friends, Luther's death and burial, with many illustrations of the most important happenings in the great Reformer's life. Although told especially for young people, grown-ups will also read this book with much pleasure and benefit.

THE AUGSBURG CONFESSION. 68 pages. 25 cents.

The historic Lutheran confession, first submitted to the Imperial Diet at Augsburg in 1530,—translated from the original Latin.

Instructive Reading

WIDENING THE FRONTIER. By Rev. J. C. K. Preus. Cloth, $1.00.

Valuable nuggets from frontier church history in the making. These vivid personal experiences from the lives of many pastors on the Home Mission Field will be a revelation to those who have forgotten that there are still large areas where the work of the Kingdom is in its pioneer stage. To others the reading of this book will be a delightful reminiscing of "days that once were."

THE SECRET OF A HAPPY LIFE. By Martin Hegland, Ph. D., Dean of the Department of Religion at St. Olaf College. 134 pages. Fourth edition. Cloth, $1.00.

As a pastor and psychologist Dr. Hegland speaks wisely and lovingly to the young people who have been baptized and nourished through the teaching, training, and example of Christian parents, teachers, and pastors, so that they have come in the years of their youth into a conscious life with God. He also speaks to those who have drifted away from God.

EYES THAT SEE. By Martin Hegland, Ph. D. 108 pages. Cloth, $1.00.

Life presents beauty and abiding realities through nature, literature, art, philosophy, in Christ, and in God's Word to Eyes That See. Told in simple, beautiful English and dedicated by the author "To students, young or old, from whose ranks the world expects men and women of clear sight and open vision."

AFTER ITS KIND. By Byron C. Nelson, Th. M. 144 pages. Second and revised edition. Cloth, $1.50.

The evolution theory discussed. The sub-title of this volume is "The First and Last Word on Evolution." "The first word" is the decree of the Creator at the time the different "kinds" or species were created. "The last word" is the statement of the laws of heredity brought to light by the discoveries of Georg Mendel. The pages of this volume are the product of years of study of a Bible-lover who has gone through the fiery furnace of skepticism and came out firmly convinced of the scientific trustworthiness of the first chapter of the Book of Genesis.

THE CHANGELESS CHRIST FOR A CHANGING WORLD. Edited by Rev. N. M. Ylvisaker, Exec. Sec'y., Y. P. L. L. 75c.

Sermons, Addresses, Reports, and Minutes of the Fifth International Convention of the Young People's Luther League at Duluth, Minn., June 1-5, 1929.

THE WORD AND WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT. By Dr. J. N. Kildahl. 63 pages. Cloth, 75 cents.

Some books enrich the mind; others feed the soul. Dr. Kildahl's discussion of the work of the Holy Spirit belongs to the latter group.

Instructive Reading

SELECT READINGS AND RECITATIONS. Collected by Rev. Olaf Lysnes. 330 pages. Second edition. Cloth, $1.00.

The purpose of this book is to give to young people suitable and usable readings and recitations for devotional meetings. Special attention has been given to the different seasons of the church year—also to other subjects and occasions.

BETTER READINGS. Collected by Rev. Olaf Lysnes. 304 pages. Cloth, $1.00.

A collection of short essays, addresses, stories, poems, religious messages for readings and recitations in young people's societies, ladies' aid societies, and other church clubs.

PAUL OF TARSUS. By E. Kr. Johnsen, Professor of Theology at Luther Theological Seminary. 376 pages. Cloth, $1.75.

Paul, the great missionary hero of all times, has been portrayed in this volume in such a vivid manner that the story of this great apostle and remarkable man stands out like a powerful drama. The second part of the book is a popular commentary on the Epistles of Paul.

WHO IS JESUS? By Prof. M. O. Wee, Luther Theological Seminary. 90 pages. Fourth edition. Paper cover, 50 cents. Cloth, 85 cents.

The author calls upon men from every age, from many lands, and from numerous walks of life to answer his question. The purpose of the book,—to assist struggling doubters and those who want the light and truth that will give assurance to the heart,—has been helpfully realized.

THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS AN HISTORICAL FACT. By Rev. Z. J. Ordal. 128 pages. Cloth, $1.25.

A concise and clear presentation of evidence from the Scriptures to show that Easter morning rests on the everlasting rock of truth.

WHEN JESUS ENTERS THE HOME. By Dr. J. N. Kildahl. 206 pages. Cloth, $1.00.

The power of the Gospel to work individual and social regeneration as evidenced from actual experience is the message of this interesting story.

THE BOOK OF REVELATION AND ITS 20th CHAPTER. By Rev. I. D. Ylvisaker. Pamphlet of 20 pages. 10 cents per copy; $1.00 per dozen.

This pamphlet makes the Book of Revelations a wonderful message of God's love and mercy with assurance of final victory and eternal glory for the Church of Christ.

REMINISCENT REFLECTIONS OF A YOUTHFUL OCTOGENARIAN. By Dr. George Henry Gerberding. 294 pages. Cloth, $1.50.

Pioneer church work among English speaking Lutherans in the East and West has been vividly pictured in this life story of Dr. Gerberding.

THE SOUL OF LUTHER COLLEGE. By O. J. Kvale, Member of Congress. 24 pages. Paper cover, 30 cents.

Address delivered at the commencement exercises of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, June 2, 1925.

Religious Education

Class Books for Sunday and Parochial School

THE GRADED SYSTEM

Adopted by the Board of Elementary Christian Education of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

The system is based on Luther's Catechism, the Explanation and Vogt's Bible History.

In all the Catechism and Explanation classes the same topic is studied on a given Sunday. In small Sunday Schools the unity of lesson plan permits the grouping of two or more grades in one class. There is harmony between the Bible history and the Catechism lesson. The Bible story selected, whether from the Old Testament or from the New Testament, illustrates the central thought in the Catechism lesson.

STUDIES IN PSYCHOLOGY

MENTAL DISEASES, A Public Health Problem — $5.00

By JAMES V. MAY, Superintendent Boston State Hospital, Boston, Mass.

"I know of no book in English which covers the field which Dr. May has dealt with so admirably. Here at last, in one volume, is a clear presentation of the various mental diseases. The social, economic and clinical aspects of mental diseases are all given adequate consideration in the thirty-two sections into which the work is divided."

—Dr. Thomas W. Salmon

PSYCHOTHERAPEUTICS — *$1.50

Edited by MORTON PRINCE, M.D.

"This symposium, by nine experts, is one of the most complete volumes on practical therapeutics or the healing influence of mental suggestion ever published." —Leslie's Weekly

SUBCONSCIOUS PHENOMENA — *$1.50

Edited by MORTON PRINCE, M.D.

One of the most important works on the subject of the subconscious ever published.

FREUDIAN ESSAYS ON RELIGION AND SCIENCE — $2.00

By CAVENDISH MOXON

Religion in the Light of Psychoanalysis—A Psychoanalytic Study of the Christian Creed—The Influence of Creative Desire upon the Argument of Immortality—Epileptic Traits in Paul of Tarsus—Mystical Ecstasy and Hysterical Dream-States—Regressive Forces in Human Fellowship—Freudian Criminology—Freudian Theory and Sexual Enlightenment—Coue's Theory and Practice of Auto-Suggestion—The Development of Libidoni—Friedrich Nietzsche—Freud's Death Instinct and Bank's Libido Theory.

THE HISTORY AND PRACTICE OF PSYCHOANALYSIS — $4.00

By POUL BJERRE, M.D., Stockholm. Authorized Translation by ELIZABETH N. BARROW

The author allies himself neither to the Freudian school, nor to any of its offshoots. His attitude as a thoroughly independent investigator particularly adapts him to the task of setting forth the basic principles of his subject in a way that they may be understood not only by the beginner in practice, but by the lay reader whose interest has been awakened in the matter.

CHILD BEHAVIOUR — $3.00

By FLORENCE MATEER, Psychologist, Massachusetts School for the Feeble-minded, Waverly

This book marks a new epoch in child study. The new objective and animal psychology have been used by the author and the findings by them are reported in detail in this volume.

NERVOUS ILLS, THEIR CAUSE AND CURE — $3.00

By BORIS SIDIS, M.D.

Dr. Sidis, in this epochal work, hits psycho-analysis some telling blows. He makes Fear a very dangerous rival of Freud's Libido.

In a masterly manner, Dr. Sidis points out the underlying causes of nervous ills and then outlines their cure.

THE CAUSATION AND TREATMENT OF PSYCHOPATHIC DISEASES — $3.00

By BORIS SIDIS, M.D

Various methods of treatment of psychopathic diseases are given. These special methods developed by the author have been tried by other investigators and clinical men and have been found successful in the study and treatment of psychopathic diseases.

THE FOUNDATIONS OF NORMAL AND ABNORMAL PSYCHOLOGY — $3.00

By BORIS SIDIS, M.D.

The postulates, the essential theories of normal and abnormal psychology are clearly outlined. An important psycho-biological theory of mental life is developed for the first time.

SYMPTOMATOLOGY, PSYCHOGNOSIS AND DIAGNOSIS OF PSYCHOPATHIC DISEASES — $3.00

By BORIS SIDIS, M.D.

The book deals with experimental and clinical studies of various states of abnormal mental life, and especially with the symptoms and diagnosis of functional mental diseases, with all forms of psychopathic conditions, and with the manifestations of the whole domain of the subconscious.

A PSYCHOANALYTIC STUDY OF STRINDBERG — $2.00
With Special Reference to the Œdipus Complex

By AXELL J. UPPVALL, PH.D.

This is a practical, individual study of the life of Strindberg, approached from a psychoanalytic point of view.

THE GRAND STRATEGY OF EVOLUTION — *$5.00

By WILLIAM PATTEN, Ph.D., Professor of Biology in Dartmouth College

"One of the most significant and original contributions to general theoretical biology that has appeared in years."—Raymond Pearl, Professor of Biometry, Johns Hopkins University.

THE LAWS OF LIFE — Over 140 Illustrations *$4.00

By WILLIAM M. GOLDSMITH, Professor of Biology, Southwestern College

A popular presentation of the principles of evolution, heredity, and eugenics.

THE DAWN OF MANKIND — Illustrated $3.00

By HAROLD O. WHITNALL, Professor of Geology, Colgate University

An interesting consideration of prehistoric man:

The Races of Man, The Dawn of History, Geology and Pre-History, Geography and Culture Stages, Two Types of Ancient Men and Their Times, The Earliest Englishmen, Ancient Habits and Habitats, The Neanderthals and Their Kin, Cro-Magnon Man and His Contemporaries, The Art and Men of the Later Paleolithic, The End of the Old Stone Age, The New Stone Age in Europe, The New Stone Age in Asia.

THE ANIMATE AND THE INANIMATE — $2.00

By WILLIAM JAMES SIDIS

This work sets forth a theory which is speculative in its nature, there being no verifying experiments. It is based on the idea of the reversibility of everything in time; that is, that every type of process has its time-image, a corresponding process which is its exact reverse with respect to time.

BIOLOGY IN AMERICA — Over 500 Pages. Over 200 Illustrations $7.50

By R. T. YOUNG, Professor of Zoology in the University of North Dakota

A view of the wonderful advances of biology in non-technical, but scientific language.

QUANTUM REACTIONS AND ASSOCIATIONS — $5.00

By P. F. SWINDLE, Ph.D., Professor of Physiology and Pharmacology, Marquette University Medical School

Scientific discoveries of so far-reaching a character as to render Einstein's theory, by comparison, child's play.

LIFE AND DEATH, HEREDITY AND EVOLUTION IN UNICELLULAR ORGANISMS — *$2.50

By H. S. JENNINGS, Professor of Zoology in the Johns Hopkins University

One-celled organisms presented as an opportunity for solving some of the deeper problems of life.

THE LAW OF ABSORPTION — $2.00

By NICHOLAS MIMOPOULOS

A thesis contrary to the Newtonian Law: There is no force of attraction between any two bodies in the universe, no matter how small or great their respective masses and distances. This assertion, however, is only from the negative standpoint. The positive aspect of the true law of gravity (the law of absorption), which I propose to prove, is this: Bodies in the universe influence each other attractionally with a force directly proportional to the amount of ethereals which one body is able to absorb per unit of time from the other.

MARS — Illustrated $2.50

By WILLIAM H. PICKERING, Harvard College Observatory, Jamaica

Professor Pickering presents in this volume the results of his lifelong study of the planet Mars—its snows, its seas, its marshes, and its canals.

SANITARY ENTOMOLOGY — Illustrated *$10.00

Edited by W. DWIGHT PIERCE, M.D., Consulting Entomologist, Formerly of U. S. Bureau of Entomology

A volume by ten expert entomologists on how insects cause or carry disease, how these insects live, and how to prevent disease by controlling insects.

THE UNITY OF THE ORGANISM — Illustrated 2 vols. *$5.00

By WILLIAM EMERSON RITTER, Director of the Scripps Institution for Biological Research, University of California

"Ritter's timely, interesting and suggestive work is a digest of the biological evidence for an organismal as opposed to an elementalistic conception of the living organism, be it plant, animal or man. It is a masterly assemblage of the evidence which is of peculiar significance and importance."—The Psychoanalytic Review.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

ECONOMICS AND SOCIOLOGY

PROFITS OF THE NATIONAL BANKS — $2.00

By KEITH POWLISON, PH.D.

The book indicates that it is becoming increasingly difficult for banks to maintain a satisfactory ratio of net profits to invested capital; that the major reason for this is that income from interest received has tended downward, while expenses, interest on deposit in particular, have tended upward; that the ratio of net earnings to invested capital has, however, been maintained at practically the same level by virtue of an increase in the volume of earning assets, resulting in a more rapid turnover of capital; the employment of banking capital for other purposes than strict commercial banking, such as underwriting, investment and trust activities. That these latter activities have been made possible and hastened by the consolidation movement.

CRIME, DEGENERACY AND IMMIGRATION — $3.00

By DAVID A. OREBAUGH

PART I—FUNDAMENTAL CAUSES OF THE INCREASE OF CRIME IN AMERICA—The American Background—Degeneration of the American Type—Prevalence of Crime in America—Degeneration—By-Products of Degeneration.

PART II—SUGGESTIONS FOR THE SUPPRESSION AND CURE OF CRIME—A Working Basis—The Old and New Criminology—Restriction of Immigration—The Sterilization of Defectives—Birth Control—PARDON, PAROLE AND PROBATION—The Jury System—An Appointive Judiciary—The Little Ballot vs. The Blanket Ballot—Commission and Commission-Manager Government in Cities—Proportional Representation.

THE INTELLIGENCE OF ORPHANAGE CHILDREN — $5.00

By ROBERT A. DAVIS, JR.—Prof., Univ. of Colorado, Denver, Colo.

An important work of value alike to educators, sociologists and psychologists. The work includes practical applications to supervision, control and organization of orphan homes.

SOCIETY AND THE CHILD — $2.00

By EDWARD N. CLOPPER, PH.D.—Executive Secretary, Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies.

From his ripe experience as executive secretary of The Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies, the author has prepared a volume of the utmost significance to everyone interested in social welfare.

THE DELINQUENT BOY: A Socio-Psychological Study — *$5.00

By JOHN SLAWSON, PH.D., Formerly Psychologist State Board of Charities, Ohio.

Intelligence and Male Juvenile Delinquincy—Mechanical Aptitude and Male Juvenile Delinquincy—Psychoneurotic responses and Male juvenile Delinquincy—Physical and Psycho-Physical Factors and Male Juvenile Delinquincy—Environmental Factors and Male Juvenile Delinquincy—Conclusions.

ESSENTIALS OF ECONOMICS — *$2.00

By CHARLES W. HEATHCOTE—Professor—Teachers' College, W. Chester, Pa.

"This book, consciously adapted to the young, seeks not primarily to inculate theory but through a presentation of elementary economic facts to stimulate a higher regard, larger patriotism, more responsible zeal, and unselfish service for our nation and its institutions."—

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

STUDIES IN SOCIOLOGY

SOURCE BOOK FOR SOCIAL ORIGINS — *$6.00

By WILLIAM I. THOMAS

We are indebted to our savage ancestors for practically all of society's universal customs and for her lesser rules of etiquette, both of which we frequently refer to as the results of civilization. Source Book for Social Origins traces the connection between the society of our very distant forefathers and our own, and shows that many of what we call our customs have been bequeathed to us by them.

The author has grouped the materials used in seven parts: Part I, The Relation of Society to Geographic and Economic Environment; Part II, Mental Life and Education; Part III, Invention and Technology; Part IV, Sex and Marriage; Part V, Art, Ornament and Decoration; Part VI, Magic, Religion, Myth; Part VII; Social Organization, Morals, The State. The work is completed by general biographical suggestions.

TEMPERAMENT AND RACE — Illustrated $3.00

By S. D. PORTEUS Professor, Univ. of Hawaii, Honolulu, T. H. AND MARJORIE E. BABCOCK

Racial Studies—Historical Survey of Races in Hawaii—Social Analysis of Races—Brain Development—Races—Mentality of Races—Psychosynergic Traits of Races—Racial Implications.

THE HISTORICAL CHILD — $5.00

By OSCAR CHRISMAN, PH.D., Professor of Paidology and Psychology in Ohio University

The book is a study of child life as found among historical peoples, including the old nations of Egypt, India, China, Japan, Persia, Judea, Greece and Rome, ancient Mexico and Peru, medieval Europe, and earlier United States. The word child is used in a general sense and includes all ages up to full manhood.

G. Stanley Hall said: "The Historical Child is unique and mounmental, and will always be a credit to American Scholarship."

"An imposing and interesting array of folkways of many ancient peoples."—The Survey.

THE MULATTO IN THE UNITED STATES — *$3.00

By EDWARD BYRON REUTER of the Department of Sociology at the University of Illinois

This is a study which may well be taken into account by all students of the American race problem.

The World Outlook: "Mr. Reuter considers the sociological consequences of race intermixture in various ages and places, and concludes that for the United States segregation is desirable not only for the whites but also for the negroes, who will thus develop their race more slowly but more normally. The mulattoes will be the leaders in this development, for their white blood has made their development more rapid and increased their abilities."

WHO ARE THE SLAVS? — Illustrated, 2 vols. $10.00

By PAUL RADOSAVLJEVICH, PH.D., New York University,

Who Are the Slavs? is the only book dealing with the Slav as a whole and with reference to the characteristic traits of the specific Slavic tribes—Russian, Polish, Czecho-Slovak, and the South Slavic people.

THE WOMAN WHO WAITS — $2.50

By FRANCES DONOVAN

This is an account of an investigation of city restaurants and of the waitresses who are employed in them; it is a statement of facts. It has already called forth vigorous comment from a number of social workers by whom it has been read and has been pronounced by them a document of especial value to those engaged in social research.

The author gathered her information at first hand by working as a waitress in all sorts and conditions of eating placees.

THE SUICIDE PROBLEM IN THE UNITED STATES — $3.00

By ADOLPH D. FRENAY

DOMINICANA says: "This work is a pioneer, but with none of the crudeness of the pioneer about it. Because of its thoroughness it will be of immense value to the doctor, sociologist, economist, philosopher and priest."

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

STUDIES IN HISTORY

A SKETCH OF ENGLAND'S EMPIRE — $2.00

By B. W. Arnold, Jr.—Professor, Randolph-Macon College, Lynchburg, Va.

There is no historical development of modern times more impressive and significant than the expansion of British rule. The author considers the subject under the following heads: The Empire—South Africa—Australia and New Zealand—Canada—Ireland—India—History and Government—India—Problems and Social Features—Egypt; Sundry Dependencies and a General Outline of Political Relations within the Empire—Impressive Features of England's Empire.

EVERYDAY LIFE IN THE NAVY — Illustrated $5.00

By Rear Admiral Albert S. Barker

"During most of his long and busy career, the late Admiral Barker kept diaries, and these he made the basis of this detailed and intimately personal story of 46 years in the navy, which he wrote after his retirement. It is an entertaining chronicle, written with a simplicity and modesty characteristic of its author, and imbued with that splendid spirit of patriotic service which dominated his life.

"When Admiral Barker hauled down his flag and passed to the retired list in 1905 The Army and Navy Journal said among many other complimentry things, 'Aside from his exceptional ability, no more sincere and conscientious officer, no more courteous and kindly gentleman has ever worn the uniform of the United States Navy.'"—The Boston Herald

FRENCH BLOOD IN AMERICA — Illustrated $3.00

STUDIES IN LITERATURE

A HISTORY OF ENGLISH LITERATURE — Illustrated *$2.00

A New and Revised Edition with over One Hundred Illustrations

By Robert Huntington Fletcher, Ph.D., Late Professor of English Literature, Grinnell College

"Admirably complete and readable. It should, by all means, be considered by those instructors and teachers who need a book that covers the whole period in a well balanced and scholarly way, but without loss of human interest."—A. C. F. Beebewrotz, Professor of English, Syracuse University.

THE USE OF MODERN LITERATURE IN HIGH SCHOOLS — *$1.75

By Barbara E. Phillips—Teacher, Albuquerque High School, New Mexico.

Just as radical changes are necessary in the teaching of literature as are being made in the teaching of composition. Here is a means of bridging both the gap between the elementary grades and the high school and between the high school and life as our pupils are going to find that life when they leave school.

ENGLISH ESSAYISTS — *$1.50

By William H. Davis, Professor of English, Bowdoin College

BROWNING STUDIES — *2.00

By Vernon C. Harrington, Assistant Professor of English, Middlebury College

"An introduction to Browning containing lucid interpretations of all the so-called abstruse passages which cause unthinking people to believe that it is not possible to understand Browning."—The Boston Transcript.

EASY LESSONS IN BROWNING — $2.00

By Alice D. Porter

The plan of the lessons is to encourage the beginner to think for himself. Questions are introduced rather to stimulate thought than as a test of knowledge; and the interpretations given are intended only as suggestions either to be carried further or to be modified by the reader's expanding judgment. The method presented helps the hesitating reader to realization of the easiness of understanding Browning.

THE DRAMATIC ART OF ROBERT BROWNING — $2.00

By Katherine Gleason

A detailed study of all Browning's dramas and of his art as a dramatist.

THE STORY OF ENGLISH SPEECH — *$1.50

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE $1.50

By MATTHEW HALE WILSON, Professor of Philosophy and Education; Park College

"The volume will meet a long hoped for demand for moral and vocational guidance."—Mirror and Farmer.

METHODS OF TEACHING VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS *$1.50

By S. H. DADISMAN, College of Agriculture, University of California

A practical textbook for the effective teaching of agriculture.
"This textbook by Professor Dadisman should be a welcome addition to the work table of every teacher trainer, prospective teacher, and teacher in service, for it has been evolved out of the very successful experiences of the author in preparing young men to teach agriculture according to the provisions of the national vocational education act."—F. L. Griffin, Head of Division of Agricultural Education, University of California.

PHILISTINE AND GENIUS $1.25

A revised edition with an additional preface on current events and an essay on Precocity of Children.

By BORIS SIDIS, Ph.D., M.D.

EDUCATIONAL METHODS

METHODS OF TEACHING MODERN DAY ARITHMETIC *$1.75

By Dr. George H. McNair, Head of Dept. of Arithmetic, City Training School for Teachers, Jamaica, N. Y.

The problem of making arithmetic interesting and useful is solved by this volume.

CONSTRUCTIVE LESSONS IN ENGLISH FOR THE FOREIGN BORN Illus. *$1.25

By Nina J. Beglinger, Supervising Instructor of Methods in English to Foreigners, Detroit City Schools

Here at last is a book for adult aliens which does not treat them as children. English is taught them constructively, that is, by making use of the knowledge and qualities they already possess. The material has been in use in the Evening Elementary Schools in Detroit during the past year, and has reduced the time for learning to read and write English 67 per cent by actual tests.

THE PROJECT METHOD IN EDUCATION *$1.75

By Mendel E. Branom, Harris Teachers' College, St. Louis

The School: "The book is the most complete statement of what the method is, its value, and its means of application, that has yet appeared, although the recent literature on the subject is very large."

PROJECTS IN ACTION ENGLISH *$1.75

By Fannie O. Johansen, Teacher of English, Shurtleff Junior High School, Chelsea, Mass.

Every alert English teacher will welcome the entirely original methods of teaching composition and grammar. Each step in the book has been worked out successfully by the author in her own classes. Through her method English recitations are entirely socialized, and grammar is made a subject of genuine interest.

BOBBY SQUIRREL'S SECRETS Illustrated $1.25

By Bonnie L. Crump

The book is valuable for: Real interest upon the part of the child to read each succeeding letter—Comprehension—Love for animals and kindness and responsibility to pets—Educational seat work in line with each letter—Some real creative work—Increased vocabulary—Much discussion—Reading rate increased.

Every type of practice in reading is provided to establish rapid reading habits.

SELECTIONS FOR READING, A Book for Children in the First School Year, Illus. *$1.00

By Lewis Sprague Mills, A.M., Supervising Agent for the Connecticut State Board of Education

Different familiar objects in the pictures are labeled with words which the pupil thus learns naturally. Words mean things from the very beginning. The teaching of reading is made a simple matter. Pupils learn to read by reading.

There is a Teachers' Manual (Illustrated $1.50) to accompany the primer, full of detailed suggestions.

THE CHILDREN'S POETS $2.00

By Paulene Foster Ring

There are hundreds of children who never think of Longfellow in any other way than with gray hair and beard. But here we have some little plays made up of real facts in the authors' lives that prove poets were once as young and alive as the children who read about them.

LITTLE FOLKS PLAYS OF AMERICAN HEROES Per vol. *$.75

In simple form this series presents our national heroes in successive periods of their development, enabling children to read and act out the lives of great men.

Included in this series are: Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses S. Grant, Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, by Mary Hazelton Wade; Robert E. Lee, by Ruth Hill; and Makers of America, including Henry Hudson, George Rogers Clark, Paul Revere, Andrew Jackson and Robert Fulton, by Archie Marmer.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT

MESSIAHS: CHRISTIAN AND PAGAN — $2.00

By Wilson D. Wallis

"The most comprehensive description yet given of the messiahs of various peoples, civilized and primitive, and their roles in social, religious and political life.
"We would put Messiahs: Christian and Pagan, in every library in the land. It is a great, a beautiful, a fascinating, a vital book."—New York Sun.

SACRAMENTS AND SOCIETY — $3.00

By Allan W. Cooke

A study of the origin and value of rites in religion. A most interesting consideration of comparative religion.

DEVIL WORSHIP — $2.50

By Isya Joseph, Ph.D.

"This book is one of the most curious details in the history of mythomania of human beings. Those who have it will never sell it."—New York Sun.

ROMAN EMPEROR WORSHIP — $2.00

By Louis Matthews Sweet, S.T.D., Ph.D., Professor of Christian Theology and Apologetics, Bible Teachers' Training School

"The work is a scholarly one, makes many good points and is a rare contribution to the history of an obscure but important epoch."—Boston Transcript.

THE EVOLUTION OF NEW TESTAMENT CHRISTOLOGY — $2.00

By Charles B. Williams, Ph.D., D.D.,
Professor of New Testament Interpretation, Union University, Jackson, Tenn.

"Dr. Williams' new book reveals an endless amount of painstaking research, a thorough knowledge of Greek, a critical analysis, in the light of modern scholarship and pulsates with warm spiritual teachings drawn from the Scriptures and his own Christian experience. This is an exceedingly valuable book and should be in the hands of every Christian worker."
—James L. McCreight, Ph.D., D.D., Vice President and Professor of Bible,Sterling College, Sterling Kansas.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION AND THE BIBLE — $1.50

By William A. Granville, Ph.D., President of Gettysburg College

The author points out the remarkable agreement which exists between numerous Bible passages and some of the concepts which follow quite naturally from the mathematical hypothesis of higher spaces.

EVOLUTION AND GENESIS — $2.50

By Karl R. Stolz, Ph.D.

The Doctrine of Evolution—Science and Christian Thought—The Literary Structure of the Early Genesis Stories—The Stories of Creation—Surviving Values of the Genesis Creation Stories—The Creation of Man—The Problem of Evil—The Rise of Earliest Civilization.

THE MODERNIST MOVEMENT IN ITALY AND ITS RELATION TO THE SPREAD OF PROTESTANT CHRISTIANITY — $2.00

By Antonio Perrotta

If we accept the saying of the Latin poet, "Everything that is human is of interest to me," this story should interest every intelligent reader and give light and consolation to those who are still groping in the dark after religious and helpful truths, regardless of beliefs and affiliations.

MAN IN THE MAKING — $2.00

By Strother A. Campbell

A live, fresh and sympathetic study of the problems of present day life, especially those that meet young people. Eleven delightful sermon addresses, with an introduction by Dr. Solon B. Cousins, make up this happy volume.

THE DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE IN ALABAMA — $2.00

By Joseph P. Boone, M.A., D.D. Pastor of First Baptist Church, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The purpose of this study of the Denominational College in Alabama has been to secure the historical facts regarding these institutions and to magnify the contribution made to the state of Alabama and to the south by the colleges founded as a result of the religious motive in education.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT

JESUS' PERSONAL CAMPAIGN AMONG THE GENTILES — $2.00

By Oliver Perry Hoover, Litt.D. Professor of Greek and Latin in Juniata College.

It is unfortunate that most New Testament scholars have viewed Jesus as the founder of a religion especially for the Jew and secondarily for the Gentiles, though He knew it would be more acceptable to the Gentile than to the Jew. Accordingly, His personal work was extended to the Gentiles, as this little book endeavors to emphasize.

JESUS OF ST. MARK — $2.00

By Oliver Perry Hoover, Litt.D. Professor of Greek and Latin in Juniata College.

"The effeminate figures of Jesus in the stained-glass windows of Christian Churches did not appeal to my virile youth. He was presented to me in picture and story as weak, lamb-like, retiring, doomed to a shameful death to save men, quite unlike the hero that He was.

"After many years of study, I accepted Mark as the oldest written Gospel, furthermore that it was substantially the record of St. Peter's preaching in Rome. It is, then, the record of an eye-witness of Jesus. This priority and personal touch make Mark the most valuable for any study of the historical Jesus and founder of Christianity."

THE EVERYDAY PHILOSOPHY OF JESUS AND HIS BROTHER JAMES — $2.00

By Arthur Barber

"I like your non-theological, non-controversial, non-technical approach to the subject. It is reasonable, human, appealing. It has distinct flavor of its own."

—Rev. Newman Matthews, Andover, Mass.

THE HOLY SPIRIT — $2.00

By B. P. Robertson, D.D.

"I would encourage a wide study of this vital book on an important subject."

—L. R. Scarborough, D. D., President South Western Theological Seminary

WHAT MANNER OF MAN — $2.00

By Charles R. Combrink

"A strong defense of the supernatural character of the Son of God. The author, stirred by the shallow infidelity of Bruce Barton has given us a series of addresses, showing conclusively that Jesus Christ is not only the Son of God, but God the Son.—Gospel Herald.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE TEACHINGS OF JESUS — $2.00

By Earl E. Speicher

The Environment of Jesus' Teaching . . . . The Rise of Jesus' Movement . . . . Jesus And His Teaching . . . . Jesus' Quest Of Righteousness . . . . Experience And The Teaching of Jesus . . . . The Teaching of Jesus And The Religion Of The Spirit.

THE KINGDOM OF GOD — $2.00

By Thomas H. Hickman

The Kingdom of God: Where is it? What is it? How to bring it to pass.

GOD'S COMMUNICATING DOOR — $2.00

By H. Adye Prichard

The book shows that there is no contradiction between a full Christian faith and the more accredited results of psychic research.

THE MIRACLE POWER OF PRAYER: ITS MAGIC SECRET — $2.00

By Mrs. Delilah Nesperling

The author holds that the days of miracles are not past and that miraculous power comes in answer to prayer. She writes out of her own experience, giving instances of answers to prayer.

SPASMOPHILIA Illustrated $2.00

By Edward C. Wrightsman, M.D.

This work is the result of fifteen years' observation of spasmophilia. It is intended, primarily, for the general practitioner. It is he who is out in the broad field of activity, he who sees most things at their very source. Pediatricians recognize the frequency of spasmophelia, but many general practitioners, unless they have had special training, feel that it is a rather rare condition.

In 1911, the author spent a year in Vienna, where spasmophilia is endemic.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

MEDICAL BOOKS

THE CURE OF PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS BY REST AND EXERCISE

By HUGH M. KINGHORN, M.D. Illustrated $2.50

The development of rest and exercise therapy in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis is described from Brehmer to the present day. The great value of rest treatment is repeatedly emphasized and constant warning given against too much exercise.

PRACTICAL HELPS IN THE STUDY AND TREATMENT OF HEAD INJURIES

By ADOLPH M. HANSON, M.D. Illustrated $3.00

The writer has long felt that the presentation of head injuries, in an elementary and brief form, would be welcomed by the profession at large. The demand of a general practice do not permit of exhaustive study in special fields and the increased number of injuries to the head, due to the automobile and the great industrial activities renders it imperative that the general practitioner should be familiar with the essential facts relative to such injuries, in an elementary way, at least, in order to cope intelligently with this problem. Many lives that are now lost, may be saved by prompt and proper care.

EPIDEMIC ENCEPHALITIS Illustrated $3.00

By LEO M. CRAFTS, M.D.

The first complete volume on this disease since its first appearance some ten years ago.

A MANUAL OF PRACTICAL LABORATORY DIAGNOSIS Illustrated $1.75

By LEWIS WEBB HILL, M.D.

Although there are books aplenty on the subject of labratory diagnosis, the author deserves the thanks of the practitioners for having prepared a brief and concise manual that contains actually all those methods of examination, and only those, that are practical and that can be carried out by physicians with such apparatus as they are likely to possess or can acquire to advantage. It includes all that information that every one engaged in active practice wants.

A NEW TREATMENT OF CANCER AND CHRONIC DISEASES $2.00

By LA FOREST POTTER, M.D.

In Part I, the Death Traps of the human body are discussed.

In Part II is the story of the Secret of Natural Foods and the Ductless gland secretions in relation to health and disease.

In Part III, Dr. Potter deals with the psycho-physical treatment of Cancer and Chronic diseases and the discovery of the Sixth Sense. Dr. Potter does not merely tear down old theories and practice, he points out a new trail, which if followed will radically change the modern conceptions and practice not only of scientific mental treatment but that of the so-called cults.

NUTRIOLOGY: THE WHAT, WHY AND WHEN OF FOOD $2.00

By J. ARTHUR BUCHANAN, M.D.

A search for the proper type of food was one of the earliest tasks of man. The first experiences taught that certain articles taken into the stomach caused suffering. As a consequence, the pathway of civilization has been marked by an interest in food until the collection of data is such that it is here presented as a science under the name of NUTRIOLOGY.

THREE MINUTE MEDICINE $3.00

By LOUIS R. EFFLER, M.D.

This book may be an old story to the Doctor but to the Public it is new. It will raise the stock of Medicine in the Public's estimation and do more than all the preaching in the world to counteract the pseudo-medical fly-by-night fads and foibles that beset us today. It will make better relations and better understanding on the part of the Public—the Press—and the Physician.

HEALTH RECORD $1.00

By ROY P. FORBES, M.D.

This little book, as its name implies, is a health record of his observations of your child, but these observations are not always available to other physicians or to you. Hence, the purpose of this book is to give you and your child and other physicians data of value in the observations of the child either in health or during illness.

MANUAL OF VITAL FUNCTION TESTING METHODS AND THEIR INTERPRETATION. Second Revised and Enlarged Edition. $2.00

By WILFRED M. BARTON, M.D.

The problem of investigating the various vital functions of the organism, especially those of the heart, liver, pancreas, kidneys and ductless glands, is giving practical treatment in this useful volume.

THERAPEUTIC INDEX AND PRESCRIPTION WRITING PRACTICE $2.00

By WILFRED M. BARTON, M.D.

The major portion of this invaluable book is taken up by the first part, which is a Therapeutic Index arranged alphabetically according to diseases. Finally an alphabetical list of the drugs themselves has been appended as a second part in which under each drug is given a list of the diseases or symptoms under which it is to be found in the Therapeutic Index.

HEALTH NUGGETS $1.00

By DR. O. E. MCFADON

PHILOSOPHY & ETHICS

AN INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY — *$1.75

By Holly Estil Cunningham, Professor of Philosophy, University of Oklahoma

"It does just what an introductory book in that department should do; that is, it begins with several very interesting chapters which are rather easy, and then proceeds to introduce the reader to the time-long problems of philosophy. The discussions are very clear."—Prof. W. L. Uhl, Northwestern University.

THE SOURCE AND AIM OF HUMAN PROGRESS — $1.50

By Boris Sidis, M.D.

In this book Dr. Sidis shows the necessity of a humanistic, functional society, the sole aim of which is the happiness and cultivation of Man, in contradistinction to the organic, structural society which strives to build up the State at the expense of individuality and freedom.

ETHICS OF ACHIEVEMENT — *$2.50

By Herbert Patterson, Dean of School of Education, Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College

PSYCHOLOGY OF THE SPIRIT — $2.00

By Robert F. Wheeler, L.L.D., Ph.D. People's National Univ., Atlanta, Ga.

The book answers such questions as:
What and where is The Spirit? What is the spirit within man? What is the spirit that is external to man? What is the relation of the spirit within man to the spirit without? What is the method of entry of the spirit into man and when does that entry take place?

PRACTICAL OCCULTISM — $2.50

By Walter Winston Kenilworth

The philosophy of the East reduced to terms of everyday living.

OUTDOOR BOOKS

VANISHING FORESTS — Illustrated $2.00

By Willard G. Van Name

Our easy-going indifference to the way our government is conducted has made us overlook the gradual building up in Washington of a bureaucracy which has come to assume ownership of the national forests, the national parks and the other resources that the nation has entrusted to the care of administative bureaus, the officials of which apparently feel at liberty to deal with these resources as they see fit, often in the most arbitrary manner with little or no publicity and without explanation.

OUR FAMILIAR ISLAND TREES — 3 colored illustrations—43 half-tones $1.50

By Mary Dillingham Frear

This book of the trees and shrubs and vines of Hawaii is in no sense a Botany, but is offered as a descriptive guide to the names, both common and scientific, of the plants that are the joy and wonder alike of resident and tourist.

BENEATH THE SOUTHERN CROSS — Illustrated $3.00

By Van Campen Heilner

The book describes in detail the magnificent cruise of the 47-foot motor boat Nepenthe II under the leadership of Van Campen Heilner, the famous writer and angler. Mr. Heilner has written the story of his adventures on a cruise which started from Atlantic City early in March and terminated at Trinidad in the West Indies some months later. The experiences which befell him and his crew were many and varied. You will be delighted with the descriptions of strange foreign countries. His boat was the smallest motor boat ever to undertake this voyage, and also his party explored islands which had never previously been visited by a motor boat.

THE NATURAL STYLE IN LANDSCAPE GARDENING — Illustrated $3.00

By Frank A. Waugh, Consulting Architect U. S. Forest Service

The Scientific American says: "The author offers us a clear-cut, workable outline of the technique of design; he would conserve and develop the native landscape and make it accessible and intelligible to all."

OUTDOOR THEATRES — Illustrated $3.00

By Frank A. Waugh, Author of "Natural Style in Landscape Gardening"

The Scientific American says: "The plates, sketches and plans show existing outdoor theatres, and Professor Waugh's happy exposition of the problems of design and use goes to the heart of the matter."

BIRD COMPANIONS — Illustrated $3.00

By Angelia Kumlien Main

The author says: In writing this book, I have tried not "to preach," but to let the birds speak for themselves, and so teach my readers to love them for their own sakes, not for their utility alone, but for their bright songs, their beauty of form and plumage, their grace, their powers of flight, their helplessness, their skill in nest building and for true loving care and protection of their young.

BEAUTY SPOTS OF NORTH DAKOTA — Illustrated $3.00

By Bertha R. Palmer, Supt. Public Instruction, North Dakota

This charming volume proves that North Dakota contains scenery as majestic, as colorful, as fantastic and grotesque, as restful and peaceful, as glorious and inspiring as there is in the world.

THE FOUR-H TRAIL — Illustrated *$3.00

By William H. Kendrick, Assistant Director, in charge of Four-H Clubs, U. S. Department of Agriculture and College of Agriculture, West Virginia University, co-operating.

The Four-H-Trail is of the utmost value to all those who would help boys and girls. The book is full of practical suggestions and programs that will develop Head, Hand, Heart and Health, or the mental, social, religious and physical natures. Through all the club work as laid out in the book, the purpose is to train boys and girls to find work for which they are suited and to train them to get the most out of life in work or play.

IMPORTANT NEW BOOKS

STORIES AND SPIRITUALS OF THE NEGRO SLAVE — Illustrated $2.00

By William Emerson, M.D.

This collection of folk songs was obtained from the negroes, several being obtained from old negro slaves, and from old hymnals used in various negro churches. The stories, here presented, are exactly as the old colored people told them and have not been altered or changed in the slightest. These people have lived in bondage and in freedom. Their lives are intensely interesting. It was with the view of preserving the biographies, pictures and folk songs of these old people that this collection was obtained.

OVER THE BACK FENCE — $2.00

By Nell Lewis Woods

The author has been called the "Hogarth of Kansas," whose sketches depict with fidelity phases of the life of the common people that would be forgotten otherwise.

AN AMERICAN MOTHER IN THE XIXth CENTURY — $2.00

By Florence Trail

"I have read your work with much interest and it seems to me a worthy tribute to a most delightful and remarkable personality. Manners and morals have changed so radically and, as I think shockingly, that any vivid and veracious record of personal character, of family life, and of religious and civic duty in what is now a past generation must be for us and for the future generations a reminder and corrective"——Jno. L. McCormick, Bishop of Western Michigan..

THE JOLLY EIGHT — Illustrated $2.00

By Daniel S. Crowningshield

From coast to coast and back. A true story of how eight people took a three months' camping trip through twenty-seven States, as well as Mexico and Canada.

BECOMING AN AMERICAN — $2.00

By Rev. Joseph Sullivan, D.D.

The book describes a childhood spent in the little town of Dingle, Ireland, there follows a self-educative career in Ireland, England and the United States. It explains what Americanism has meant to the author and has done for him and offers sensible experimental advice to those who are as he was—alien and seeking the privilege of American citizenship.

BIG THOUGHTS FOR LITTLE THINKERS — $1.50

By Ruth C. P. Stevenson

Here is a book which must appeal to every one interested in New Thought or any line of progressive metaphysical enquiry, because it shows very clearly what must inevitably be the logical purpose of life, when we accept the statement that "The Kingdom of Heaven is Within;" it aims to teach little children and students generally, that literally, all men are potentially Gods, and may by intelligent study and use of the powers of Mind draw upon the Cosmic Currents, so as to strengthen this Inner Nature of The I Am, and become Perfect even as The Father in Heaven is Perfect.

SMALL SLAMS — Illustrated $1.00

By Mary C. Huguenin

"Something like Small Slams has long been desired by many players and needed by all," says E. V. Shepard, president of Shepard's Studios, New York, in his foreword to the book. "The 'small slams' given are good-natured ones that in some measure apply to each one of us. Only a hardened sinner or pachyderm can read the entire length of 'don'ts' without some twinges of conscience. The book will help reform many honest transgressors, and might well be sent with appropriate marked passages to the unrepentant. Each remark conjures before our mental vision well remembered faces, names and incidents. The book deserves a place in every card room."

TRAINING MY BABES — Illustrated $2.00

By Ruth Williams Thompson

A help and delight to every parent.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

LIBRARY BOOKS

The Sky and the Firmament—Dawn—Sunrise—Moving Clouds, White Clouds and Others—Cloud Images—Storm Clouds—Storms—The Rainbow—Sunset and After—Night, with its Stars—Appendix, Clouds in the Bible, and Comments.

AN ITALIAN ANTHOLOGY — $2.00

Collected by Florence Trail, Author of "A History of Italian Literature"

An extremely artistic and comprehensive collection of Italian poems from the fourth century to the present era. The translations have been collected from a wide variety of sources.

APPLIED CHARACTER ANALYSIS — Illustrated $2.00

By John T. Miller, Chautauqua Lecturer, Editor of "The Character Builder"

A thoroughly up-to-date and practical volume, taking up such topics as:

LESSONS IN PARLIAMENTARY LAW — $3.00

By Mrs. Erwin Craighead

Designed especially for members of Women's Clubs, Societies, etc., but adapted as well to the needs of members of men's organizations and students generally.

TRAINING FOR STORE SERVICE — $2.00

By Lucille Eaves, of the Research Department of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston

A thoroughly practical book for all those employed in department stores, or about to take up that kind of work.

MYSTIC GEMS — Illustrated $3.00

By Harriet Keith Fobes

The plan of the book is built upon the twelve months and their respective birthstones; and under each one, beginning with the garnet for January and ending with the turquoise for December, we are treated to a variety of entertaining information respecting each of these stones and its near relatives, ranging from the history of their natural formation in the earth through legend and myth and mystic influences on health and fortune and love, to the natural sources of their supply, their monetary values, the history of certain famous individual gems, their influences in history, and their present ownership.

THE STORY OF THE SOIL — Illustrated $2.00

By Cyril G. Hopkins

"I must say that I think the book is destined to do more good, stir more thought, encourage more upward effort among the farmers of this country than any other publication that has yet appeared. It was a happy thought making a human story of it."—Ex-Governor W. D. Hoard, Ex-President Board of Regents, University of Wisconsin, Editor of Board's Dairyman, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin.

UDDER DISEASES OF THE COW — Illustrated $2.00

By A. S. Alexander, Profeesor Vetrinary Science, Univ. of Wisconsin

Structure of the Udder—Diseases of the Udder—Teat Sores and Injuries—Surgery of the Teats and Udder—Systemic Diseases Affecting the Udder—Conditions Affecting Milk Yield—Vices—Abnormalities of Milk—Milk Hygiene—Examinations and Tests for Soundness—Disinfection and Disinfectants.

BEST BOOKS ON SPIRIT PHENOMENA — $2.00

By Henrietta Lovi

The present outline has been compiled from the viewpoint of a library worker and a student of spirit survival, in an effort to indicate noteworthy and representative volumes in the English language dealing with that branch of psychical science concerned with proofs of continuity of life after physical death—with spirit communication—spirit manifestation—spirit phenomena.

WHY DO WE DO AS WE DO — $2.00

By JB Hollis Tegarden

The work is full of appeal for all of us who are interested in our own or our neighbors' behaviour.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

IMPORTANT FICTION

HICKS JAROU — $2.00

By Mrs. James C. Fifield.

A remarkable story of a body manufactured by a scientist and the various spirits that chose to inhabit it.

GAELIC FOLK TALES — $2.00

By Mary Grant O'Sheridan

These charming stories all have a historical foundation.

"It should be on the list of supplementary reading."—The Chicago Daily News.

SPIKE — Illustrated $2.00

By Badger Clark, Author of "Sun and Saddle Leather"

"About the easiest book of this year's crop, to read, is Spike.

"Spike is an ordinary cowboy, impecunious, chivalrous, philosophic and original. Badger Clark takes rank as a genuine cowboy writer and a humorist; he doesn't do any four-flushing, for, as Spike would say, he knows the difference between a real and a hair brand'."—Montana American.

WHO WAS IT? STORIES — Illustrated $1.50

By Julia H. Johnston

The chief characters in Miss Johnston's stories are unnamed, this detail being left for the children to supply. And with all eagerness they guess about Noah, Jonah, Joshua and others, attaching to themselves, before they know it, a precious fund of religious knowledge which will accompany them through life.

WHIRLING AROUND THE WORLD — Illustrated $2.50

By Lillian Sutton Pelee

"A book of travel which is unique. It is made up of twelve short stories, each of which is set in the countries visited during a trip around the world. No guide book or descriptive travel record could present such a vivid understanding of the hot-blooded Hawaiian half-breeds, for instance, as the story of Antone's love for the beautiful Chinese-Hawaiian girl, Orcella.

"The customs and superstitions which are still dominating influences among the natives—whatever their mixtures of blood or education may be, are presented vividly and effectively."—

—Walnut Park News

BEAK HOLLINS, A Story of a College Athlete — Illustrated $1.75

By John H. Clausen

For nearly a full year Beak Hollins of the Columbia track team and his classmate Ben Ferrisen had a real problem on their hands.

Of course, the problem contained a girl,—but there also was an unusual foot-race which complicated things considerably.

THE DISPUTED TITLE — $2.00

By Marietta Douglas

What more do you need for good reading than a disputed title and a modern bandit?

A COMPANIONATE SEPARATION — $2.00

By J. Walter Redfern

THESE THREE — $2.00

By Ward Hudson Parry

THESE THREE pictures the passing of the rural physician and his close personal contact with families among whom he has lived and worked. With the clinic and the specialist, the hard road-bed and the automobile, the country doctor, long the philosopher and the prophet, sees the advent of a new era in which he is to play no part.

THE ORGAN LOFT — $2.00

By John Henry Van Dyke

"As a highly dramatic novel, this book will satisfy the reader looking for thrills, unless he is a sincere prohibitionist. But besides being a capital story, The Organ Loft has for its mission the exposure of the evils of America's greatest experiment in sumptuary laws." —St. Louis Post-Dispatch

THE FLASH — $2.00

By John Henry Van Dyke

Here are a thousand situations that set the nerves vibrating.

TRUE NATURE STORIES, FOR BOY SCOUTS AND OTHER BOYS — Illus. $2.00

By Addison E. Verrill

Thrilling stories of beasts and birds and snakes.

There is no "nature faking," for all the adventures really happened.

RICHARD G. BADGER—PUBLISHER—BOSTON

POETRY AND PLAYS

SUN AND SADDLE LEATHER (Twelfth Edition) — Illustrated $2.50

By Badger Clark

Generous has been the praise given Sun and Saddle Leather, but perhaps no criticism has summed up the work so satisfactorily as the comment of the old cow man, who said: "You can break me if there's a dead poem in the book. I read the hull of it. Who is this kid Clark, anyway? I don't know how he knowed, but he knows."

Poetry says: "Poems certain to please not only the old 'cow men,' but the most arrant tenderfoot who has never worn chaps or spurs."

Dr. W. T. Hornaday says: "Some of the Sun and Saddle Leather poems have taken hold of me with a grip that only imbecility can shake loose. I have seen many poems and verses come out of the wild portions of the West; but these are the best. They are real poetry."

THE DESERT: GOD'S CRUCIBLE — Illustrated $5.00

By Bruce W. McDaniel

"Pray tell me, friend, does the desert speak
When the red sun smoulders o'er Pinto Peak?
And what may one see in that blazing land
Of painted hills and panting sand?"

To those who are unfamiliar with our American desert, the marvelous illustrations of this most attractive volume will be a decided revelation. Those who know and love the desert will see that its many beauties have been done full justice.

SOME VERMONTERS — $2.00

By Walter R. Hard

"The book is decidedly worth while. It is a good book to read and a good book to re-read—a good book to keep handy on the center table for browsing; a good book to show to visitors. There is a wealth of human nature in it and more than a bit of human wisdom and philosophy, gay, sorrowful or sardonic. And it ends up on a note that may bring a bit of cheer to such of us as sometimes feel that we have hauled out our lives to little avail in the mud of the nigh front wheel:

" 'Those who had the brains
To know brains when they saw them.
Those who were big enough
Not to amount to much.' "

—The Manchester Journal

TEA AND LITTLE RICE CAKES AND OTHER PLAYS — $2.00

By Margaret Scott Oliver, Author of "The Turtle Dove"

THE GREAT ELIZABETH — $2.00

By Henry Hanby Hay

" 'Tis God's Assize and England is the field,
Grave statesmen keep the lists, and keen to judge
Sit Popes, strong Captains, and annointed Kings,
Against the shaking barriers, fiercely pressed
Are priests and Puritans, is hate for hate.
When Jesuits rally crying Mary Stuart,
The free church counters with Elizabeth,
O Queen gainst Queen—One absolute in grace,
And power to thrall, and yet she is betrayed,
And takes delight in her own fantasy,
The conquering Queen, her passion is her land,
All other virtues are the vassals of her will."

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST REVIEW IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE DEVOTED TO POETRY AND DRAMA

Poet Lore

WORLD LITERATURE AND THE DRAMA

A MAGAZINE THAT WILL KEEP YOU IN TOUCH WITH THE BEST LITERATURE
ALL OVER THE WORLD

POET LORE is the oldest and largest review in the English language devoted to poetry and drama. In its pages appear the best work of the world's greatest writers. Fof over thirty years it has been an active pioneer in promoting an interest in international letters. Mæterlinck, Hauptmann, Tchekkof, Schnitzler, D'Annunzio, Gorki, Andreyev, Bjornson and Synge are among those Poet Lore has introduced to the American public.

A MAGAZINE FOR THE LITERARY EPICURE

"A periodical that stands steadfastly for good literature."— The Dial.

"There is no more helpful publication in the English language for the student and teacher than POET LORE."— Journal of Pedagogy.

"POET LORE devotes itself to the study of pure literature. Few magazines savor so little of Philistinism, in any of its various forms in modern times."—Review of Reviews.

JUDITH AND JANE

By ELEANORE MYERS JEWETT

This is the story of two very different girls who became friends. They began by being anything but friendly, and Jane who was "new," found life in school rather unpleasant. Strange that Judy who apparently had so much to make her happy, should be envious of Jane who had so little! Judy, however, was not so happy as might have been expected. As for Jane, troubles came her way thick and fast. But Jane found that trouble, met by a brave heart, wins friends, and friends mean more than anything else.

Bound in extra cloth with colored inlay. Four illustrations printed in two colors. Wrapper in three colors.

Size 5⅜ x 7⅝ inches. .....Net, $1.50

FEODORA

By ELEANORE MYERS JEWETT

Judith and Jane again figure as leading characters in this story, though the chief center of intense interest clusters about the mysterious yet lovable Feodora.

Feodora has a secret, in fact many secrets, around which revolve many of the exciting happenings narrated in this story.

The three girls are spending the summer at a girls' camp in northern Vermont. The competitive games with a neighboring camp and the adventures attending life in the open will hold your interest to the end.

Bound in extra cloth with cover stamped in gold and colored inlay.

Four illustrations printed in two colors, wrapper in four colors.

Size 5⅜ x 7⅝ inches. .....Net, $1.50

VIRGINIA LEE

By CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

Fourteen young pupils of the Junior High School form a Travel Club. Not the least factor in the success of the Club is the cleverness of its secretary, Virginia Lee. She it is whose plans and suggestions enable the various "committees" to function properly and lead the Club to triumphant climaxes.

As it is quite necessary that the Club have funds, the members decide to hold a rummage sale. It is interesting to read how the proceeds of this sale are used.

Virginia Lee's sweet disposition, sense of fair play and gift of real leadership are such as may be chosen as models by any girl.

Bound in extra cloth with colored inlay on cover. Four illustrations. Wrapper in four colors.

Size 5⅜ x 7⅝ inches. .....Net, $1.50

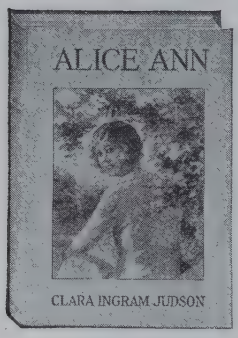
ALICE ANN

By CLARA INGRAM JUDSON



The many readers who have found delight in Mrs. Judson's books about little Mary Jane will find "Alice Ann" equally entertaining, wholesome, and amusing. You who are as yet unacquainted with this author's lively characters have a treat in store for you.

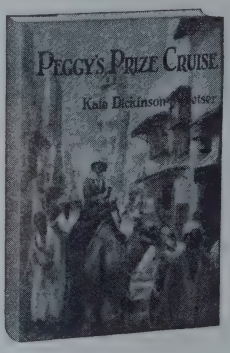
Of school sports, picnics, and ambitious plans, "Alice Ann" has not a dull moment, and the charming girl and her chums will soon become fast friends of yours.

Bound in extra cloth. Four illustrations. Wrapper in four colors.

Size 5¾ x 8 inches. Cloth. $1.50

PEGGY'S PRIZE CRUISE

By KATE DICKINSON SWEETSER



The Orrville News offered as a prize a Mediterranean trip to the student, in the senior class of the Orrville High School, who would write a synopsis of a play with a historical theme best suited for a five reel screen play. Paul Day wins the prize and his play has a try-out with an all star amateur cast and Peggy Emmons is chosen to play the lead.

Great preparations are made for the cruise and at last the day of sailing arrives. Then ensue some exciting experiences for Peggy and Paul, for Peggy's family had also decided to take the trip, to Peggy's great joy. The tourists visit Madeira, Algiers, Constantinople, Cairo, Monte Carlo, etc. A good lively plot runs throughout the book, the travel information being always linked up with the action of the story.

Bound in extra cloth with colored inlay on cover and six illustrations. Wrapper in three colors.

Size 5⅜ x 7⅝ inches

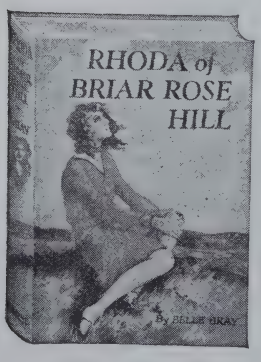
*RHODA OF BRIAR ROSE HILL

By BELLE GRAY



At first it seems that there is nothing to recommend this beautiful heroine but a wonderful voice. Her father was an inveterate gambler, her mother could neither read nor write but had an inborn religious nature, her home was not worthy of the name. Rhoda knew nothing of school until she was eight years old.

In spite of all these handicaps her sweet nature, her voice, her wish to succeed, her aptness to learn, her appreciation of the right kind of friends all unite in carrying her up the ladder to useful success and to a wonderful love.

Bound in extra cloth with cover stamped in gold and colored inlay. Four illustrations. Jacket in four colors.

Size 5¾ x 8 inches. . . . . Net $1.50

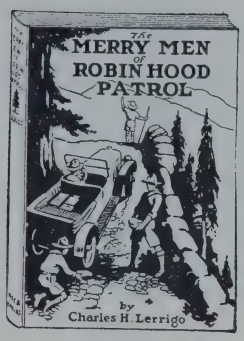
THE MERRY MEN OF ROBIN HOOD PATROL



By CHARLES H. LERRIGO

For boys who like action and adventure in the West, there is not a better book published than this. Five scouts and Peppermint, the vest-pocket watch-dog, set out in a high-powered car to find the missing "Lord Pop." Before they finally locate the Gold Mine of Robin Hood Patrol, they go into fire and water, a volcano, and nearly meet death at the hands of the terrible Duke gang.

HAT MAY

An Enchanted Princess

By LUCY THURSTON ABBOTT

This charming story is concerned with the fortunes of a little girl whom a whim of Fate has placed in charge of a woman and her lame husband living on the New England coast—the Winkiepaw pair—and the woman, whom Hat May always looks upon as a cruel ogress of her imaginary fairy world, treats her very badly indeed.

*WELCOME BARBARA AND SANDY

By KATHLEEN COONEY

Cute, quaint little Welcome Barbara has come back to us in a second volume. She brings with her Sandy, a returned veteran from overseas, a sadly wounded soldier-philosopher. In the restoration of Sandy to physical health Welcome is half the cure. This is a book that will entertain the children, delight the young folks and please the older ones whose appreciation of little children is perhaps the greater because of their love for them and their sympathy with memories of the time when they were as Barbara.

THE TRAVELING BEARS

By SEYMOUR EATON

Teddy B and Teddy G are as nearly human as it is possible for bears to be. They love children and make playmates of them wherever they go. They never have an idle moment, and their adventures are amusing as well as instructive.

Snappy, exciting tales, with plenty of action in every chapter and a laugh on every page. A book that will be read as long as there are children to read it.

Bound in cloth with colored inlay. Pen and ink drawings on each page and four illustrations printed in four colors. Wrapper in four colors.

Size 7½ x 10 inches. $1.00

PEGGY AND JOAN

By MRS. H. C. CRADOCK

Little girls from five to ten years old will love this charming story about Peggy and Joan and Uncle Jack, the nice man who always had "secrets" tucked away in his mysterious pockets. He makes a magnificent doll-house for the two girls. With its planning, building, and pretty occupants this tale is concerned.

The book is beautifully illustrated in colors, and makes a lovely present for the youngsters.

THE CAT, THE DOG, AND THE DORMOUSE

By ALICE HALL

The creatures whose adventures are picturesquely described in this book never cease to play their proper parts, and young readers will follow their exploits with a personal interest. Besides the first story, there are others about a cat of surpassing rarity, a limitless road leading to untold adventure, a remarkable cobbler's thread, and, among them, the fascinating tale of "Unshoe-the-Horse." All these are delightfully whimsical and entertaining. Beautiful illustrations. Wrapper in four colors.

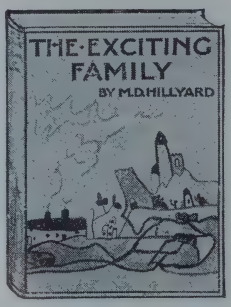
Size 6¼ x 8 inches. Cloth, $1.50

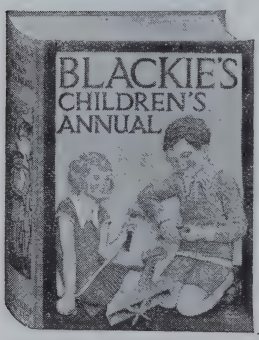
THE EXCITING FAMILY

By M. D. HILLYARD

This is the story of an unusual family, the Brooms, who take a house in the forlorn village of Dullmudcombe and proceed to wake up the sleepy town. As they had extraordinary gifts—such as that which enables them to change a policeman into a remarkable shape—this is easily done. The illustrations of the book are by two Russian girls and are done with the happy abandon of true children. Wrapper in four colors.

Size 6¼ x 8 inches. Cloth, $1.50





*THE CHILDREN'S ANNUAL

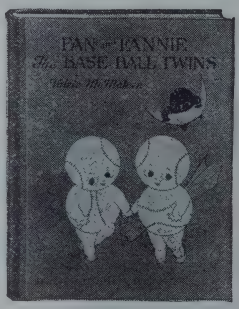
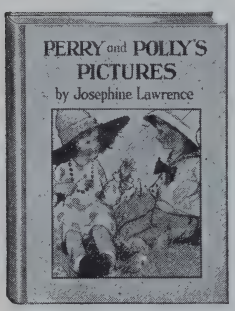
*FAN AND FANNIE THE BASEBALL TWINS

By VALRIE McMAHAN



A new world of little people has been created through the medium of our national sport. Fan and Fannie, the Baseball Twins, here make their bow, accompanied by their faithful and fun-loving companion, little Ginger. Mother Glove and the Good Fairy lead these lovable children through the world, introducing them to the flowers and the birds and bees, the trees and all that lives. Dressed only in stitches and round as a ball, they romp through the fields and climb into trees, prying out the secrets of nature and learning to be kind and helpful to everyone and everything they meet. Sixteen illustrations, end papers and cover in four colors.

Size 6¼ x 8¼ inches. Boards. Boxed, $1.00



*PERRY AND POLLY'S PICTURES

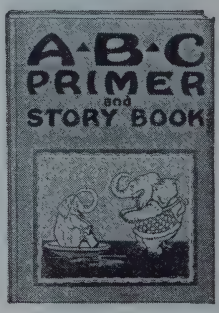
Perry and Polly Primrose climb a hill, to find out what is on the other side. They discover a house, called "The Paint Box," where an artist who paints pictures and two little daughters who help him, lives. Perry and Polly help make pictures too. Later when they learn that a baby has no one to love her, Perry and Polly and the pictures make everyone happy. Nicely illustrated with thirteen pictures in three colors. Wrapper in three colors.

Size 6¼ x 8¼ inches. Cloth. Boxed, $1.00

A-B-C PRIMER AND STORY BOOK

By KAY SWAN



A delightful "companion" for the little folks of pre-school age. It is designed from the standpoint of the young child—of his needs and his limitations. It teaches without being pedantic; leading the child by easy stages from the alphabet, through word building and simple sentence structure up to reading ability. The story is charmingly told in words that children use and printed from large readable type. The vivid coloring of the illustrations makes it a delightfully gay primary reader that is bound to leave a deep and abiding impression.

*BOOKS FOR BABY IN PICTURE, PROSE AND VERSE

Edited by
MRS. HERBERT STRANG

This series constitutes a juvenile classic. Pictures always interest the very young. In What Baby Sees pictures are shown of those objects which Baby first sees and handles. As Baby begins to talk he will be attracted by jingles and as Rhymes for Baby become familiar his little mind will reach out for something new and Stories for Baby follow to be succeeded by What Baby Reads. In this he is introduced to letters, used as initials of objects he knows and which are illustrated. Thus the lively little intellect is led along, tiny step by tiny step, and almost unconsciously Baby learns, thoughts and habits are formed and the foundations of his character are laid.

Six colored illustrations in each volume.

Bound in stiff board cover in color.

THE TWO LITTLE FELLOWS SERIES

By
JOSEPHINE LAWRENCE
(For Boys and Girls from 5 to 9)

The neighbors say "the two little Fellows" when they speak of Martin and Jean. That is because this small brother and sister are always together. You just have to think of them as a pair.

The Fellows family live in Garnet, a busy city, but the two little Fellows have a yard all their own in which to play, and a wonderful dog, who is very wise indeed, for a playmate. Pleasantly exciting things happen to Martin and Jean. Sometimes little troubles ruffle them, but in the main, this growing up day by day is very interesting and busy work. The two little Fellows think so and as you read about them in these books, you'll find you have made two new friends.

Each book contains four illustrations. Wrapper printed in four colors.

5 titles. Size 5 x 7⅝ inches. Cloth. Per vol., 50 cents

.....1 The Two Little Fellows. .....3 The Two Little Fellows Go Visiting.
.....2 The Two Little Fellows Start School. .....4 The Two Little Fellows' Secret.
.....*5 The Two Little Fellows in April.

THE JOYCE PAYTON SERIES

By DOROTHY WHITEHILL
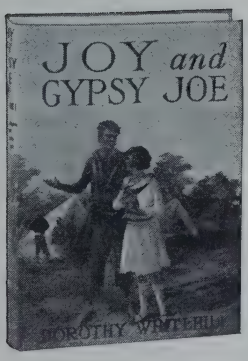
(For Girls from 8 to 14)



Between the covers of these new books will be found the most intensely interesting cast of characters, whose adventures in school and at home keep one guessing continually. Joyce Payton, known as "Joy" with her knowledge of gypsy ways, is bound to become a universal favorite; there is also Pam, her running mate, and best chum; Gypsy Joe, the little Romany genius, and his magical "fiddle", with which he talks to the birds, squirrels, and in fact all of Animated Nature. Then there is among the host of others Gloria, the city-bred cousin, a spoiled darling; who feels like a "cat in a strange garret" when in the company of Joy and her friends.

Each book contains four illustrations. Wrapper printed in three colors.

4 titles. Size 5 x 7⅝ inches. Cloth. Per vol., 50 cents

.....1 Joy and Gypsy Joe. .....3 Joy and Her Chums.
.....2 Joy and Pam. .....*4 Joy and Pam at Brookside.

THE AVIATION SERIES

By
JOHN PRENTICE LANGLEY
(For Boys from 8 to 80)

There is no other topic of such world-wide interest as Aviation. And that interest will be increased with proposed flights to the South Pole, Japan, and 'Round the World.

"The Aviation Series" by John Prentice Langley, an authority on flying has been written to further the interest in flying and to tell "Young America", in its own words, the fun, hardships, triumphs and thrills connected with this sport.

In this series you will become acquainted with Amos Green and his friend Dan, two of the most daring young Americans you have ever read about. Each book contains four illustrations. Wrapper printed in three colors.

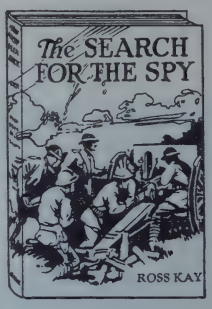
THE BIG WAR SERIES

(Trade Mark Registered)
By
ROSS KAY
(For Boys from 12 to 16)



The action of these thrilling stories takes place against the grim background of the huge European War. Mr. Kay is one of the best known writers of juvenile fiction and has carefully written these heartgripping stories of the gigantic struggle between nations.

This series does not contain lengthy descriptions of battles nor studies of strategical campaigns which would prove tiresome to the younger generation, but is packed with swiftly moving events. The information given of the great military movements is as accurate as that to be found in the best history books.

Authentic, instructive, and excicting, these stories of boys' adventures in the Great War are among our best and most popular series. Read one and you'll read the rest. Halftone frontispiece. Wrapper printed in three colors.

6 titles. Size 5 x 7⅝ inches. Cloth. Per vol., 50 cents

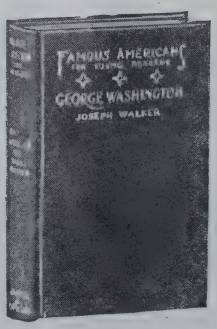
FAMOUS AMERICANS FOR YOUNG READERS

The books are sparkling new life stories of their subjects. They are not formal biographies beginning "he was born," and ending "he died." They are written in anecdotal style with all the snap and charm of fiction. But being true, they have tenfold its interest and value. The boy and girl with a shelf of these books will have not only a feast of good reading, but also a fine course in good citizenship.



Each book is illustrated from famous portraits and scenes, handsomely bound in cloth with gold titles on side and back, and wrapped in handsome art paper jacket.

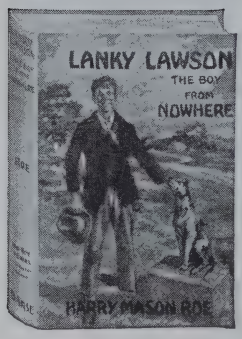
*LANKY LAWSON SERIES

By
HARRY MASON ROE
(For Boys from 10 to 16)



In this series of books Lanky Lawson tells his own story and does it in his own way. Of unknown parentage, he is keen, quick and full of dry humor—and honest to the core. He is always willing to aid a friend and equally willing to give an enemy what he deserves, but often in a laughable way. He is knocked around from pillar to post, trying all sorts of jobs and making all sorts of odd acquaintances. He helps to bring a swindler to justice, falls in with an aviator who takes him skyward and he becomes an attache of a small circus that is on the verge of going to pieces.

Every boy who reads about Lanky Lawson and his doings will take Lanky right to his heart—"And that's O. K. with me," as Lanky would say.

Each book contains four illustrations. Wrapper printed in three colors.

2 titles. Size 5 x 7⅝ inches. Cloth
Per vol., 50 cents

.....1. Lanky Lawson, the Boy from Nowhere.
.....2. Lanky Lawson with the One-Ring Circus.

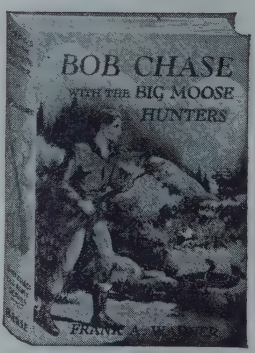
*BOB CHASE BIG GAME SERIES

By FRANK A. WARNER
(For Boys from 10 to 16)

The average boy of to-day is keenly interested in adventures in out-of-the-way places and especially interested in the hunting of big game.



In this line of books the hero is a young lumberjack who is a crack rifle shot. While tracking game in the wilds of Maine he does some rich hunters a great service and they become interested in Bob and take him on various hunting expeditions in this country and abroad. Bob learns what it is to face not only wildcats, foxes and deer but also bull moose, Rocky Mountain grizzly bears, and many other species of big game. He encounters many other perils of forest and jungle—fire, windstorm, landslide, the deadly rattlesnake and the equally formidable boa constrictor.

Stories that are absorbing from start to finish, and with much valuable data on animal life as lived in the wilderness.

Each book contains four illustrations. Wrapper printed in three colors.

3 titles. Size 5 x 7⅝ inches. Cloth.
Per vol., 50 cents

.....1. Bob Chase with the Big Moose Hunters.

THE KNEETIME ANIMAL STORIES

By
RICHARD BARNUM

(For Boys and Girls from 5 to 8)

In all nursery literature animals have played a conspicuous part; and the reason is obvious, for nothing entertains a child more than the antics of an animal. These stories abound in amusing incidents such as younger children adore, and the characters are so full of life, that none will be satisfied until they have met all of their favorites. Each book contains seven pen-and-ink drawings. Beautiful colored jacket.

12 titles. Size 5 x 7½ inches. Cloth. Illustrated

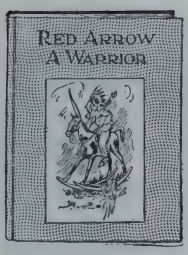
THE TOYLAND SERIES

By
JOSEPHINE LAWRENCE
(For Boys and Girls from 4 to 8)



This series is recommended to all boys and girls who like secrets. They may learn, for instance, what dolls do when left to themselves. And what happens to a paper doll whose clothes go out of style. There are stories, too, about Mr. White who is a close friend to Santa Claus and took care of the gold pieces for him. Mr. White is so famous that he has someone named after him; "Mr. White Jr." who teaches a lonely lady how to find her lost happiness. As for Indians—well Indians can't live without at least one wild adventure a day and certainly these three Indians have almost as many exciting experiences as there are feathers in their head-dresses.

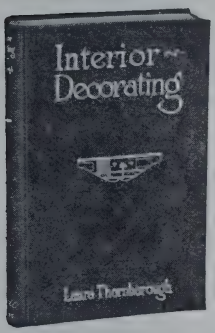
INTERIOR DECORATING FOR EVERYBODY

By LAURA THORNBOROUGH



"What shall we use or how many pieces shall we have?" is the question that invariably faces a young married couple when they start furnishing a home. This question is admirably answered by Jane Norton, who has experienced all these problems from the time she left her Southern home to come to New York where she first furnished one room which had to do as a combination of kitchenette, dining room, living room and bedroom. Later when she marries she has the experience in furnishing a small apartment, then a larger one and finally her own home.

WALT MASON—HIS BOOK

With an Introduction by IRVIN S. COBB

Walt Mason's prose poetry is perhaps the most widely read of contemporary writers. William Allen White says: "How many millions of people are cheered year by year as they turn every day to those quaint verses! Here is a man doing a man's work in the world, making life brighter and more cheerful and more sensible in this vale of tears. Millions in money could do no more—if as much—as this man does at his day's work."

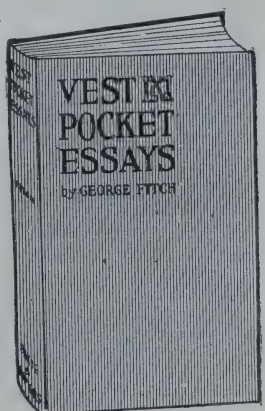
VEST POCKET ESSAYS

By GEORGE FITCH



"Vest Pocket Essays" are short talks—about four hundred words each—on miscellaneous subjects, "From Hope to Hash," "From Cabbages to Kings." Fitch's humor is good-natured, yet there is a wealth of meaning behind this fun. It is above all things a philosophic humor, though he is never cynically smart, and when he takes certain institutions to task he does it in a kindly manner.

WHY NOT GROW YOUNG?

By ROBERT W. SERVICE

Those of us who have followed Service through his red-blooded verses of "The Spell of The Yukon" and later visited the Paris underworld in "The Master of the Microbe" will hail with delight his latest effort.

Having arrived at the age of fifty-five years, Robert W. Service found himself to be in poor health. On consulting a number of prominent European physicians, he received various suggestions to regain his health.

In this book Mr. Service tells how this was done and in publishing it feels that others may profit by his experience.

In conjunction with Mr. Service's style of writing and the practical knowledge he imparts, we can confidently feel that another literary gem has been added to our library.

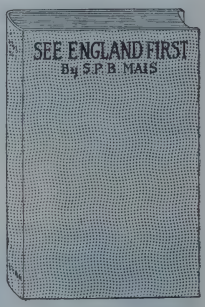
SEE ENGLAND FIRST

By S. P. B. MAIS



Those who are planning to visit England and its beautiful, sunny countrysides will find Mr. Mais's book as instructive as it is entertaining. All the inherent loveliness and charm of quaint British inns, long, winding roads, and picturesquely thatched cottages will return to the seasoned traveler who has found rest and peace in the various shires of England.

But Mr. Mais does not allow his love for pastoral England to run away with him. With consummate skill and keen discrimination, he describes the most interesting and important features of the ancient, rambling towns and cities. He peeps into out-of-the-way places and makes fascinating comment on the rare treasures in architecture and art which are part of Briton's history. His book is one which everyone should possess. BELLE OF BOHEMIA

The Memoirs of
BELLE LIVINGSTONE

This is the story of a woman who always did what she wanted without counting the cost—who laughed her way through triumphs and toastings and who still laughed when the turn of Fate's wheel left her lonely, destitute and childless.

Belle Livingstone—a merry girl asking the first man she met to marry her so that she could leave her home to go on the stage—a chorus girl unexpectedly inheriting a fortune—an American heiress in England living a fashionable, gay life—then suddenly bereft of her fortune, setting out to go round the world on her wits. Her story reads like a thrilling narrative from the Arabian Nights. Illustrated.

TROPIC SHADOWS

Memories of the South Seas, Together With Reminiscences of the Author's Sea Meetings with Joseph Conrad

By A. SAFRONI-MIDDLETON

(Author of "A Vagabond's Odyssey," "Sailor and Beachcomber," "Sestrina," etc.

Glamorous, fascinating, and written wholly in the spirit of the South Seas, these reminiscences of an old traveler carry one far out to the tiny islands of palms, flaming birds, and gentle, peace-loving natives. As one reads along, the subtle influence of the tropics casts its spell, and before one's eyes the lazy scenes of the south seas rise in colorful profusion. Among vivid descriptions there are related countless true stories of thrilling adventure on the gleaming gems of the Pacific.

The Author, a hardy traveler and friend of Conrad's, says: "I still sit down here—on the broad shoulders of the Antipodes—patiently awaiting the 'Call of the Sea' and the steady tramp of solemn, silent men come to sail away—with me, their Captain—that we may go down together with the great tide, and sail beyond the dim horizon into the silent seas of romance, bound for Eldorado, the whereabouts of which I reveal to all who reach the end of this book." IN THE SHADOWS

Three Heroines of the Revolution

By RAOUL ARNAUD

There are probably few people who are not acquainted with the name of the Marquis de La Fayette, the young French soldier who rendered such signal service to the Americans at the time of the War of Independence. There are still fewer who realize how he was cast out by the very people to whom he had brought liberty, the ill-treatment meted out to him, and the heroic efforts made by his devoted wife to help him and her own relatives at the same time, although she herself was thrown into prison.

The amazing fortitude and endurance of the French Aristocrats, and the great-heartedness of their womenfolk, are clearly illustrated in this book, whose author has relied on authentic documents for his facts. Illustrated.

THE LIVING LINKS

By ETIENNE DUPONT

This is a true story of the stirring days of the French Revolution, told by an author who has relied on authentic facts to give life to his work. The escapades of the Royalists preferring to remain in their own country, despite their changed circumstances, and the bravery and resource exhibited by the King's Messengers, the plucky souls who carried the despatches from the conspirators to their countrymen in the Channel Islands and England, in a manner only equalled by the Jacobite agents of another and similar period, go to make up a narrative packed with romance and interest. BOOKS BY ROBERT W. SERVICE

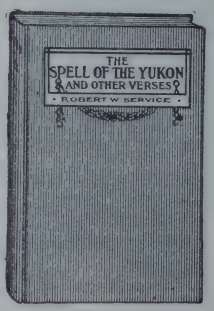
The amazing and increasing popularity of Robert W. Service's books can only be accounted for in the excellence of the poems themselves. They strike a universal chord in the heart of humanity. If you have not already met Service, do not lose another day. If you have, it's "up to you" to present him to some friend.

THE SPELL OF THE YUKON

And Other Verses. "Songs of a Sourdough."



Cloth

Service's first great book was originally called "Songs of a Sourdough," and is thus known to thousands of readers in Canada and England. In the United States it is even better known by the title "The Spell of the Yukon." It has already become a classic. Here are poems of irresistible truth and power which hold the reader enthralled.

The scene is the Yukon, and the characters are real men—men of flesh and blood who talk in direct and virile language, who have primal instincts and passions, who toil, sin, dream, accomplish and despair. Strong and outspoken are these poems—a man's message to men—yet fit for the reading of all, because they are true. This popular book is now published in two sizes and varied styles to suit every taste.

By
ROBERT W. SERVICE

These are indeed stirring verses of the Great Outdoors—of the Wide Spaces, and the mysterious tundras of the frigid North Country. They breathe the same bold spirit of romance and stern reality that stamp all of Service's rhymes and ballads, as the handwork of one who draws his inspiration from a vast fund of actual experiences, when he pictures the ever recurring dramatic happenings of the "Never, Never Land."

RHYMES OF A RED CROSS MAN

By

ROBERT W. SERVICE

Flexible

By all odds the most powerful and popular book of poems by a single author emanating from the Great War. Written amid the din and roar of battle, these vivid pen pictures show the sunny side of war. A writer in The Dial, voicing many other opinions, says:

"Detail after detail of life at the front takes its place in the various narratives, adding touches of excitement, pathos, terror, tenderness, or humor, and in the end imbuing this particular reader with a closer sense of life in the Great War than any correspondent, novelist, or poet has yet given him—making it so natural, straightforward, first-hand, vibrant, that if you are like me you will close the book with a painful silence in the ears that follows great sound and the flush in the head that comes from the sight of broken bodies and the squeeze in the throat that comes in the presense of honest human emotions. It is not a criticism from without, but a cry from within—dignifying even 'Tipperary.' We have been inquiring for the poetry of the War. In my judgment, here it is."

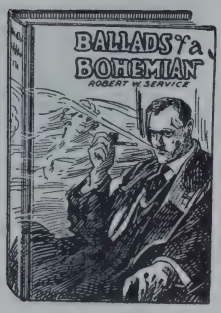
BALLADS OF A BOHEMIAN

By
ROBERT W. SERVICE



Cloth

This volume of verse is the largest that Service has thus far written. It is full of humor, of pathos, of tragedy, of passion, of sentiment, such as only Service can fully express. And because it is a human document by a master hand, its publication is an event of prime importance.

It is a panorama of life in four parts—Spring, Early Summer, Late Summer and Winter. Before our eyes pass a swift succession of vivid pictures—of a poor poet's garret, of the cafés, the absinthe drinkers, the boulevards, of the various queer neighbors—artists, little sewing girls, cocottes, grisettes—all the busy, jostling life of the Latin Quarter of Paris.

COMPANIONSHIP

By ANNE CAMPBELL

In "Companionship" Anne Campbell goes the whole gamut of her emotions and holds the mirror up to almost every angle of the every-day experience of the working American man and woman. Always humorous, homelike and happy, Anne Campbell can touch on the deepest things in life with delicate, poignant touches which illumine for us the innermost secrets of our hearts.

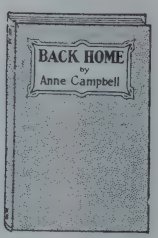
BACK HOME

By ANNE CAMPBELL



Due to the constant demand for Anne Campbell's works, we are publishing a new volume entitled "BACK HOME"— a book of poetry on farm life in which she has given us her best. Miss Campbell has actually lived the life of which she writes. With her knowledge of farm life, coupled with her ability to instil feeling in her poetry, she creates characters and scenes that are realistic.

THE MEASURE OF A MAN

By JAMIE HERON

"Jamie" Heron is known from one end of the land to the other as an after-dinner speaker par excellence. For a long time he has been a feature with Rotary Clubs, Chambers of Commerce, etc., where he reads his own poems, dealing with optimism, success, and other topics of human and business interest. Read this book, which contains the best of his verses, and learn the secret of his well-earned popularity.

*THE SILVER COW

By
FRANK C. ROBERTSON

In all the history of the great West there are no more interesting stories told than those of the days of the ranchmen.

Of such a time and times does Frank C. Robertson write in "THE SILVER COW." He depicts the intense rivalry among the rangers and their interminable plottings and counterplotting, and tempers it all with a love story unobtrusively running through the tale but as intense as the implacable hate of the Indian for the white man.

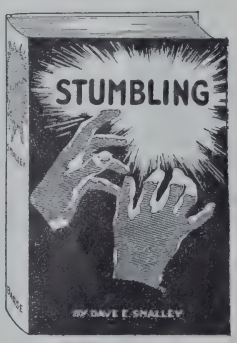
*STUMBLING

By
DAVE E. SMALLEY



Here we have a condemned and sentenced criminal—"a born killer"—so changed by surgery that even the judge who sentenced him does not recognize him when, in his new mind and character as an eminent physician, he treats the jurist for and cures him of a long standing trouble.

"But he could not equivocate to heaven." "Finger prints never lie." Of all recently written stories, this is easily and supremely at the head. There are such delicately subtle touches and continuity of reasonable argument that the story is a study in psychology well worth deep consideration. It is a story to be read and re-read.

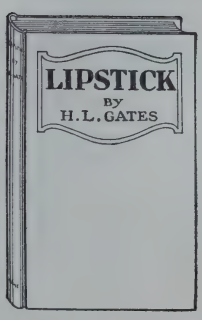
*LIPSTICK

By
H. L. GATES



This is the story of Chris Thatcher, otherwise known in her crowd as Devil-may-care, an exuberant daughter of the cocktail set who must fight with all of her jazzland weapons for posession of the man she decided to want.

There is a sharply drawn background of giddy middle-agers of the Lipstick crowd, the fathers and mothers with their mad splashing at the edge of youth's sparkling pool.

Some will find the book's most startling implications, its depth and purpose, among the middle-agers; others will remain breathless with the young crowd and be satisfied to just marvel at them. In either event its reader will find it a fascinating and a surprising novel of Us and our young Sophisticates.

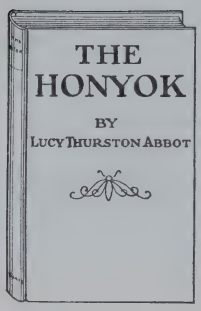
*THE HONYOK

By
LUCY THURSTON ABBOTT



The Honyok is an entirely new type of Western Story. Cowboys, shooting, adventure, and finally love are in the narrative but none of the "wild and woolly" "rough stuff" these tales usually present.

Prairie people are described, their joys and troubles, their work and play are told and their characters dissected. How Helena lives, plans, accomplishes, and how love finally finds her, is told in sufficient detail to make intimate prairie existence a telling word-picture, true to life, entertaining and informative as well.

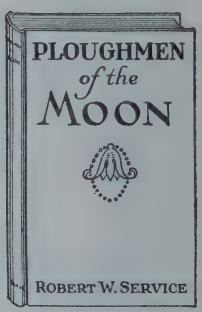
*PLOUGHMEN OF THE MOON

By
ROBERT W. SERVICE



This new volume contains over thirty short stories, making a well packed book, the contents of which cover a wide range—from the Yukon, Main Street, the Latin Quarter, and England, to Brittany; many of the incidents being gleaned from the author's own personal experience.

The stories run the gamut from grave to gay; from sinister to ironical; and are mostly sardonic in tone. They are, it may be added, certain to awaken fresh enthusiasm among the writer's multitude of admirers.

THE RED DANCER OF MOSCOW

By
H. L. GATES

At last a powerful love story told against the Russian background without the morbid brooding of the familiar narrative of Terror. Mr. Gates goes far into Russia, and brings forth a girl, a girl we can understand and take to our hearts, because she seems to be just like our girls. One may think of Tanya Ilych as Mary Smith and thus know the thrill of fully understanding the Red Dancer of Moscow. Mr. Gates goes also to the palace of the Czar, and brings forth a Grand Duke, but he makes of him a lover first, then aristocrat. There is a princess from among the nobles, but, also, a soldier from among the Cossacks. Above all there is Tanya Ilych, The Red Dancer. who might be our own Mary Smith, and Eugen, who might be Mary's young employer, or the gilded lover of her dreams.

TO THE TRADE

The books listed in this catalogue are mainly our own publications. The others are importations or books the sale of which is in our hands as agents; these are usually marked with an asterisk (*) and are subject to special discount.

Discount to the actual trade made known on request. We believe it generous enough to induce the trade to carry many of these publications in stock. We carry constantly in stock practically everything in print of Judaica and Hebraica. We specialize in scarce and out-of-print volumes. No other concern in the world carries such a large and varied collection of old and new Jewish books.

Complete descriptive catalogues of Religious School Books, Bibles, Music, Plays, Prayer Books, Fiction, sent on request.

THE WOMAN OF ANDROS

By THORNTON WILDER

"My own list of tomorrow's notable names would include Thornton Wilder . . . His unique quality is that he possesses the classical temper. The places and dates he uses are to his stories what the weaver's beam and shuttle are to the fabric, a device to hold the golden threads while the pattern is being wrought. Holding that 'the true function of literature is the notation of the heart' his theme is always the ageless problem of love and death."—Isabel Paterson.

The Woman of Andros is a novel based upon the situation in the opening acts of Terence's famous Latin comedy, The Andria, itself an adaptation of a lost Greek original. In contrast to Mr. Wilder's earlier novels, the characters of The Woman of Andros are simple village dwellers. The book is a study in the inner life of a few characters passing through circumstances that are common to domestic life in all times and places.

THE CAPTIVE (La Prisonnière)

By MARCEL PROUST

Translated by C. K. Scott Moncrieff

"Proust's books are the autobiography of a sensitive soul, for whom the visible world exists. With his adoration of beauty, he gives one an equal sense of the beauty of exterior things and of physical beauty; with infinite carefulness, with infinite precautions, he gives one glimpses of occult secrets unknown to us, of our inevitable instincts. He is a creator of gorgeous fabrics, Babylons, Sodoms."—ARTHUR SYMONS.

This is the fifth novel of the series Remembrance of Things Past. It is complete in itself.

Uniform in style and binding, this is the first book in the series to be published in one volume at a popular price.

DEWER RIDES

By L. A. G. STRONG

"Across this narrative, through old Dartmoor, through the lives of the men and women portrayed, Dewer, the evil spirit of earth, rides on.

This is more than a biographical novel of the hero, Dick Brendon, farmer of Dartmoor. In a sense the real hero is the malevolent spirit of the wild countryside, symbolized in the mythical demon hunter, Dewer, who exists in a weird folk belief.

One seldom finds a book in which the common life of the people of earth, the age-long existence of the rural village, the elements of nature, are treated with such vividness, such power and human significance. The reader is gradually made aware of a presence, a mystery, an unseen power, which motivates, destroys, and destines the lives and thoughts of men.

The reader will find in Strong's book some suggestion of Thomas Hardy's novels, yet very different is this. In both, the very soil of a backward section of rural England lives and masters the course of events; in both, this non-human, irrational something brings tragedy and destruction. But Hardy's fatalism is Greek. Strong's is medieval. Hardy's human characters, living on the Heath, are its victims, the victims of a blind, relentless, impersonal fate. With Strong this fatality is like a personal malice, a spirit of revolt, something ungovernable in nature and in man.

In the powerful, rather slowly moving first portion of the story Dick Brendon is seen growing to manhood. The very spirit of Dartmoor is in and of him and he is by it later brought to destruction. The reader will be held by the clearly drawn story of his love for Ruth Palmer, a love apparently at first idyllic, really tragic. The role that Ruth's religion plays in this tragedy and in determining the fatal events that follow is very graphically told, yet this is not a story of superstition or sentimentality. It is a story of earth and a powerful one, suggesting Reymont's The Peasants or Rolvaag's Giants in the Earth."—Everett Dean Martin.

CHÉRI

By COLETTE

Translated by Janet Flanner

Lewis Galantière says, "It is as difficult to write about Madame Colette as it would be to write like her. At one moment her most impressive quality seems to be a penetrating sophistication and a great daring in her concern with border-line themes. Yet in the next moment one sees that it is not sophistication but compassion that is fundamental to her work, and that if her subject is scabrous—as it is of course in Chéri—her delicacy of feeling and of treatment is in unimpeachable taste. There are books of hers in which she appears a typical Parisienne; and there are others in which she writes of the countryside and its flowers and odors and animals and children. No writer living or dead has owed less to literature. She is unique in her perfect expression of the world as it is known to her senses, her nerves, and her mind.

"Chéri—one of her later novels—is the only story of a 'gigolo' I have ever been interested to read or felt to be true. It is a brilliant work of character portrayal, tragic in its implications, but on the surface a comedy in a genre new to us and full of a slightly macabre fascination."

FICTION

MORTAL MEN

By BURNHAM CARTER

For a young child life ends at sundown of each day; following the oblivious sleep, one builds again the house that has been torn down, one repeats the journey to the other side of the garden, one has no thought for the tears of yesterday or the laughter of tomorrow.

Something of this belief in the transient ecstasy was preserved for Allen Levering all his years. Born into this generation, of a family that recognized only the privileges and none of the obligations of aristocracy, he moved in a world where artichokes were more important than prayers, a cigarette more soothing than piacular pyres; and yet there remained with him, amid the outcry of his desires, an alien sensitiveness to the more delicate colors of the earth.

It was this battered appreciation of beauty which set him apart somewhat from his family and which endeared him to Neil Morrow, the older man, who at one time had wondered if the boy could have been his own son. He was informed of values not listed in the tradesman's catalog—mist escaping from the meadows, the wind rising in the trees, words on paper . . . As far as this was concerned, it did not make any difference whether in business he rose from office-boy to president; or whether in a less material way he made some contribution to the onward drift of mankind; after fifty years spent he would have no more of beauty than he had then. But because anything fair to regard tells of something immeasurably more fair, he wandered his way—a casual modern way—in increasing discontent. In women he found the dream which life outside of women would destroy; and as these faces became, one by one, no more than shadows shaped against a lighted window, he sought to go back, forgetting the folly of going back, to the one woman whom, possibly, he had loved; and so was left at the last, as at the beginning, with the transient ecstasy.

MARIO AND THE BEASTS

By WALDEMAR BONSELS

Translated by Whittaker Chambers

The author of Maya the Bee and Indian Journey has gone back to the forest once more. Mario, the young hero of the book, in whose child-soul the light and wonder of the wilderness is mirrored, when he is still helpless after the death of his mother, driven by an inner force as animals are, grows up in the depths of the forest where he becomes one of the wild things. Under the harsh care of an old herb-woman life opens itself for Mario as it does at the beginning of all things; with body and soul he conquers this lonely primitive world, battles through silent, fierce, life-and-death adventures with the marten and the snake; is made prisoner by a forester and wins his freedom again with the aid of the animals. He conquers stream, river, and lake and becomes lord of the forest and of the world of nature; his life lighted by freedom and blessed by the joy of living and innocence, as, in the midst of the noise and dust and the restlessness of our day so out of tune with nature, our inner being longs to be.

SUZY FALLS OFF

By CECIL BARR

Paris—the playground of the world—and two girls from Broadway who don't miss a trick. When Suzy, who has tried all her nineteen years not to fall off the narrow plank, becomes involved in high intrigue, the excitement and adventures which carry her in an automobile to places of which she had never heard, finally break down her good resolutions. Good fun and thrills make this book a diversion which one friend will recommend to another.

PASSAGE TO THE SKY

By HOWARD COXE

In the innumerable villas which lie amongst the fragrant hills around Florence there live many people from all over the world. Their occupation is forgetfulness, but as they mingle daily at noon or at night behind the plate-glass doors of the cafes, shut off from the Florence of travel books, the play is on. The past is locked tight within each bosom until one day there walks in the door a reminder. Perhaps, then, the daily routine is smashed; perhaps everything has been thrown overboard and the game goes on.

So it is with the ladies and gentlemen of fortune who are ruthlessly depicted here. The divorcee, the woman they said had murdered her husband, the young men seeking new thrills. Often their antics are pure comedy; many times a heart is broken; but their story never flags in interest.

THE LIFE OF GIOVANNI BOCCACCIO

By THOMAS CALDECOT CHUBB

Giovanni Boccaccio is so well known as the author of the Decameron that it is hardly realized that he had any other accomplishments, or for that matter even a life. Yet there is really no character in Italian literature who lived more interestingly or accomplished more. He found time to hold public office in Florence on many occasions, was three times their ambassador to the Pope, and was the first public lecturer on Dante in the world. He was a gay and passionate amorist, starting at the age of 16. He was the most human and lovable character of the dawn of the Renaissance.

It is to depict these and other similar characteristics of Giovanni Boccaccio that the book principally aims, for it is more a portrait of the man set in the frame of his times than a literary study. However, for the sake of completeness, all of his works are considered. The XIVth century, in which Boccaccio lived, had much in common with the present and this will not be neglected. But the subject is Giovanni Boccaccio: what he did; what he thought; what he was.

BELLES LETTRES

GENIUS IN LOVE AND DEATH

By PAUL WIEGLER

Translated by Carl Raushenbush

Standing as high in Germany as Maurois in France and Strachey in England, these biographical silhouettes by Paul Wiegler have earned for him the unstinted praise of such prominent and well-known literary figures as Thomas Mann, Felix Salten, Jacob Wassermann, and Stefan Zweig.

These portraits of Goethe, Michelangelo, Poe, Oscar Wilde, and Rosetti will be recognized as belonging to the highest achievement in the art of biography. Paul Wiegler has caught the secret of character portraiture and writes with the rare poetic quality that seizes upon dramatic situations to reveal the psychology of his subject.

The publishers are proud to have secured this work for the American public, confident that its publication will mark the rise of a new literary star.

"Paul Wiegler, according to my conception, is one of the outstanding critics of present-day Germany. In his portrayals of passion and destiny, his art of characterization rises to a poetic height and achieves a work, which, with its excellent illustrations, may be considered as one of the most desirable new publications."—Thomas Mann.

"The book is fabulously well written. The author's actual experiences with its infinite details and an imagination that creates continuity and clearness and with a power over all the mysteries of language that is truly enchanting, Paul Wiegler is a giant of prose. Terse and to the point are his narrations . . . sometimes as curt as a telegram . . . but it has melody and it sings . . . it has form and force . . . it paints pictures and models statues . . . it urges one to read it over and over again."—Felix Salten.

"I have read the essays of Paul Wiegler with true heartfelt pleasure. The unusual in these biographical poems is the soulful reproduction of half real and half imaginary incidents . . . an exhibition of the esoteric as well as lawful truth in the existence of great men."—Jacob Wassermann.

"The ability to arrest complete knowledge in condensed form . . . to combine strict actuality with graceful style . . . to be able to reduce omnipotent world-figures to fit into the frame of a miniature without impairing their grandeur . . . such essayistic art of abbreviation is only common to Paul Wiegler, one of our outstanding stylists."—Stefan Zweig.

AMBROSE BIERCE. A Biography

By CAREY McWILLIAMS

A fine piece of biographical writing, a product of six years' work in research by the only man who has had access to the Bierce family documents. No effort has been made to rush this work without full examination of all material.

A very interesting life of this famous writer.

JOHN HUSS

By BENITO MUSSOLINI

A biography of the great Swiss religious reformer which, though written at a time when the Duce was much more radical than now, goes far to explain his feelings on religious questions as expressed in his Vatican agreement.

The dramatization of Huss's struggle will come as no surprise to all aware of Mussolini's literary accomplishments.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF AMERICA

A Nation Tells Her Own Story

Edited by MARK VAN DOREN

Three hundred years of American history told in eighty autobiographical narratives by Capt. John Smith, Henry Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, Aaron Burr, P. T. Barnum, Daniel Boone, David Crockett, Mark Twain, Jack London, Thomas A. Edison.

A fascinating compilation by Mark Van Doren of personal narratives of such scope and interest that it makes what has been aptly called "a history of the American people in the first person." The emphasis has been placed, not on politics but on the manner and stuff of American life. A picture of America at work and at play, in love, in trouble; fighting, eating, drinking; colonial life, the frontier, the covered wagon on the plains, the epic of the gold rush, the whole drama of our nation's growth. This is no compilation of dry sources, but an arrangement in narrative form of a great collection of intensely interesting human material worthy of the dramatic story it tells. Here are no dry documents; here is a people telling its 300-year story. 8vo., cloth, 800 pages $5.00

HISTORY

OUR BUSINESS CIVILIZATION

Some Aspects of American Culture

By JAMES TRUSLOW ADAMS

This well-considered examination of certain aspects of modern American life is certainly destined to arouse controversy wherever it is read.

In his criticism of contemporary American morals, educational ideals, political standards, and cultural aims, James Truslow Adams has created a formidable indictment against the results of business ideals upon American cultural standards. But the thoughtful reader will see in this book itself the hopeful answer to the indictment it contains, for the spirit of revolt in this book is a new evidence of the renaissance in America of revolt against the domination of sheer material values.

JUVENILE

JAWBREAKER'S ALPHABET

By EUNICE AND JANET TIETJENS

Illustrated by Herman Post

Our knowledge of animals and plants of the past has been very rapidly acquired during the last few decades, due mainly to the discovery of fossils. Owing to the work of scientists, we are now able to form a fairly comprehensive idea of the appearance of these plants and animals which were on this earth some ten, thirty or three hundred million years ago.

This newly discovered world has a no less surprising aspect than many other celebrated discoveries or inventions, and sometimes even surpasses the most fantastic prodigies of our fairy-tales.

This glimpse on ancient life inspired Mrs. Eunice Tietjens with the idea of writing a very amusing alphabet, using the names of these extinct creatures, in order to interest her daughter in palæontology. These verses, together with a wide familiarity with the displays in collections of natural history, European and American, allured Mr. Herman Post to illustrate this volume.

The verses, as well as the illustrations, while claiming to be correct, do not pretend to be scientific works. They endeavor, by stirring the imagination of young and old, to bring about the systematic study of this marvelous new world.

AN ANTHOLOGY OF WORLD POETRY

Edited by MARK VAN DOREN

Most of the poetry of the world has been inaccessible to the English reader. In the many years since the idea for this volume was first suggested, an entire library of sources has been collected. Thousands of volumes of poetry are in this library—obscure, fugitive volumes, scattered pages of magazines, newspapers and pamphlets, books from Europe, Japan, and the far-off places of the world were assembled.

It is this bewildering mass of material which Mr. Van Doren has selected and arranged within the scope of one volume of 1400 pages. It brings together the full chronological anthologies of the poetry of China, Japan, India, Persia, Arabia, the Hebrews, Egypt, Greece, Italy, Spain, France, Germany, Scandinavia, Russia, Great Britain and America. No translations have been included unless they seemed to the editor beautiful poems in their English renderings. The emphasis has been placed upon the quality of the translations and the translators, and the list of the latter is almost a list of the best English and American poets.

"Those well worn words 'a literary event' may well be pressed once more into service in the case of AN ANTHOLOGY OF WORLD POETRY. This is a book, long needed, which reflects great credit upon its editor and its publishers. There can be no doubt that Mr. Van Doren's volume will make for itself a secure place among the few anthologies which really matter.

"He unquestionably places every poetry lover in his debt . . . this anthology deserves to rank with the best and furthermore it is the only thing of its kind. A book which it is a pleasure to handle and a joy to own."

—New York Times.

ART

MODERN ARCHITECTURE

By BRUNO TAUT

The growth of a new architecture in the twentieth century is one of those great historical events which, in the life of the people and to future ages, are as important as the signing of treaties and manœuvers of politics. The great burst of architectural creation which came with the Middle Ages remains the lasting monument of the period and its most important expression.

In the same way there is a great architectural movement actually taking place at the present time. A proper understanding of this development is essential to the architect, the builder, the man of business and to the general public, whose life is affected by architecture in an infinite number of ways.

For this reason, the publishers have prepared this work to serve as a standard guide to the subject, and an architect of world-wide fame and prominent in the modern movement, has undertaken the task of preparing it. Professor Bruno Taut brings to bear his specialized knowledge and judgment in both writing the text and in selecting the illustrations, which will include hundreds of the best examples of modern building. He makes clear the value of the new style, and dispels those misunderstandings which tend to arise with regard to a matter of such magnitude as the creation of a new architecture.

ART

CREATIVE ART

A Magazine of Fine and Applied Art

CREATIVE ART is the world's leading journal of modern arts and crafts. For over thirty years a section of this publication has appeared in England under the title of THE STUDIO.

CREATIVE ART is international in character, representing the best work that is being done in every important country in the world. It reproduces, month by month, the best of the world's contemporary art. It takes Art as a whole within its province. Painting and the graphic arts are strongly represented, but no craft is overlooked which tends to bring some element of beauty into the surroundings of everyday life. It is a mirror not only of the "Fine Arts", but also of the latest developments in the "Applied Arts". Artists, architects, interior decorators and lay readers of its pages are assured of authoritative and distinguished comment on the development of present day work both here and abroad.

ALBERT & CHARLES BONI

ART

Among contributors to CREATIVE ART are: John Cotton Dana, Duncan Phillips, Fiske Kimball, A. E. Gallatin, Lewis Mumford, Virgil Barker, Carleton Beals, Diego Rivera, M. D. C. Crawford, Murdock Pemberton, Holger Cahill, Rockwell Kent, Alexander Brook, Thomas Munro, Elmer Adler, and Ralph T. Walker.

CREATIVE ART deals alike with the man of genius and the subject of interest. It has thus established a claim to be the historian of what is most beautiful and permanent in modern art. It is kept and bound because it is a perpetual source of pleasure and a reliable chronicle of fact. For those who appreciate beauty in life, CREATIVE ART is a unique and indispensable publication.

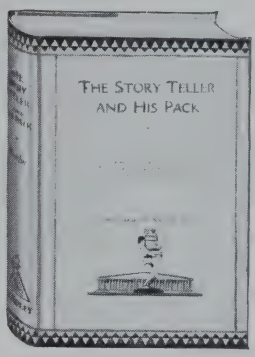
THE STORY TELLER AND HIS PACK

By CLIFFORD H. NOWLIN



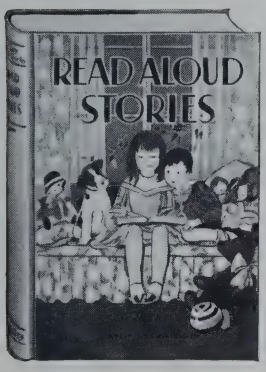
In this interesting and comprehensive book the author presents an entertaining and lucid program for applying the art of story telling to various phases of child education in school and home. He shows by instructive text and interesting example the type of story best adapted to emphasize a desired point, or a specific lesson in ethics or character building, why such a story is effective, and how it should be told.

An important feature is the introductory to the psychology, and basic literature of childhood, all of which is necessary to the teacher as preparation for mastery of the story teller's art.

While covering its subject in a broad way, this book is not a complete treatise but is rather an elastic-handbook, designed to make it easy for the average reader to become a proficient story teller. Price $2.00

READ ALOUD STORIES

By CAROLYN SHERWIN BAILEY



Short, simple child-life stories that the mother, nursery-school director, kindergarten and primary teacher may read aloud without adaptation or change of any kind. Based upon accredited research in the child's vocabulary on entering school, the stories supply a real need in language training and an early grasp of reading.

Home activities, the family, outdoors, food and clothing, animals, the interesting machinery of a modern world, toys, and holidays form the themes. Rhythm, repetition of appealing sounds and phrases, story detail children love and contact subject matter will immediately attract and hold the child's attention. Charming colored illustrations.

The best stories for the child from three to seven years. Price, $1.75

MADAM RED APPLE

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

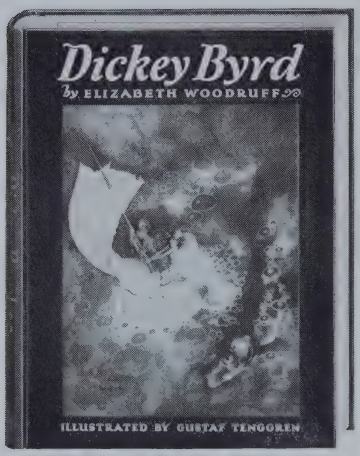
This is the story of Annette Jenkins, age seven years—Annette, of whom the family friends said, "Her cheeks are just like rosy apples!"—Annette, who liked red apples and also the grown-up sound of "Madam"—and so christened herself "Madam Red Apple"—Annette, child of circumstances which compelled her to wear the cast-off clothes of more prosperous cousins, dresses that "were always brown—and such a dingy brown."

But despite the dingy clothes and all that they signified, Annette, through her beautiful, lovable dolls, realized to a degree her desire to be "a grand lady;" and the entrancing, imaginative career which she enjoyed becomes real and vivid, with much humor and an occasional note of pathos, in this fascinating tale. Beautiful illustrations by Janet Laura Scott.

Price, $1.50

DICKEY BYRD

By ELIZABETH WOODRUFF



Dickey Byrd is an everyday sort of a little chap with an extremely vivid imagination, who is greatly devoted to his toy menagerie, the elephant, camel, giraffe, and some wooden soldiers.

Around these lovable characters of toyland the author has woven fanciful stories which will appeal to every little boy and girl, who will see in them reflections of their own little world of toys.

With the aid of kind fairies and mischievous elves, the toys are brought to life and with them Dickey Byrd and his faithful dog, Freckles, have a rollicking good time through the pages of this unique story book.

There are six full page color illustrations by Gustaf Tenggren and twelve full page and numerous other "spot" decorations throughout the book by Carl Emil Wehde. Printed in large easy-to-read type on fine rag paper. Wrapper printed in four colors.

Size 9 x 12. Price, $3.00

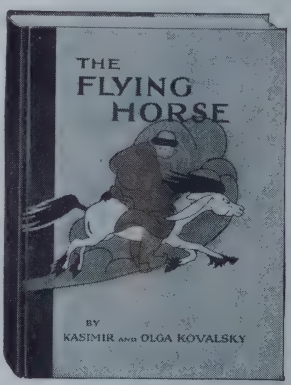
THE FLYING HORSE

By KASIMIR AND OLGA KOVALSKY
Illustrated By Wanda Petrunkevitch



The colorful imagination of the Russian artist finds vivid expression in this fascinating exotic folk story of "the little hunchbacked horse, who could fly above mountains, rivers and seas, yet having no wings at all."

Delightful text and glowing pictures tell and visualize the story.

Size 7½ x 10½. Price, $1.75

LONG LEGS, BIG MOUTH, BURNING EYES

By OLGA KOVALSKY and BRENDA PUTNAM
Illustrated by Rhoda Chase and Albert Cugat

Long Legs, Big Mouth and Burning Eyes, "three musketeers" of Russian fairyland come forth to meet the boys and girls of America, in a book of beautiful making and many colors. In old Russia days, the children of the Czar listened with delight to the adventures of this unique trio, and one little girl, by the name of Olga Kovalsky, was so impressed by them and other dream-world characters that when she grew up she brought these charming fairy people with her to America and had Brenda Putnam, the famous sculptress, translate their stories into English, to bring pleasure to the boys and girls of her adopted land.

In this book Mme. Kovalsky tells many of these delightful tales each of which Rhoda Chase has pictured in the true style and brilliancy of Russian art. Albert Cugat furnishes the beautiful cover onlays and attractive end-papers.

LITTLE GRAY DOORS

By ALEXANDRINA WOODS
Illustrated by The Phillips

Doors that open to the land of enchantment and happiness invite the reader to enter and enjoy these five cheerful and effervescing stories for younger boys and girls. "Little Gray Doors" tells the story of the boy who would not wash his hands; "The Mirror" of the lad who learned to be good by seeing his faults reflected in a looking glass; "The Magic Needle" of the little girl who wandered into Fairyland; "Paternoster" the story of a little boy who learned the lesson of nature from the insects; "The Fairy Glen" of Betty, the little girl who dreamed of the shepherd boy and his China shepherdess.

There is a broad range of creative subject matter and background to each of these stories which Alexandrina Woods has accumulated through years of teaching under Canadian methods. The Phillips have caught the cheerful spirit of the text in their sixty colorful illustrations.

TOM CARDIFF IN THE BIG TOP

Illustrated by W. B. King

Tom's prowess with the bow and arrow obtained for him a place in the sideshow, as related in "Tom Cardiff's Circus," but his ambition to get into the "big top" developed steadily into a determination which could not be restrained. Through the winter months he creates a clown act, employing a trick dog and donkey, and with the coming of spring and circus time, is rewarded by a place in the main tent show. Exciting experiences with a jealous associate who seeks to "queer" Tom's act, adventures with an unruly python, an elephant stampede, and the finding and exploiting of the famous Cardiff Giant, enliven Tom's progressive career, and add thrills to the story. Price, $1.50

TOM CARDIFF'S CIRCUS

Illustrated by W. B. King

The crunch of wagons, the din and shout of the mid-way, and the brilliant coloring of the big top call the abused orphan lad to the life in the open. Raised in the environment of a New York State Indian Reservation Tom finds that the achievements taught him by the friendly redskins in his boyhood stand him in good stead for a life of action under the big canvas. Realistic illustrations add to the interest of the story. Price, $1.50

RICK AND RUDDY OUT WEST

OMJEE, THE WIZARD

KOREAN FOLK TALES

Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

Korea—land of mystery and superstition where facts of life are stranger than fiction of the white man, and imagination finds truth in occult phantasies—presents a background for fanciful tales, unrivaled by any other section of the world.

It is from the folk stories of such a country retold by its people for many generations, that Mr. Hulbert has gathered the material for his book of "Omjee the Wizard," and this he has done by personal contact with Korean peasants, having lived among them for several years.

The illustrations and marginal decorations in color on every page convey an artistic and pleasing visualization of the fantastic characters of the stories.

Beautiful story book for young readers, and a valuable addition to racial literature. Size 7¼ x 9⅝.

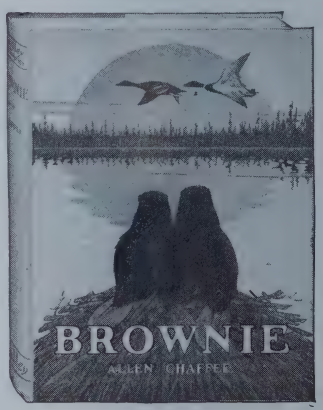
BROWNIE

THE ENGINEER OF BEAVER BROOK

Illustrated by Paul Bransom



Brownie is the Utah beaver, whose habits his present biographer has studied first hand. He is the engineer of forest and waterway, changing, through his marvelous industry and genius, the typography of the country he inhabits as our own roads and cities are undergoing transformation for the needs of a changing civilization. This thought gives Brownie's story an important place in child literature, but the book has an even closer touch, through its theme of constructive energy, with the instincts of the child.

The book is full of nature facts told in the story form all children love. It will be read by boys and girls from eight to twelve years. It will be enjoyed by younger children as soon as they want true stories. The illustrations by Mr. Bransom, who has no equal in the interpretation of our animal life, are superb.

Size 7¼ x 9⅝.

LOST RIVER
TWO BOYS IN THE BIG WOODS

Separated from their camp-canoe party, a Boy Scout and a backwoods boy get lost in the wild lands of Maine, and have to find their way through one hundred miles of untracked and all but impenetrable forest, with little save their knowledge of woodcraft to aid them in the struggle for food and shelter and a means of transportation.

Every normal American boy will pronounce this realistic fiction one of the most entertaining books he ever read.

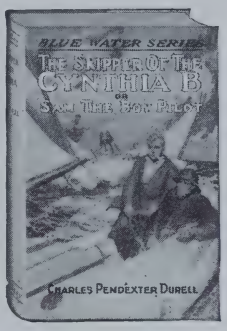
Stories of Sea and Shore by Charles Durell

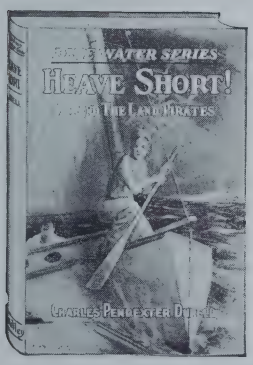
THE SKIPPER OF THE CYNTHIA B

Illustrated by Harold Brett

A city boy, Samuel Hotchkiss, forced by his father's ill health to spend a summer on Cape Cod, begins his visit with a complaint about the dullness of the place. Inside of twenty-four hours, however, he becomes acquainted with Uncle Seth, a retired sea captain, owner of a cat-boat called the "Cynthia B," and from that day forth Sam's vacation is filled with more adventures than he had ever hoped to experience. Interwoven with the main story are many stirring tales of the old Nantucket whaling days, all founded on facts.

Price, $1.50





HEAVE SHORT!

Illustrated by Harold Brett

A splendid story of Cape Cod shore and open sea. Sam Hotchkiss, during his vacation days meets with stirring adventures afloat and ashore, and learns many of life's finer lessons from his experiences and from the sound and quaint philosophy of Uncle Seth, the old sea captain who can "tolerate anything but a bluffer." Fighting a forest fire, rescuing a comrade from the flames, foiling a fraudulent stock salesman, capturing a notorious swindler for the Boston police, building and sailing the "Suprise" and the boat race in which Sam opposes Uncle Seth, are among the incidents that keep the action of the story at a lively pace.

Price, $1.50

LIGHTS OFF SHORE!

Illustrated by Harold Anderson

In these days of discussion of constitutional amending and law enforcement, Mr. Durell feels that our growing boy and girlhood should be instilled with the patriotic motives and principals on which our forefathers founded this great nation. Here is a powerful tale of action and adventure with our old friends Sam Hotchkiss and Captain Seth Nickerson unintentionally cast among the law breakers operating about Cape Cod. There is no glamour to the modern smuggler and pirate as Sam discovers after many harrowing experiences. The law will run its course. The author shows an intimate knowledge of the ways and methods of present day outlaws of the coast and the lives of these people are pictured as they really are, with the mystery dispelled and the sordidness revealed. In this third title of the Blue Water Series, boys and girls will find the most thrilling narrative of the season.

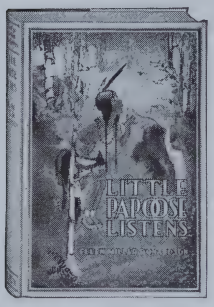
Books by Ellen Miller Donaldson



LITTLE PAPOOSE LISTENS

Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

The carpet is of soft pine needles and velvety moss. The walls are of gently swaying trees. The music is the singing of the brook, the melodious song of birds, the buzzing of the hosts of insects, and the tuneful noises and mysterious silences of the wild. The characters are the birds, the flowers, and the untamed things that came to the sight and hearing of the little Papoose who tries to sleep before the wigwam entrance. Price, $1.00

IN BLUEBIRD TIME

Illustrated by Hildegard Lupprian

Twilight in Pueblo land—before the flickering embers of a smoldering campfire sits a little Indian girl listening intently to the stories told by a grandmother squaw. It is bluebird time in the land of dreams. In sonorous tones that lull the little dusky maid to sleep, the tale unfolds scenes of sunshine, flowers, animals, birds and all living things.

Ellen Miller Donaldson presents these stories of nature and Indian life as only one can who has lived in the Indian atmosphere and environment. Over forty illustrations by Hildegard Lupprian picture the story in artistic manner and the jacket, a tone poem in blue, completes a beautiful book.

Price, $1.75

MOONS OF LONG AGO

Illustrated by Charles Lassell

A fascinating collection of attractive and interesting stories woven from the quaint and beautiful legends of the New Mexico Indian tribes. Ellen Miller Donaldson spent her earlier days in the southwestern country and wrote these stories from personal contact with the Indians of that section. There are thirty of these bits of entertainment and instruction, containing a wonderful subtle appeal—an inspiration to the best in child life. Price, $1.00

REYNARD, THE FOX

By CLIFTON JOHNSON

From the German of Goethe, Mr. Johnson has compiled a prose narrative of sly Reynard that is sure to appeal to every child. This edition is luxurious with small duotone reproductions of the hero-fox and his friends and enemies. A truly unusual volume. Price, $1.25

FAIRY TALES EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW

Edited by Anna Tweed

Illustrated by Maginel Wright Enright

This book is aptly named. It contains the old favorites—the basic stories of children's literature—delightfully retold in modern style, in words and phrases with which the child of today is familiar, giving him a true perception of each story and its moral. Twenty full page illustrations in color add to the interest of the stories and the attractiveness of the book. Price, $1.00

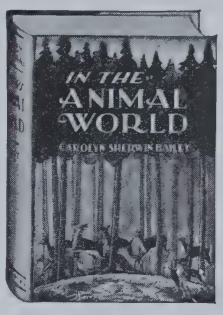
The Works of Carolyn Sherwin Bailey

FLINT: THE STORY OF THE TRAIL

One of the really big stories of the American Indian. Flint, a white boy, captured in infancy by the Iroquois, is brought up as one of them. Submerged memories and white impulses struggle through years against savage customs, till grief over the sacrifice of his faithful dog persuades him to run away. His escape and capture by a rival tribe, his trials and adventures, and the final triumph of white blood over savage, furnishes a story of unusual dramatic interest for boys of all ages. Price, $1.50

Story Telling Books



IN THE ANIMAL WORLD

Stories of animals familiar to children, expressing the touch of animal life to child life through racial psychology. The stories are selected from primitive material, literature and modern fiction. These are stories to tell for sympathy, for inspiration through humor and truth, for developing the emotions as none but an animal story can. Price, $1.75

ONCE UPON A TIME ANIMAL STORIES

Illustrated by Power O'Malley

Children never tire of hearing about animals to which human traits are attributed. The animals in these stories talk, work and play much like human beings, and the results of their activities convey valuable moral lessons. Many old time stories are embodied in new and carefully edited form, while many more of the tales are wholly original with Miss Bailey, and here published for the first time. The book is printed in large easy-to-read type and illustrated with full-page pictures. Price, $1.00

FRIENDLY TALES
STORIES OF COMMUNITY LIFE

Stories for today of social contact in the child's world; his world of play, fairy and folk lore; of his dumb friends, animals, birds and insects; of holidays and of community life as a child lives it in his neighborhood. Each story is a group story, not of the child alone. The book is the first offering for a new day in nationalism when we find ourselves no longer isolated but necessary members of a commonwealth. It puts children in this membership, not alone, but as common makers of a new child's world in which helpfulness and co-operation are the pattern.

More than seventy-five stories of immediate value to the teacher, community worker, parent, and librarian.

MERRY TALES FOR CHILDREN

Every child loves to laugh, and the good "funny" story is not only the child's right, but his need. This collection of humorous stories supplies, not only entertainment for boys and girls, but each of its pages carries a hidden lesson made permanent in the child's heart through the fine, sure philosophy of laughter. The author has drawn upon practically every source, old and modern, for the best in child humor. The stories are classified under the important headings of those child interests which, properly fed, influence his future life. Price, $1.75

FIRELIGHT STORIES

A collection of nearly fifty adapted folk tales from the folk lore of the Norwegians, the Celts, the English, the American Indians, the southern negroes, and from New England.

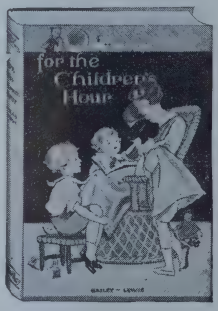
The stories have been selected with a view to their accumulative rhymed character, as appealing to the child's interest in jingle and ditty. The book is illustrated with full-page pictures. Price, $1.50

FOR THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

A remarkable book which should be in the library of every mother, and all others who tell stories to small children. In one volume it covers the entire field of childhood literature, containing stories on every conceivable subject and for all occasions—five distinct departments, seventeen title divisions, 135 stories—compiled from various sources, myths, fable, folk tale, and latter day children's books.

Six full page illustrations in color by Rhoda Chase.

Price, $1.75



FOR THE STORY TELLER

STORY TELLING AND STORIES TO TELL

An important volume which will be of vital interest to everyone who tells stories. It is a working text-book in the art and practice of story telling for mothers, and covers the subject more completely than any book heretofore published. It gives a new system of story telling as related to child psychology. It will do much to make the story hour more entertaining and more thoroughly educational than it has ever been before. Price, $1.75

STORIES CHILDREN NEED

This book contains over fifty best stories for children, each adapted for the immediate use, without change, of the story teller. It is a graded collection, offering to children and parents a course in stories that will result in mental and moral training. It represents the best writing for children in stories by such authors as Tolstoi, Hawthorne, Dickens, Bjornson, George MacDonald, Lewis Carroll, Raymond Alden, and many others. Price, $1.75

TELL ME ANOTHER STORY

"An answer to the universal plea of childhood"—providing for children of three to eight years new stories of intense interest based on a carefully considered plan to train the child to think. It is the first book to present stories in groups with contrasting treatment and continuity of theme.

"Another Story"—and still another—can be told to entertain and interest without diverting the train of thought. The first story appeals to the child's knowledge founded on experience, the second to his reasoning powers, while the third is fanciful and is especially designed to stimulate the imagination. Price, $1.75

STORIES OF GREAT ADVENTURE

The best in classic legendary and ballad material, collected and adapted for the child's reading at the time when he is eager for stories which present great adventure and inspirational romance. Simple, strong and full of the folk spirit of the peoples who struggle against oppression, these great legends awaken the powers of moral reasoning in children. Price, $1.50

HERO STORIES

Stories of the great heroes and heroines of history. Especially adapted for the child's reading during the age of hero worship. This volume is unique in biography in that it presents as the theme of each story those qualities in connection with the hero's greatness which may be emulated by a child. It furnishes material that cannot be excelled for teaching ethics and general character building. Price, $1.25

THE TORCH OF COURAGE AND OTHER STORIES

Courage— personified by a blazing torch in the hands of a peasant lad—spreads through the hearts of the village folk and inspires them to heroic deeds and kindly acts. This is a story of intense dramatic interest and one which every child will delight in reading. The book also contains nine other short stories, all new, and written in Miss Bailey's graceful and impressive style. Price, $0.85

EVERYDAY STORIES

Informational stories of real life that satisfy the child's first longings for knowledge of the common things of life all about him.

Each story chosen embodies the elements of dramatic interest and ethical value so requisite to the effectiveness of childhood literature and the recognized high literary standard of all Miss Bailey's work is consistently maintained. Price, $0.85

EVANGELINE

By HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW
With Historical Version by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey

This unusually attractive volume contains Longfellow's immortal poem, and a historical prose version, based upon authentic records of the wanderings and trials of the unfortunate Acadians. The lives of these people have been definitely traced by Miss Bailey, providing a historical background for the romance of the poem. This book is more than a story—more than a fine edition of Evangeline—it is an important contribution to American literature upon a subject about which little has been written. The book is beautifully printed and bound and illustrated with twenty duotone prints of scenes from the photoplay.

Jacket in full colors. Size, 7 x 9½. Price, $2.50

LORNA DOONE

By R. D. BLACKMORE
Illustrated by Harold Brett
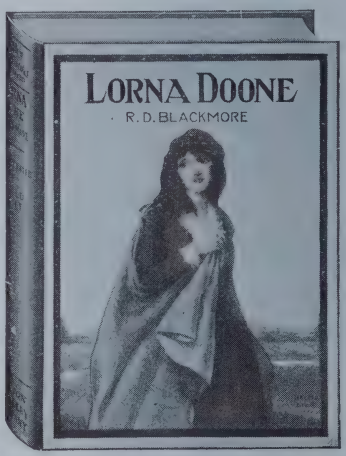
Abridged for Juvenile readers by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey
De Luxe Edition



This beautiful volume of Lorna Doone is published in answer to the demands of librarians for an edition of this famous classic adapted to the needs of juvenile readers. The text itself is unchanged, reprinted from the original, except that by judicious elimination of some of the lengthy descriptive matter, the action is quickened and the interest of young readers more easily sustained. In the beautiful colored pictures Mr. Brett has caught and symbolized the influence and environment of the real Lorna Doone as no artist has ever done before. His portrait of the heroine leaves an impression of beauty and character which will ever remain in the memory synonomous with the Lorna Doone the author has given to the reader.

Price, $2.50

LORNA DOONE

Madge Bellamy Edition

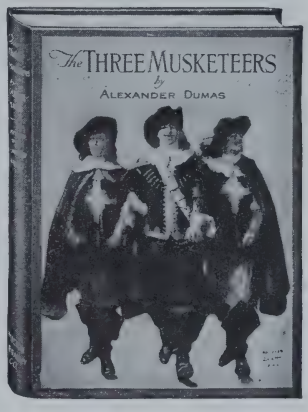
THE THREE MUSKETEERS

THE GREATEST OF ROMANTIC CLASSICS RETOLD FOR CHILDREN

By ALEXANDER DUMAS Edited by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey

Illustrated by Harold Brett



This edition of the Dumas masterpiece is a real achievement in the editing of a famous classic, presenting it in practically the exact words of the author, yet by elimination of questionable passages, making of it a book which the most conscientious parents will not hesitate to place in the hands of their children.

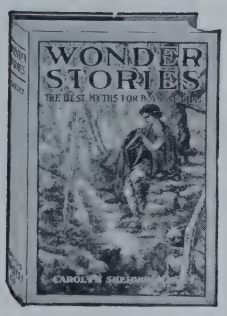
All historical features of the story are embodied in the abridged text, and all the incidents of stirring adventure, the shining examples of loyalty and courage, the fellowship and sympathy of the companions in arms, are retained. These are, in fact, emphasized for the child reader, by the deletion of the amours of Milady and details of court intrigue of which the normal child understands little and cares less.

The superb illustrations are reproduced in full color from original and remarkable drawings by Harold Brett, one of the foremost illustrators in this country. Price, $2.50

WONDER STORIES

THE BEST MYTHS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Illustrated in color by Clara M. Burd



The choicest stories of ancient mythology charmingly retold in simple language. These stories, older than history itself, possess a never-failing fascination for the young, and lay the foundation for a later appreciation of classic literature.

As a healthy stimulant for the youthful imagination, the myth is preferable to the ordinary fairy story. Every home and school library should contain this storehouse of entertainment and instruction.

Like all the Bradley Books, Wonder Stories is written in accordance with a well-defined educational plan. The great lessons of life are instilled into the youthful mind in such a manner as to leave a vivid and lasting impression.

Price, $2.00

FOLK STORIES AND FABLES

These are stories that appeal to the child's imagination; the best of the folk and fairy tales and cumulative stories, all written in such simple vocabulary that they will form easy reading for the beginner. Full page pictures illustrate important features of the stories and help the reader to visualize them. Price, $0.85

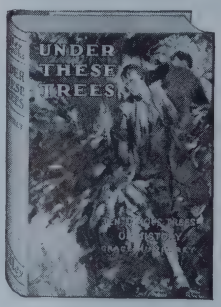
UNDER THESE TREES



From time immemorial trees have played an important part in leading episodes of the world's history. In collecting authentic data concerning ten of the most important historical events in which famous trees have been recognized factors, and weaving the results of her research into interesting and informative stories, Miss Humphrey has contributed a work of real value to historical literature. The trees about which she writes are "The Fig Tree" of the Roman Forum, "The Trysting Oak" of Robin Hood's Band, Jeanne D'Arc's "Fairy Tree of Domremy," "The Royal Oak" of Charles II, "The Talking Oak of Dodona," "The Eliot Oak," "The Liberty Tree," in Boston, "The Penn Treaty Elm," "The Washington Elm," and "The Charter Oak" at Hartford.

Through each story runs a strain of true patriotism which appeals and thrills the reader. It is a book which young and old can read with interest, and profit by a new light upon some high spots of history.

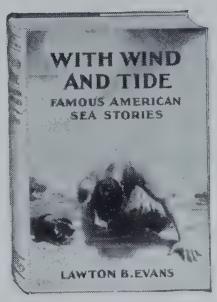
WITH WIND AND TIDE

Illustrated



Wind and tide, more than any other factors, have played a vital part in the expansion of civilization. They have borne the venturesome mariner over unknown seas to new lands and new opportunities; they made commerce possible between the peoples of the earth; and in times of strife have provided the background for the decisive struggles for supremacy between nations.

In this book, "With Wind and Tide", Mr. Evans presents, in fascinating story form, some of the prominent incidents in the romance of the sea which have proven of historical significance.

From the adventures of the early Vikings to the exploits of Lieut. Hobson, each chapter is a highlight of history which reveals progressive steps in our national development.

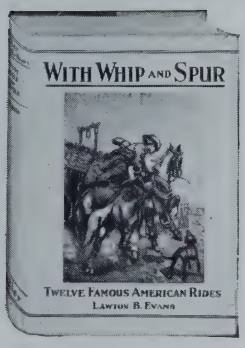
WITH WHIP AND SPUR

Illustrated in color by Sidney Riesenberg



Through the great undertones of history resounds the music of galloping hoofs! Sometimes the thunderous chorus of hurrying cavalry to turn the tide of battle—again a staccato solo from the flying feet of a single horse and a lone rider on whom depends the fate of a nation.

Whip and Spur portrays in vivid description and pictures the part that those who rode alone have played in American History.

The contents include Col. Travis' Courier, Curley, the Crow Scout, Paul Revere's Ride, Gen. Grant's Escape, Gen. Sheridan's Ride, Emily Geiger's Warning, The Ride of Tench Tilghman, The Messenger from Saratoga, Gen. Putman's Leap, Emily Sanson, Guide, The Ride of Lieut. Archibald Gillespie, The Pony Express.

THE TRAIL BLAZERS

PIONEERS OF THE NORTHWEST

Illustrated by Oliver Kemp

In all American History there is no more romantic record of achievement, patriotism and heroism, than the story of George Rogers Clark and his sturdy band of pioneers, and their conquest of the Northwest Territory by which five great states and part of another were added to our common union.

In "The Trail Blazers," Mr. Evans has brought to this historical episode the idealism and thrilling interest which only the master story teller can convey. His presentation is true to history in every detail, his people are the rugged, rough conquerors of the wilderness who built the foundation of our present day Americanism—brave and tenacious, high principled and patriotic.

The Trail Blazers, while written for younger readers, is a book which those of all ages will find entertaining and educational. Price, $1.75

WORTH WHILE STORIES FOR EVERY DAY

This book contains 185 complete stories of miscellaneous character, choice selections from mythology, nursery rhymes retold in prose, Mother Goose tales, natural history stories, stories of birds and animals, biographical sketches of the great in history and stories of realism, each chosen for its ethical value. A unique feature is the moral of each story printed beneath its title so that the story teller may conveniently select a story adapted to illustrate any point or trait of character.

OLD TIME TALES

Illustrated in color by E. P. Ottendorff

An unusual book containing in story form a general resume of World History from the earliest records to modern times. The first part of the book contains stories based on ancient mythology before the time of actual historical record, and the remainder of the volume includes authentic historical stories. The collection is so extreme and varied that from this one volume a teacher may select a story to supplement the history lesson of any period of the world's progress. Price, $2.00

HEROES OF TROY

Illustrated by Carl Lotave

Facts and legends of the Trojan war and the wanderings of Ulysses, immortalized by Homer in the greatest of heroic epics, are here gathered into a book of absorbing interest, retold in simple prose which a child can understand. As a story for general use, or as supplementary reading to the study of Homeric literature, this book will prove of important value to both teacher and pupil. Fine illustrations visualize for the reader many of the stirring events which the text describes. Price, $2.00

HEROES OF ISRAEL

TALES FROM THE OLD TESTAMENT

Illustrated in color by Clara M. Burd

The story of the trials and hardships of the people of Israel is presented in a simple style without moral teachings, except as they come from the narrative itself. This volume will fill a long felt need in the nursery, where a Bible story is a fitting end for the day, and in the schoolroom, where the Bible is too much neglected and whose stories should be included among those that belong to the inheritance of every child. Price, $2.00

THIS MAN HOOVER

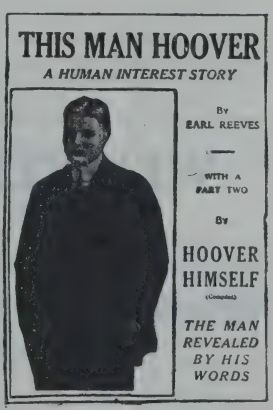
A HUMAN INTEREST STORY

BY EARL REEVES

WITH A PART TWO

THE MAN REVEALED BY HIS WORDS

BY HERBERT HOOVER (Compiled)



In this timely biographical study the entire, adventurous career of Herbert Hoover is closely detailed—from his boyhood and college days, re-claiming mines and building new railroads in Australia, China, Africa, and other distant places, fighting famine and revolution in Europe during and after the war, to his political entry and rise in Washington as Secretary of Commerce in the Cabinet of President Harding, and finally, his nomination for President in 1928.

PRESENT DAY ETIQUETTE

INCLUDING SOCIAL FORMS

By VIRGINIA VAN DE WATER

Approved by Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson

12 MO. CLOTH BOUND. $1.00. NET.....

Mrs. Van de Water belongs to an old New York family and her fine manners and social observance are inborn. She is a daughter of Marion Harland and sister of Albert Payson Terhune, the well-known novelist. Her experience enables her to write an etiquette book of unequaled excellence. She writes of rules and regulations in a concise way quickly readable and understood, In writing this book, Mrs. Van de Water has had in mind not the immensely rich, but people of average means and aspirations.

This volume is especially rich in the form letters which it supplies to meet every social occasion—invitations, acceptances, letters of introduction, of condolence, etc., etc.

A complete index makes possible immediate reference to the discussion of every doubtful point.

As Mrs. Gibson says in her introduction, "An intelligent adherence to the suggestions given in this book will lead any man to greater business and social success, and any woman to added graciousness and charm."

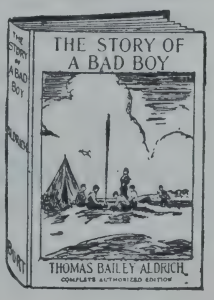
THE STORY OF A BAD BOY

By THOMAS BAILEY ALDRICH

Time has proved this inspirational story to be one of the best liked books for boys that has ever been written. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, writing in his characteristic, sympathetic and inimitable style has described the adventures that befell a bad boy who was not such a bad boy, after all, but really a very human lad such as might be met with anywhere in New England.



Every red-blooded boy will enjoy this tale in which the pranks of Tom Bailey and his Rivermouth friends are so humorously and genuinely pictured. "The Story of a Bad Boy" is a book that should hold a preeminent place in every library.

By WINN STANDISH

ALL COPYRIGHT TITLES

For Boys 12 to 16 Years

Handsomely Bound in Cloth. Full Library Size.

PRICE, 50 CENTS EACH. NET.....

POSTAGE 10c. EXTRA

CAPTAIN JACK LORIMER; or, The Young Athlete of Millvale High.

Jack Lorimer is a fine example of the all-around American high-school boy. His fondness for clean, honest sport of all kinds will strike a chord of sympathy among athletic youths.

JACK LORIMER'S CHAMPIONS; or, Sports on Land and Lake.

There is a lively story woven in with the athletic achievements, which are all right, since the book has been O.K'd by Chadwick, the Nestor of American sporting journalism.

JACK LORIMER'S HOLIDAYS; or, Millvale High in Camp.

It would not be well to put this book into a boy's hands until the chores are finished, otherwise they might be neglected.

JACK LORIMER'S SUBSTITUTE; or, The Acting Captain of the Team.

On the sporting side, the book takes up football, wrestling, and tobogganing. There is a good deal of fun in this book and plenty of action.

JACK LORIMER, FRESHMAN; or, From Millvale High to Exmouth.

Jack and some friends he makes crowd innumerable happenings into an exciting freshman year at one of the leading Eastern colleges. The book is typical of the American college boy's life, and there is a lively story, interwoven with feats on the gridiron, hockey, basketball and other clean, honest sports for which Jack Lorimer stands.

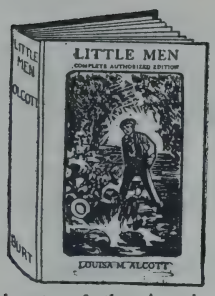
Little Men



Complete Authorized Edition
By
LOUISA M. ALCOTT
A Sequel to "Little Women," Cloth, 12 Mo.
Jacket in Four Colors.
PRICE,
50 CENTS Net.....

The story of life at Plumfield with Jo's boys.

Few books for or about children have been so thoroughly taken into the hearts of the American people as Louisa M. Alcott's stories; among them "Little Men" ranks second only to "Little Women."

Jo grows up, is the presiding genius of her school at Plumfield, where she and Professor Bhaer are the wise and loving autocrats of a houseful of young people.

Sensitive, music-loving Nat, harum-scarum Tommy, studious Demi, undisciplined Dan, domestic little Daisy and hoydenish Nan are a few of the active-minded, true-to-life children who romp into and out of trouble all through this endearing story.

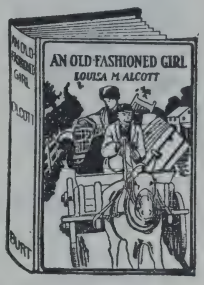
An Old-Fashioned Girl

(Authorized Edition)
By
LOUISA M. ALCOTT
Author of "Little Women," Etc.
Cloth Bound, Wrapper in Colors, Drawn by Jessie Wilcox Smith
Being one of the illustrations from the Little, Brown & Company high-priced edition



PRICE, 50 CENTS Net.....

No books of their class have ever been read with greater delight than the Alcott Stories. "An Old-Fashioned Girl" is one of the best of them, if a comparison can be made in the list.

Miss Alcott in this story describes "The good old Fashion, which makes women truly beautiful and honored, and renders home what it should be, a happy place where parents and children, brothers and sisters learn to love and know and help one another." The book is to be welcomed among the books for girls, because of its wholesome spirit and happy atmosphere.

Jacket in Four Colors.
Drawn by Jessie Wilcox Smith

This being one of the illustrations from the original Little, Brown & Co. high-priced edition.

Of the many books for girls and boys that have come and gone in the fifty years since "Little Women" was first published, not one has had such a lasting popularity.

"Little Women" has always been considered the most popular girls' story that has ever been written. Children of the present day are just as eager to read of Meg, Jo, Amy and Beth as the children of the earlier generations.

Already "Little Women" has been read by millions of children, and is certain to be read by many generations to come. This story will never grow old.

The American Library Association lists "Little Women" as the most popular juvenilet title ever published, and goes further by saying that it is a book that should be permanently in every home.

Eight Cousins

Complete Authorized Edition
By
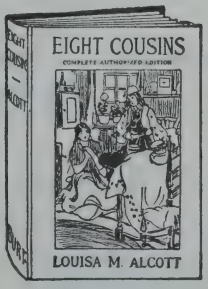
PRICE,
50 CENTS Net.....



In this book, which is rich with delightful situations, the longings and desires of youth are portrayed by Miss Alcott with the same deep and tender understanding of its problems that were so plainly displayed in her other books. Writing in her characteristically sympathetic and inspirational manner, in "Eight Cousins," the author has depicted some of her most charming characters and created a thoroughly wholesome, captivating story.

The winning characters of Rose, who has gone to live at the home of her guardian, and her seven yellow-haired couisns, will be long remembered by every boy or girl who reads this tale of the Cousins' jolly times.

A JUVENILE CLASSIC FOR GIRLS

HEIDI

By JOHANNA SPYRI

In this charming story for girls, Heidi, a little Swiss orphan, goes to live with her grandfather, an old goatherd in the Alps. She is befriended by a wealthy family in Frankfort, and by the charm of her frank and beautiful nature wins the esteem of all who know her.

This story will be enjoyed by all girls of the ages of eight to twelve years.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S WELCOME

Dear Children.

Opening the covers of a book is like opening the front door of a house, so that you may go inside and have jolly times. And how good it is when some one who loves you stands at the front door and says:

"Oh, how glad I am to see you!"

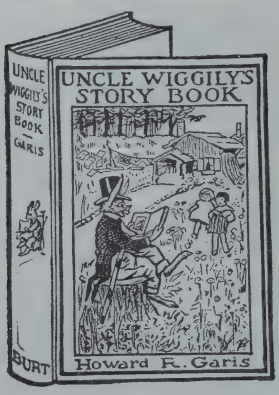
That is what I say to you now, as you open this book.

"Come in and have some jolly fun with me!"

You know that I love you, children, and I want you to enjoy these stories about me. They tell how I escaped from the bad chaps who wanted to catch me. The pictures show what tricks I played on the Fuzzy Fox, the Woozie Wolf, and the Puffing Pipsisewah so they might not nibble my ears. Then, also, there are tales of some of the animal children whom you will know.

So, then, having opened the covers of this book, come in and read! Stay as long as you wish, and, when you go out, invite some one else to enter. Your loving friend,

UNCLE WIGGILY.



Uncle Wiggily's Story Book

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Cloth, 16 Full-page Illustrations in color, 29 in Black and White, by Campbell.

PRICE, $2.00. NET.....

Nearly every event in the life of a child, from the first tooth that needs pulling, to the first tumble and fall, is told of in connection with some delightfully imagined happening involving Uncle Wiggily. There are little lessons for the children in contentment, happiness, kindness to animals, bravery and self-sacrifice. To a child, getting lost or cutting a finger is an event of great moment, and it is just such events as these around which the stories are constructed.

FAVORITE STORIES FOR CHILDREN

By JOHANNA SPYRI

Unusual, Original Stories of the Different Scenes, Episodes and Adventures in the Lives of Real Boys and Girls in Town and Country.

Clothbound, 12mo. Attractive Jackets in Colors

HEIDI

Translated by H. A. MELCON

PRICE, 50 CENTS EACH

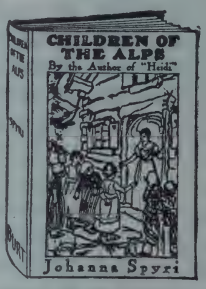
This volume recounts the story of an adorable little orphan girl who lived with her grandfather, a goatherd in the Swiss Alps. The gay, lovable nature of Heidi made her a favorite of the people who lived in her valley; especially of a wealthy Frankfort family, who befriended her in many ways after being won by her delightful character and beautiful nature. Few modern juvenile stories have enjoyed such universal appeal.

CHILDREN OF THE ALPS

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK

PRICE, 50 CENTS EACH

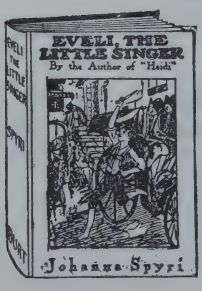
Children are quick to recognize the genuine in literature, a fact that greatly accounts for the popularity of Madame Spyri. In these three stories the characters appear as real persons with real joys and sorrows. Simply, yet vividly told, these tales will be long remembered by the children who read them.



EVELI, THE LITTLE SINGER

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK

PRICE, 50 CENTS EACH



The famous author of tales of child life in the Swiss Alps has written here three appealing stories for children, demonstrating in each one her unusual ability to depict the thoughts and desires of youth, while, at the same time, she deftly portrays the characters of individuals. Youthful readers will find these tales of Peppino, Evili and Jorli, uncommonly interesting.

MAZLI

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK

PRICE 50 CENTS NET

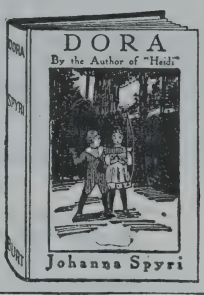
The colorful, exquisitely told story of "Mazli," her high-spirited, impulsive brothers and sisters, and their wise, affectionate mother, cannot fail to provide the young reader with a group of new, true friends. The experiences of Mea, Kurt, Lippo and Bruno and the legend of the supposedly haunted castle near which they live, offer a world of lively entertainment.

DORA

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK

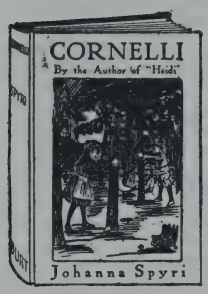
PRICE 50 CENTS NET

There is an unstudied charm and simplicity in this clever tale of lonely, orphaned Dora, and the long quiet days she spent with her aunt and uncle in a chilly garret. A trip to the country and the introduction of the neighbor's children into her life fill it with joy in a manner that will appeal strongly to childish sympathy.



CORNELLI

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK



PRICE 50 CENTS NET

Johanna Spyri has been known in this country, heretofore, by the famous classic "Heidi." In the book "Cornelli" an equally entertaining story has been told of a shy, sensitive little heroine who suffered deeply from unjust suspicion, but was reinstated in her father's affection and gained new friends in an exceptionally real, interesting manner. A story filled with humor and genuine feeling.

VINZI

Translated by ELISABETH P. STORK

PRICE 50 CENTS NET

The refreshing, intimate, essentially human tale of "Vinzi," his love of music, and his practical peasant father, is written with complete sympathy and understanding. The free, joyous life of "Vinzi," Stefeli, and their vigorous cousins in the Swiss Alps, presents an engaging, attractive picture of real youthful happiness and the pleasure of bodily health.

LIST OF PUBLICATIONS BY DESIGNATING NUMBER *

Index Medicus. Classified Record of the Current Medical Literature of the World. Publication of the Index Medicus began in 1879 and was discontinued in 1899. The first series, comprising 21 volumes, is now out of print, though copies may sometimes be obtained from dealers in second-hand books. The second series, issued monthly, was begun in 1903 under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution of Washington and continued in that form until 1920. The third series, issued quarterly, dates from 1921 through 1926.

In January 1927, the Cumulative Quarterly Index, issued by the American Medical Association, was joined with the Index Medicus in a new publication known as the Quarterly Cumulative Index Medicus. This journal is published by the American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois, to which all communications and subscriptions should be sent. The first number appeared in April, 1927.

All orders for copies of the second and third series of the Index Medicus should be sent to the Carnegie Institution of Washington, Washington, D. C.

Part I. Summaries and Comparisons of the Properties of the Starches and of the Tissues of Parent-stocks and Hybrid-stocks. Applications of the Results of the Researches to the Germ-plasm, Variations, Fluctuations, Sports, Mutants, Species, Taxonomy, Heredity, etc. Notes and Conclusions. Pages xi + 1 to 376, 34 plates, 820 charts.
Part II. Special, General, and Comparative Laboratory Data of the Properties of the Starches and of the Tissues of Parent-stocks and Hybrid-stocks. Pages vii + 377 to 834.

271. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 24 to 26. Vol. VIII. Quarto, 198 pages, 10 plates, 23 text-figures. (1918) . . . . . Cloth, $6.00

This book contains the following papers:

Streeter, George L.—The Development Alterations in the Vascular System of the Brain of the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 24.) 38 pp., 5 pls., 12 text-figures.
Cowdry, E. V.—The Mitochondrial Constituents of Protoplasm. (Contribution No. 25.) 120 pages, 1 plate, 9 text-figures.
Kunitomo, Kanae.—The Development and Reduction of the Tail and the Caudal End of the Spinal Cord. (Contribution No. 26.) 38 pages, 4 plates, 2 text-figures.

272. Contributions to Embryology. Nos. 27 to 46. Vol. IX. Quarto, 561 pages, 54 plates, 77 text-figures. (1920) . . . . . Cloth, $19.00

This volume (a memorial to Franklin Paine Mall) contains the following papers:

Macklin, Charles C.—The Development and Function of Macrophages in the Repair of Experimental Bone-Wounds in Rats vitally stained with Trypan-Blue. (Contribution No. 27.) 46 pages, 4 plates.
Duesberg, J.—Cytoplasmic Structures in the Seminal Epithelium of the Opossum. (Contribution No. 28.) 38 pages, 2 plates, 5 text-figures.
Corner, George W.—On the Widespread Occurrence of Reticular Fibrils produced by Capillary Endothelium. (Contribution No. 29.) 9 pages, 2 plates.

272. Continued.

WHEELER, THEODORA.—Variability in the Spinal Column as regards Defective Neural Arches (Rudimentary Spina Bifida). (Contribution No. 30.) 13 pages, 11 text-figures.

VAN DER STRICHT, O.—The Arrangement and Structure of Sustentacular Cells and Hair Cells in the Developing Organ of Corti. (Contribution No. 31.) 34 pages, 4 plates.

RETZER, ROBERT.—The Sino-ventricular Bundle: A Functional Interpretation of Morphological Findings. (Contribution No. 32.) 14 pages, 1 plate.

JENKINS, GEORGE B.—A Study of the Superior Olive. (Contribution No. 33.) 16 pages, 2 plates, 1 text-figure.

SCHULTZ, ADOLPH H.—The Development of the External Nose in Whites and Negroes. (Contribution No. 34.) 18 pages, 1 plate, 7 text-figures.

LEWIS, MARGARET REED.—Muscular Contraction in Tissue Cultures. (Contribution No. 35.) 22 pages, 2 plates, 6 text-figures.

SABIN, FLORENCE R.—Studies on the Origin of Blood-vessels and of Red Blood-corpuscles as seen in the Living Blastoderm of Chicks during the Second Day of Incubation. (Contribution No. 36.) 50 pages, 6 plates, 1 text-figure.

MEYER, ARTHUR W.—Hydatiform Degeneration in Tubal and Uterine Pregnancy. (Contribution No. 40.) 40 pages, 6 plates.

MYERS, BURTON D.—A Study of the Development of Certain Features of the Cerebellum. (Contribution No. 41.) 11 pages, 6 text-figures.

ESSICK, CHARLES R.—Formation of Macrophages by the Cells lining the Subarachnoid Cavity in response to the Stimulus of Particulate Matter. (Contribution No. 42.) 12 pages, 1 plate.

STREETER, GEORGE L.—A Human Embryo (Mateer) of the Presomite Period. (Contribution No. 43.) 36 pages, 7 plates, 4 text-figures, 3 charts.

WEED, LEWIS H.—The Experimental Production of an Internal Hydrocephalus. (Contribution No. 44.) 22 pages, 2 plates.

CLARK, ELIOT R., and ELEANOR LINTON CLARK.—On the Origin and Early Development of the Lymphatic System of the Chick. (Contribution No. 45.) 36 pages, 7 plates, 15 text-figures.

BARDEEN, C. R.—The Height-weight Index of Build in relation to Linear and Volumetric Proportions and Surface Area of the Body during Post-natal Development. (Contribution No. 46.) 72 pages, 11 charts, 2 text-figures.

273. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 47 and 48. Vol. X. Quarto, iii + 103 pages, 16 plates. (1921) . . . . . Cloth $6.50

This book contains the following papers:

EVANS, HERBERT MCLEAN, and KATHARINE J. SCOTT.—On the Differential Reaction to Vital Dyes of the Two Great Groups of Connective-Tissue Cells. (Contribution No. 47.) 55 pages, 11 plates.

MACKLIN, CHARLES C.—The Skull of a Human Fetus of 43 Millimeters Greatest Length. (Contribution No. 48.) 48 pages, 5 plates.

274. Contributions to Embryology. Nos. 49 to 55. Vol. XI. Quarto, 173 pages, 15 plates, 6 charts, 12 text-figures. (1920) . . . . . In cloth, $15.50

This book contains the following papers:

DANCHAKOFF, VERA.—Myeloid Metaplasia of the Embryonic Mesenchyme in relation to Cell Potentialities and Differential Factors. (Contribution No. 49.) 32 pp., 5 pls.

LINEBACK, PAUL E.—Studies on the Longitudinal Muscle of the Human Colon, with special reference to the Development of the Tæniæ. (Contribution No. 50.) 12 pp., 8 text-figures.

WISLOCKI, GEORGE B.—Experimental Studies on Fetal Absorption. (Contribution No. 51.) 16 pp., 4 pls., 1 text-figure.

I. The Vitally Stained Fetus.

II. The Behavior of the Fetal Membranes and Placenta of the Cat Toward Colloidal Dyes Injected into the Maternal Blood-stream.

INGALLS, N. WILLIAM.—A Human Embryo at the Beginning of Segmentation, with special reference to the Vascular System. (Contribution No. 52.) 30 pp., 5 plates, 1 text-figure.

BARRY, LEE WILLIS.—The Effects of Inanition in the Pregnant Albino Rat with Special Reference to the Changes in the Relative Weights of the Various Parts, Systems, and Organs of the Offspring. (Contribution No. 53.) 46 pp.

CORNER, GEORGE W.—A Case of True Lateral Hermaphroditism in a Pig with Functional Ovary. (Contribution No. 54.) 6 pp., 1 pl.

STREETER, GEORGE L.—Weight, Sitting Height, Head Size, Foot Length, and Menstrual Age of the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 55.) 28 pp., 2 text-figures, 6 charts.

275. Contributions to Embryology, No. 56. Vol. XII. Quarto. (1921) Cloth $6.50

MALL, F. P., and A. W. MEYER.—Studies on Abortuses: A Survey of the Pathologic Ova in the Carnegie Embryological Collection. 364 pp., 24 plates, 6 text-figures.

276. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 57 to 64. Vol. XIII. Quarto, 146 pages, 15 plates, 25 text-figures, 1 chart. (1921) $4.00

This book contains the following papers:

CASH, JAMES R.—On the Development of the Lymphatics in the Stomach of the Embryo Pig. (Contribution No. 57.) 15 pages, 3 plates, 3 text-figures.

REICHERT, F. L.—On the Fate of the Primary Lymph-Sacs in the Abdominal Region of the Pig, and the Development of Lymph-Channels in the Abdominal and Pelvic Regions. (Contribution No. 58.) 23 pages, 5 text-figures.

JENKINS, GEORGE B.—Relative Weight and Volume of the Component Parts of the Brain of the Human Embryo at Different Stages of Development. (Contribution No. 59.) 20 pages, 12 text-figures, 1 chart.

CORNER, GEORGE W.—Abnormalities of the Mammalian Embryo occurring before Implantation. (Contribution No. 60.) 6 pages, 2 plates, 1 text-figure.

SPAULDING, M. H.—Development of the External Genitalia in the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 61.) 22 pages, 4 plates, 2 text-figures.

WISLOCKI, GEORGE B.—Further Experimental Studies on Fetal Absorption: (Contribution No. 62.)

III. Behavior of the Fetal Membranes and Placenta of the Guinea-Pig toward Trypan-Blue injected into the Maternal Blood-stream. 8 pages.

IV. Behavior of the Placenta and Fetal Membranes of the Rabbit toward Trypan-Blue injected into the Maternal Blood-Stream. 5 pages, 1 plate.

WISLOCKI, GEORGE B., and J. A. KEY.—Distribution of Mitochondria in the Placenta. (Contribution No. 63.) 13 pages, 1 plate.

CORNER, G. W.—Cyclic Changes in the Ovaries and Uterus of the Sow, and Their Relation to Mechanism of Implantation. (Contribution No. 64.) 30 pp., 4 pls., 2 text-figures.

277. Contributions to Embryology, Nos. 65 to 71. Vol. XIV. Quarto, iii + 162 pages, 17 plates, 41 text-figures. (1922) . . . . . Cloth $4.00

This book contains the following papers:

SABIN, F. R.—Direct Growth of Veins by Sprouting. (Contribution No. 65.) 10 pages, 1 plate.

BUELL, C. E.—Origin of the Pulmonic Vessels in the Chick. (Contribution No. 66.) 16 pages, 2 plates.

DOAN, CHARLES A.—The Circulation of the Bone Marrow. (Contribution No. 67.) 19 pages, 1 plate, 3 text-figures.

CONGDON, E. G.—Transformation of the Aortic-Arch System During the Development of the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 68.) 64 pages, 3 plates, 28 text-figures.

STREETER, GEORGE L.—Development of the Auricle in the Human Embryo. (Contribution No. 69.) 28 pages, 6 plates, 8 text-figures.

WOOLLARD, H. H.—The Development of the Principal Arterial Stems in the Fore-limb of the Pig. (Contribution No. 70.) 16 pages, 2 plates.

Reports on the Conferences on Cycles. Copies may be had on request.

In furtherance of researches on the problems of cycles, a conference of leading investigators was held in December, 1922. The first session was devoted to the nature of the problem, the methods, criteria, and conclusions in various fields. The second session involved a discussion of the application of the method of cycles in the fields of palaeontology and archaeology. The final session was concerned with the refinement of methods and the correlation of the problems of the different subjects. A second conference was called on December 15, 1928. Thirty-five scientists were present, with Dr. D. T. MacDougal in the chair. The purpose of the meeting was a discussion of new material accumulated since 1922.

STYLOPYGA ORIENTALIS—the guide to Light—in other words, simply a member of the humble cockroach family. In this particular case it happened to be one of an evangelical turn of mind, with the consequence that a wicked old professor was snatched from the everlasting flames and returned once again to the straight and narrow.

EVANGELICAL COCKROACH is a series of forty burning sketches —each sparkling with biting irony, rollicking satire, brilliant wit. Each one is a pithy piece, amazingly odd; and beneath the gaiety that cloaks them all is much meaty substance.

There is, for instance, the story of Mary, Mary, Quite Obstreperous, or another concerning Enoch Ardent. Or again, Pretty Girl's Progress, As One Moron to Another, Acute Afflatus and so forth.

Jack Woodford has contributed to most of the important magazines in America and his literary talent has been recognized for some time. In these short sketches he brings to bear a very agile intellect, a penetrating power of observation, and a surprising fund of humor.

"Give H. L. Mencken the ability to write in Cabellian English and you have a hint of what is here. Woodford carries Jurgen into Main Street."—Oakland Tribune.

". . . one of the most enjoyable books of the year. Woodford is a jester, a wit, a satirist."—Saturday Night, Toronto.

"For a downright shock . . ."—San Francisco Bulletin.

EVANGELICAL COCKROACH

BY

Jack Woodford $2.50

Author of 1600 short stories published in more than 60 magazines.

HEYDAY OF HADES

To make Hell safe for iniquity, all the boys of that highly advertised region banded together and held a mighty mass meeting in one of the central brimstone pits, with the result that a resolution to dethrone and deport His Satanic Majesty was unanimously adopted.

Only one of the Select Damned chose to stick to the Devil, and the two set out to re-visit Earth — for the first time since Old Nick in the form of a reptile had that historical chat with Mother Eve 'neath the shade of the spreading apple tree.

They blazed a trail through space, toured an Earth that was greatly changed from the Globe of 1929, paid a rush visit to the Moon, met everyone from the Pope to George Bernard Shaw, and generally had some uncommonly hot experiences.

It is a story of Heaven and Earth and Hades that burns with Satanic satire, diabolical wit, that fires the imagination, and that would "get Goethe's goat" for searing ingenuity and genuine originality.

Dr. Heinrich has written a brilliant diatribe that fills one with hellish glee and heavenly delight.

WHAT IS CALLED LOVE

THIS THING CALLED LOVE is not a book for moronic minds. There is a freshness about its theme, a clarity in the thought expressed, and a beauty in its prose, that brings joy to the real reader who revels in thinking. It is one of those books that cannot be dismissed in a hurry; it is due for a longer life than the average novel; it is one that will provoke discussion.

In THIS THING CALLED LOVE there is an astoundingly original plot which the author has worked out with finesse, delineating the conflicting emotions of a youthful idealist who is torn between his aesthetic theories and his Freudian complexes.

As a master craftsman who knows his work intimately, Louis Arthur Cunningham has carved a set of characters that will live, and has woven them into a story that is at once artistic and real.

"Mr. Cunningham has a great deal of fine dramatic material in his book and he writes with no little smoothness and charm."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"This piece of work is far, far above the average with its beautifully written prose, its precise character sketches and its neatly woven plot."—San Francisco Bulletin.

ENCHANTMENT IN THE WILD

NIPSYA, a story of exotic beauty, treating of the "growing up" of an Indian girl who is not wholly Indian. The dream-heritage of the Celtic peoples, bequeathed to her by a father whom she never knew, stirred within Nipsya, and in her soul and in her eyes was breaking the dawn of womanhood.

With a poignancy born of the true artist, M. Bugnet has finely drawn the joys, the trials, the love, the quaint illusions of picturesque Nipsya's existence. But the book is not confined merely to the beautiful portrait of a captivating girl; there is woven a story of striking originality that must be acclaimed for its departure from the commonplace and conventional.

There is alro a rare picture of life among the "Métis" half-breeds of the northern frontier that may bring as wide attention to this little known people as "Maria Chapdelaine" brought to another frontier race.

GOLDEN AGE OF ERIN

IRELAND is picturesque because Irish history down the ages has been such a multiplicity of egregious incidents; it is quaint because the people responsible for its history possess personality quaint in its imaginative powers.

And back of all that history, remarkable for such a tiny piece of earth, has been a mighty responsible factor — an intriguing mythology that is surpassed perhaps only by the myths of ancient Greece.

THE DOOM OF CONAIRÉ MOR breathes the story-laden atmosphere of Irish mythology, at the same time providing a narrative of extraordinary originality and interest.

There are a dozen strikingly beautiful black and white drawings which portray in a highly imaginative manner the entrancing episodes in the book.

BACCHANALS AND BEAUTY

Forced to commit suicide after a life of appalling debauchery, in the records of Roman vice and crime the notorious Messalina stands supreme. She became empress of the great Roman Empire with the elevation of her husband, Claudius, and turned his palace into a place of immoral activity.

Deftly, with poetic fire, Maurice Magre recreates the splendor of that glorious age—the magic gardens of Lucullus, surpassingly beautiful, holding the secret of the strange and awesome death of that noble man: Simon the Magician, secretive, mysterious, possessed of extraordinary occult powers; Claudius, round of belly, spindle-legged, perpetually gorged, inebriated;—and the weird rites of the exotic Phallic temple, practised under the pale sheen of a full moon.

And above all, reigning supreme — exerting her malignant influence over the Empire — capturing, plundering, killing, stands Messalina, the epitome of beauty — grossly sensual, merciless — driven at last to end by her own hand a life of licentious savagery.

Rome of the Cæsars rises from its ashes in all its beauty, in all its riches, in all its power: Messalina lives—a mad sensual grotesque life surging through a vista of rare beauty.

DESIRE UNDER THE MAPLES

For a number of years books have been issued with the avowed purpose of proving to all and sundry, whether or not all and sundry are really concerned, that the French Canadians are dear, simple souls, living pure, simple lives, and thinking pure, simple thoughts.

But it has occurred to few writers in the realm of fiction to bring to this humor-hungry world the wealth of fun that goes on among French Canadians in the little outlying habitant villages of the Province of Quebec. In this present volume, Madge Macbeth and A. B. Conway, with deft strokes, have concocted a yarn that overflows with good, wholesome, winning giggles.

It is a witty sketch of a tiny village near the Vermont border — chock full of those amusing rustic characters, with all the bucolic ambitions and pretentions, the love-making, the foibles and weaknesses of the simple life.

Illustrated with more than a score of most amusing black and white studies by the most talented of French Canadian caricaturists.

WHY THE CHINESE FIGHT

THE Chinese drama, enacted by personalities in that land of the Orient who were fighting for freedom in thought and action, has never been fully understood by Western civilization, which has been confined to the digesting of news despatches.

Here the history of the revolution in China, with all its bewildering marches and counter marches, is recorded with equal lucidity and impartiality, so that not only does the reader have an exceptionally clear picture of the political and economic factors, but a well-defined description of the spiritual background from which these events arose as inevitable development.

It is, in fine, a vivid biography of the greatest of modern Chinese statesmen, and a graphic portrayal of what is perhaps the most turbulent period of his country's history.

Dr. Amann furnishes the reader with a broad embracing view of modern China, in the light of which can be judged the recent events which have brought this turbulent nation of the Orient again to the eyes of the world.

THRONE-ROOMS AND ANTECHAMBERS

THROUGH the antechambers and throne-rooms, past the barriers that surround statesmen, a young diplomatist goes from the shores of the New World to visit the capitals of the Old, takes the reader into formal gatherings and intimate meetings with the great.

Something of what lies hidden behind the veils of censorship can be gleaned in this frank, thorough study of European leaders, their methods, and the institutions over which they preside.

Deftly and skilfully Mr. Guerin sets the stage in each country, sketches in the background of national aspirations, sets up great figures of the time, outlines the political situations that hold the public eye.

The book is illustrated with more than thirty autographed portraits, many never published before. There is a foreword by Senator Raoul Dandurand, President of the Sixth Assembly of the League of Nations.

FIFTY YEARS AT SEA

THIS "Grand Old Man of the Sea" has opened wide his log-books and journals and from them has been extracted a narrative that is highly engrossing, and worthy of his colorful career.

Captain Bernier's story has been set down as he told it, in the simple direct way of the seaman plotting his course on the chart of life. There is the tang of the sea in his yarns; the true spirit of adventure lurks in his tales of hardship afloat, of the spirited races with Bluenose timber-droghers and New England tea-clippers, his stories of furious hurricanes, of mutiny repressed by stern measures, of strandings and shipwrecks.

MASTER MARINER is one of those rare books that can be read by young and old with equal pleasure. Profusely illustrated.

LOVE LIVES OF THE GREAT

THE most brilliant pens of France have contributed to this distinguished collection in which the great personages of all ages pass in review, their private lives studied, their passions analyzed, their most intimate secrets laid bare — and the history of many nations falls into place in the tracks of personal likes and dislikes, of suppressed desire or unleashed passion, of tender romance or consuming sensuousness.

Each book is a stage, with the vivid tapestry of the life of the time as a background, and the great figures of history strutting the boards.

Bound in black, stamped in gold, these volumes make a handsome collection. each $2.00

A collector's edition of each title, limited to five hundred copies, printed on Utopian laid paper, strongly bound, in quiet, distinctive three-piece case. each $5.00

MOUNT ÆTNA IN ERUPTION

LIKE a half legendary tale of the Middle Ages, this story of Imperial Russia unfolds itself with all its incredible personages; the boorish Prince Peter, who slept booted and grimily dressed; the unbelievable plan of the Empress and her Council to fill the empty Imperial Cradle; the lovers who slew Peter and made Catherine ruler of all the Russias; the lover made King of Poland, and the long parade of favorites who cost Russia 93,000,000 crowns. Catherine was an utterly voluptuous woman and insatiable in love, though a great ruler and social reformer.

This difficult subject has been treated by Princesse Murat with a frank yet delicate pen, tracing pictures that live, that astound, and leave one breathless at the end.

THE GODDESS OF BEAUTY

Love and luxury beckoned to Emma Lyon at that age when in the heart of every beautiful girl there slumbers a Manon Lescaut. From love to lover she flitted, yet she was not merely a butterfly, not merely a wanton. Each man who loved her . . . and there were so many . . . loved her not alone for the glorious body, the face divine, that the gods had endowed her withal; but for herself . . . for the Emma whose spirit was a rich chameleon thing; whose mind was clear, whose heart was human.

With clean, deft strokes, with artistic mastery of the psychology of the heart of woman, Albert Flament has drawn against the colorful background of the French Revolution, the Napoleonic wars, the great naval combats of Teneriffe and Trafalgar . . . against a background of court-ermine and powder-stained uniforms and the blue Neapolitan skies, the picture of this woman among women. They stand side-by-side, Lady Hamilton and Lord Nelson, Venus and Neptune.

THE PRIVATE LIFE OF LADY HAMILTON

HE LIVED FOR LOVE AND LOVED FOR GLORY

One of the most colorful of the Kings of France and the Prince of Lovers strides through these pages with the dignity that never left him, even in his most intimate moments. Louis Bertrand weaves an engrossing tale of the royal loves, of Marie Mancini, who swore eternal loyalty and then married the King's enemy; Louise de la Vallière, who captured the royal heart in extremely strange circumstances; the beautiful Montespan who tried to poison the king; and Madame de Maintenon, who became the uncrowned queen of France.

SWORDS AND DRUMS

Many countries of the New World have had in their time "covered wagon days" of early development, but the colorful pioneer period of the French in Canada yet remains unmatched in the history of the Western Hemisphere for drama and romance.

A mere kettle drum was instrumental in driving two promising young soldiers of King Louis to Canada and exile, and from this apparently insignificant incident there developed a story of adventure that is unfolded in this stirring historical romance, The Drum of Lanoraye.

A WOMAN AND A NECKLACE

Jewellery, from time immemorial, has played havoc with both sexes; woman has ever had a weakness for the glittering gem, and she would do almost anything to acquire such: man has always had a headache because of woman's avidity for the expensive ornament.

Miss Foley, whose ingenious imagination has been responsible for many an interesting mystery yarn heretofore, has lent a new twist to this terrible love for jewels in her latest story, The Octagon Crystal. Here the existence of a curious crystal necklace leads on to terrifying complications with both men and women.

The author has created a mystery story of deep interest, in which an orphaned girl of unknown parentage and Chief Red Hawk, last of the Narragansetts, are two of the unusual characters. It is a mystery of a distinctly novel flavor.

HENS AND WOMEN

THE similarity of a plain ordinary hen yard to this workaday world may never have struck the average mortal, but Miss Sime has decided that in a hen coop there is a little mimic world, uncomfortably like the universe outside. And from this theme the author has hatched a story that will tickle you far more effectively than could a rooster's feather.

This little colony of hens, pure-breds, mongrels, hybrids, in Griselda's Hen Yard is but a miniature feminine world. There one finds gossiping and clucking, and scraping for food, and mating and fighting, and all that goes to make up hens—and women.

You may call it satirical, or allegorical, or emblematic, and be perfectly correct, but its main feature is its effervescent humor.

Mr. Meekison has drawn many amusing black and white illustrations, in addition to a strikingly colorful frontispiece.

A COLONIAL COMMANDER

VIVID pictures of the quaint towns that were Boston, New York, and Albany before the Revolution and glimpses of innumerable localities in New England and the other Colonies lighten the JOURNAL OF JEFFERY AMHERST, now published for the first time under the editorship of Dr. Webster, widely known as a keen student of Colonial history. General Amherst was the Commander-in-Chief of the combined British and American forces which invaded New France in the final campaigns of the Seven Years' War, and he it was that forced the Capitulation of Montreal in 1760. There are tensely dramatic moments tersely recorded in the JOURNAL, as well as innumerable odd and interesting incidents.

HOCHELAGA OF THE RED MEN

LONG before the White Man came, the Island of Montreal had a history of its own, stretching far back through uncounted years and recorded only in the traditions of the Indian races which succeeded each other in the shadow of Mount Royal. Cartier and Champlain learned some of these traditions and the early missionaries gathered many threads which added to the prehistoric lore of Montreal. A distinguished antiquarian, who is also a novelist, tells all that is known in a most interesting narrative, and advances some startling theories of the migration of Indian peoples from Mexico to Labrador. Dr. Lighthall is legal counsel for the Six Nations Indians, Iroquois chief, and authority on Indian history.

INTERNATIONAL WATERWAYS

THE importance of development on a large scale of the St. Lawrence Waterways has stirred leaders in the worlds of politics and commerce both in the United States and Canada for some years, until it is looming large on the immediate horizon.

Diversified interests have naturally entertained divergent contentions, while a complete exposition, outlining the entire scheme, has been lacking.

In an effort to fill this public need Major George Washington Stephens, late president of the Saar Valley Governing Commission, has compiled a book which deals exhaustively, descriptively, but concisely, with the present transportation system on the Great Lakes and Upper St. Lawrence, including a brief history of the negotiations to provide navigation and power development along the international waterway, together with the comparison and analysis of plans advanced by various interests, and a prediction of the future importance of water-borne commerce on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence.

ROMANCE UNDER TWO FLAGS

NORTH American history abounds in truths "far stranger than fiction". Wide historical reading, intimate knowledge of tradition, close familiarity with original sources, and a keen critical sense are all required in one who sets out to write accurately of historical facts in the romantic manner. Dr. Doughty is eminently possessed of all of these qualifications. In THE LILY AND THE ROSE he recounts the story of the two Régimes in Canada as a sequence of highly interesting events rather than a parade of dates and battles. There is rare inspiration and a charm of style that will make this work a classic of the Parkman order. It is the crowning achievement of a distinguished career.

CANADIAN HISTORICAL STUDIES

THE renowned Nootka trouble of 1790, which almost precipitated an international crisis, arose out of a squabble between two sea-captains engaged in the otter trade on the northwest coast of America. Captain George Dixon had hurled scorn upon Meares, whose vessel had been seized by Spain; and Meares retorted in kind upon Dixon.

These Dixon-Meares pamphlets are now amongst the rarest of Americana; no complete set has been offered for sale within the past twenty years. Their study in this volume, with many illustrations and maps, sheds an interesting sidelight on life off the Pacific coast at this early date.

KITTENS AND KATNIP

Rich milk flows from pearl-tinted trees and catnip flowers abound, where soft, fluffy kittens prance about in quaint Pussioland.

There was a state of war between Pussioland and Gwatkinsland, for the Gwatkins stole the precious purr of the Pussios, who are never, never happy without their purr. But two small children happened into this serious state of affairs and were instrumental in ultimately winning back the purr for the Pussios.

This is but a dip into the story whose quaintness, stamping it as genuinely fine fantasy, cannot fail to entrance the fertile imagination of any child. Indeed, it embodies all that is whimsical, where adults may find many a pleasant hour roaming about among the Pussios, the Gwatkins or in Mouseville.

It will be a delight to any human, from seven to seventy.

CANADA'S LONGFELLOW

Of the poets of the nineteenth century in America it is difficult to think of any approaching that master of verse, Longfellow; yet it is the considered opinion of responsible criticis that Archibald Lampman's work approximated in beauty of form and felicitous studies of nature that of the great American poet.

This Canadian poet of nature experienced a most unusual life, the story of which has been chronicled authoritatively and exhaustively in Dr. Connor's book. Dr. Connor is head of the Department of English at Sweet Briar College in Virginia and for years he has spent every effort collecting material for this work on Lampman.

As a varied rhymester, an adequate teller of tales, a serious thinker, a pictorial artist, and a classicist, Lampman had few contemporary equals, and this biography and critical study of the poet perhaps has no equal.

ALLURING QUEBEC

THERE have been guide books and guide books, but Blodwen Davies has contrived an ingenious method with which to present the many alluring corners of this old French fortress to which thousands flock yearly.

The reader is taken on four distinct walks through the Ancient Capital, and is afforded a novel insight into the many points of interest. It is designed for those who know little of the old city's history and romance, and who delight in prowling about in search of the picturesque.

The pen drawings of Robert Pilot have captured the fanciful atmosphere of old Quebec, and the complete book, done in three editions, will be treasured by both those who have visited or would like to visit one of the most historic places in America.

THE fate and history of the North American continent hinged upon the military genius of one young man, James Wolfe, the "mad general," who turned a seemingly unsuccessful campaign into a notable victory and broke French power in America for all time.

A CLASSIC OF FRENCH CANADA

HERE, in a book of rare beauty, are silhouettes of the recent past in French Canada, written by one whose ancestry stretches far back into the history of New France. Mr. Bouchard lives among the habitants on the St. Lawrence, teaches their sons and represents them in Parliament.

Not intended originally for publication, this book of intimate and delightful sketches had been planned for the eyes of his children alone who could in no other way capture the charming spirit of a life that is changing, even in Quebec. Written from the heart they constitute a work of picturesqueness and beauty, skilfully etching the faiths and foibles of a delightful people as they were before radios and gasoline began the invasion of their centuries-old seclusion.

Illustrated with woodcuts by Edwin Holgate and with a linoleum cut jacket by the same artist.

"It celebrates the rustic joys and virtues of the peasantry of Quebec. Plentiful woodcut decorations by Edwin H. Holgate give it a distinguished appearance."

ISLE OF DREAMS

Not very far below Quebec City, there is a charming island nestling in the sparkling blue of the mighty St. Lawrence,—the Isle of Orleans whose inhabitants are among the most engaging of any community in the Western Hemisphere.

This, the third book to be brought out by the Historic Monuments Commission of the Province of Quebec, is a comprehensive history of the social life, art, crafts, faith and culture of the dwellers of the Isle of Orleans. The first two publications dealt with old manor houses and churches; both are now out of print and are already bringing high prices from book collectors.

Larger, more copiously illustrated with over two score plates in full color, two hundred in sepia and two hundred in red chalk, a large number of which are from the work of Horatio Walker who has made his home on the historic island for many years, this volume is by far the best of the three. In years to come it will be among the rarest of Canadiana.

FRENCH LITERATURE IN AMERICA

On the borders of the northern States lies an old civilization, redolent of France of the royalist days, where old traditions, old faiths, old ways are preserved, and where the graceful classicism of days gone by still flourishes.

Some of this Old World spirit has seeped into the United States with the coming of the French Canadians into New England. On both sides of the Border, French literature in America expresses itself with all the vigor and freshness of the New World, colored by the rich traditions of the Old.

The following Carrier books are examples of the works of living French Canadian writers in prose and verse.

FICTION

NEW BOOKS

FIELD OF HONOR. By Donn Byrne, author of "Messer Marco Polo," "The Wind Bloweth," etc. 12mo, 400 pages. $2.50

De Luxe Edition, printed on large paper and signed by Dorothea Donn-Byrne, literary executrix, limited to 500 copies. $10.00

FIELD OF HONOR is the last novel that Donn Byrne ever wrote. In it he has epitomized, as it were, his life work, for the many strong and abiding qualities which were in his earlier books here combine to make a story as brave and swinging as The Wind Bloweth, as radiant as Messer Marco Polo, and as full of poetry and heart-wringing tenderness as O'Malley and Blind Raftery.

It is a novel of the Napoleonic wars. Two massive figures stand out above the rest, two bitter foes—Napoleon and Castlereagh, British minister for war. To Castlereagh, sitting in London and spinning his cunning web of soldiers, spies and money around the head of Bonaparte, comes young Garrett Dillon, an Irishman bent on serving his country.

FIELD OF HONOR tells two stories in one. It tells the love story of Garrett Dillon and the beautiful, untamed Jocelyn who is his wife. In its wider scope it is an epic of the overthrow of chivalry with the vanquishing of Napoleon. Sea battles, land battles; intrigues of ministers, London balls; the fallen emperor pacing St. Helena; still, heaven-sent evenings of magic Irish summer on Lough Neagh—a hundred vivid scenes flash by with the fiery richness of style that is Donn Byrne's and no one's else.

THE BLACK GALE. By Samuel Shellabarger, author of "The Chevalier Bayard." 12mo, 380 pages. $2.50

The Black Gale of passion in this story blows its three victims into the inevitable baleful triangle. At the apex is Jacklin Baron, temperamental, imaginative, safely and dully married. At the bases are her husband, Clifton Baron, a pale, conscientious idealist, and Morier Ravanel, ex-flying ace, officer of the Legion of Honor, soldier of fortune and modern Casanova. In Paris the love of Jacklin and Ravanel bursts into flower, and in Paris, years later, it comes to a second flowering, strangely different from the first.

THE BLACK GALE gives you characters wholly alive and unique. It gives you the subtle breath of Paris—that Paris where people make love and work at the game of playing with life.

THE NO-NATION GIRL. By Evans Wall. 12mo, 350 pages. $2.50

The arrival of this manuscript by an unknown writer caused a unanimous shout of rejoicing to issue from the office of the publishers; and it is safe to predict even more violent enthusiasm from critics and readers when the book appears.

THE NO-NATION GIRL is the story of swamp negroes in the Louisiana back-waters. More particularly, it is the story of Precieuse, the daughter of a black woman and a white man. Precieuse is white and very beautiful, and up to a certain terrific crisis in her life she has the mind and spirit that are the heritage from her white father. But the latent spirit of the primitive negro which is buried in her soul tears itself free in one of the most powerfully tragic love-crises to be found anywhere in modern literature.

EARLY REAPING. By Cale Young Rice, author of "Stygian Freight," "Youth's Way," etc. 12mo, 314 pages. $2.50

This novel is the fourth prose work of Cale Young Rice, who for so many years has been rated by English and American critics as one of the foremost poets of our day. Its theme is the bilateral heredity at work with the possible perils of mismating, as revealed in the life of Clive Howell, the son of an old and distinguished Kentucky family. EARLY REAPING is not only another evidence of Mr. Rice's great versatility, but is certain to reach an audience heretofore unfamiliar with his distinguished work.

VALLEJO KITTY. By Ann Knox, author of "Flowerdown." 12mo, 321 pages. $2.50

Kitty was a prostitute—and became a peeress. She was no common prostitute, for the inmates of Molly Woodward's "hotel" on Nob Hill prided themselves on being the most exclusive group in San Francisco, and none was more exclusive than beautiful Kitty, with her dark fascination that made men willing to do anything—even to behave—in order to possess her. How Vallejo Kitty transformed herself into Lady Stamford is a richly entertaining tale, packed with vivid sketches of the rough old, tough old days in San Francisco when the West was young.

LADIES AND GENTS. By Vera Caspary. 12mo, 288 pages. $2.00

The story of a young vaudeville dancer, who flees from the circus when her parents, who are trapeze-artists, want to have her tattooed. How she flits from one backstage adventure to another among the curious personalities of the circus and the three-a-day, how she becomes "the sweetheart of American Vaudeville and Queen of Musical Comedy," and how she nearly marries an earl and actually marries her manager, is the basis of this amusing and gaily written human interest tale.

JOHNNY REB. By Marie Conway Oemler, author of "Sheaves," "Slippy McGee," etc. 12mo, 350 pages. $2.50

"Johnny Reb," the hero of this charming story by Mrs. Oemler, is a Confederate veteran who returns from the Civil War to find all his worldly fortunes swept away by the tides of war. A group of his fellow veterans in the little town of Maryville, South Carolina, grant lovable old Johnny the street-car franchise in the town and allow him to lay out his own route for the tracks and run the company in his own manner. This story of sagacious Johnny—street car magnate with a "rolling stock" of one car and two mules, Arabella and Susie May—and his glorious romance with pretty Miss Amy, the middle-aged cripple, is one of the most charming books Mrs. Oemler has ever written. Humor and sentiment are evenly balanced.

THE CADDIS. By Marjorie Bartholomew Paradis, author of "A Dinner of Herbs." 12mo, 350 pages. $2.50

Marion Galaway, the central character in this new novel, like the caddis worm in Kingsley's "The Water Babies," "would not keep the same material for a day." With passionate zeal she adds to herself a handsome husband, clothes, maids, automobiles, social life and lovers. When her hard-driven husband becomes aware of her grossness he offers to divorce her, and her ultimate decision is made in the same spirit which has ruled her entire life. This novel offers a striking picture of American materialism from the viewpoint of a fairly typical American woman.

NO TOMORROW. By Brigit Patmore. 12mo, 290 pages. $2.00

"Love hath no to-morrow," sang the poet Donne, and the same theme is mordantly developed in this high-strung story of tangled emotions, of frustrated desires, of young men and women searching for the reason of life in love and finding only a promise of happiness that is forever deferred.

Keen soul-searching and a beauty of style and diction rarely to be found in modern fiction characterize the work of this English author. In No Tomorrow she tells a keenly sensitive story of moral disintegration and fast life that will leave a deep impression on the reader.

THE BLADED BARRIER. By Joseph Bushnell Ames, author of "The Lone Hand," "The Stranger from Cheyenne," etc. 12mo, 393 pages. $2.00

A murdered Mexican, an emerald of amazing size and exquisite design, and a dying man's whispered words about "treasure—fiends—a serpent—the gate of swords"—these are the mysterious events leading up to the adventure of The Bladed Barrier.

It is the last novel that was completed by this popular author of Western stories before his untimely death. Ames fans, lovers of action, thrills and a plot filled with endless surprises, will find this a book intensely to their liking.

MAVERICKS. By Walt Coburn, author of "The Ringtailed Rannyhans." 12mo, 300 pages. $2.00

Maverick: In cattle-raising regions, an animal found without an owner's brand, especially a calf separated from its dam. (Century Dictionary)

In Mavericks Walt Coburn has written a man's tale of the Montana range country—a tale of cattle rustling, of ranch warfare, of a young cowman's stiff-lipped love and a girl's wit and courage.

Through the book runs the hardy, rollicking, iron-fisted spirit of the Western cattlemen, riding their ranges and singing their galloping refrain: "Parson, I'm a maverick, just runnin' loose an' grazing' . . ."

PIDGIN CARGO. By Alice Tisdale Hobart. 12mo, 320 pages. $2.50

This novel of pioneering on the world's oldest frontier concerns the life-long battle between a man and a river. Eben Hawley, an American transporting his silk from the interior of China, is a dauntless son of those earlier pioneers who piloted their covered wagons across the western plains.

The dramatic sweep of the novel, with its stirring incidents of shipwrecks, pirate fights, loyalties, treacheries, escapes and rescues, flows impressively upon a background of the surging river of Chinese humanity—ground down, betrayed, starved, but ever indestructible.

OLD LOUISIANA. By Lyle Saxon, author of "Fabulous New Orleans," "Father Mississippi," etc. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Illustrations by E. H. Suydam. Colored frontispiece. $5.00

In this book Lyle Saxon sets down in his own vivid and inimitable fashion the chronicle of a glamorous and romantic section of our American civilization which is fast crumbling into the dust of decay. He takes the reader back into the grand old days when the true aristocracy of Louisiana graced the beautiful and stately old plantations. Old Louisiana is another distinguished book by this "New Chronicler of the South" which takes its place beside his tremendously popular "Fabulous New Orleans" and "Father Mississippi." The book is characteristically illustrated with a frontispiece in color and black-and-white drawings by E. H. Suydam.

DONN BYRNE: BARD OF ARMAGH. By Thurston Macauley. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

This important biographical and critical study presents for the first time an accurate and graphic summary of Donn Byrne the artist and the man. As a study of his works, it goes back to the days when he was still a struggling young author trying to break his way through the towering editorial barriers of New York and London. Virtually all the biographical material in this book is published here for the first time. Mr. Macauley spent several months in Ireland absorbing the delicate Celtic spirit which found its way into practically all of Donn Byrne's books. In fact much of DONN BYRNE: BARD OF ARMAGH was written in Coolmain Castle, in the very study from which such masterpieces as Brother Saul and Field of Honor emerged.

COMMODORE DAVID PORTER: 1780-1843. By Archibald D. Turnbull, author of "John Stevens: An American Record," etc. Uncut 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

One of the greatest of the "Fathers of the American Navy," Commodore Porter had in him the makings of a famous pirate. In an earlier day—that of the War of 1812—he did for his country what the romantic Count Luckner did during the recent war: with a lone ship he swept the oceans, destroyed enemy shipping, captured prizes right and left, and made his name a byword and a terror both to the Mediterranean pirates and to the British. This thrilling biography deserves to rank with Paine's "Joshua Barney" as a veracious and stirring record of an American naval hero.

WASHINGTON, PAST AND PRESENT. By Charles Moore. Royal 8vo, 400 pages. Colored frontispiece and 32 illustrations by E. H. Suydam. $5.00

This beautiful book on the most beautiful city in the United States is a companion volume to Will Irwin's "Highlights of Manhattan" and Lyle Saxon's "Fabulous New Orleans," both of which are illustrated by the artist E. H. Suydam. Besides the pictorial view of the grandeur of the nation's capital herein conveyed, Mr. Moore tells the story of this city from its beginnings. Anecdotes, history, personal sketches and a vast amount of material which reflects the atmosphere of Washington are included.

UNDER FIVE SULTANS. By Mary Mills Patrick. Royal 8vo, 346 pages. Illustrated. $4.00

This is the autobiography of one of the most remarkable women of modern times. It covers the more than fifty years which Dr. Patrick devoted to her work in the Balkans building up the famous Constantinople Woman's College, of which institution she has been president since 1890. Her own fortunes and those of the College were intimately linked with the chain of historical events which centered about Constantinople during those fifty pregnant years. Consequently Dr. Patrick's book is a vivid historical pageant, viewed at close range and sometimes even from behind the scenes, as well as a human story of rare interest and inspiring example.

THE STORY OF THE WEATHER. By Eugene Van Cleef. 12mo, 280 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

This book tells in popular fashion all that scientists now know about our fickle but fascinating friend, the atmosphere. Here are chapters on climate, wind, clouds, storms and the seasons; an explanation of weather-forecasting; discussions of the weather in its relation to business and the home; and sundry interesting facts about rainbows, cloudbursts, the aurora and weather lore in general. It is a book of entertainment and importance to manufacturers, merchants, engineers, aviators, architects, contractors, farmers, gardeners, housewifes, tourists and in fact every individual who recognizes how closely the weather, the seasons and climate are associated with most of life's activities.

THE BOOK OF PUKA-PUKA. By Robert Dean Frisbie. Uncut 8vo, 320 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

Puka-Puka is the native name for Danger Island, a tiny point of land in the Pacific far removed from trade and tourist routes. Here the author repaired to live as he wanted, and this book tells of his life as the only white man on this lotus-island. With freedom and gusto he describes his "native" life, free from inhibitions as to wine, women and work. There is a completely fresh outlook on the South Seas in this book, an utterly fascinating combination of wit, sentiment, the picaresque and philosophy—with a refreshingly sardonic twist and a humorous, readable style.

FROM SANDY HOOK TO 62°. By Charles Edward Russell, author of "A-Rafting on the Mississip'." Uncut 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

A volume of simple, unadorned records of the New York Pilot Service which is more thrilling than the wildest sea fiction. The author begins his narrative with the brilliant achievements of the Sandy Hook boats as privateers in the War of 1812, and traces their activities through a great variety of adventure, perils, wrecks, daring exploits and narrow escapes down to the World War, in which the Sandy Hook pilots performed a vital function of which the public has never known. The adventures connected with the blizzard of '88 alone are sufficient to fill an ordinary volume.

WHY JANET SHOULD READ SHAKSPERE. By Norman Hapgood. Tall 12mo, 257 pages. Illustrated. $2.50

What one of Shakspere's heroines would make the best wife? Why is it harder to find a perfect husband in Shakspere's plays than a perfect wife? If you were going off on a desert island with twelve of Shakspere's plays, which ones would you take? Here is the answer to every Janet or Jerry who wonders why he or she should read Shakspere. It answers by telling what Shakspere has meant to the author all his life; what he has meant for three centuries to the world's foremost writers; what he does for our mental life, our style, and our powers of observation.

ISLES OF ROMANCE. By George Allan England. 8vo, 350 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

For eight years the author has explored out-of-the-way islands to which tourists seldom repair, and in this book he describes some dozen scattered points of romance from the coasts of Labrador down to the waters of the Caribbean. Here are descriptions of Newfoundland, Anticosti, the Dry Tortugas, the Grand Cayman, the Virgin Isles, and others—not only descriptions, but fascinating tales of their traditions, their people, and their ways which will make the regular tourist long for once to leave the beaten paths and discover these islands, like the author, for himself.

MASTER OF MY FATE. By Herschel T. Manuel. 8vo, 320 pages. $2.50

A thoughtful, clear-cut exposition of behaviorism and its relation to personality. The book is divided into three parts. Part I indicates the biological and psychological foundations; Part II discusses the problems of personality and behavior which face all of us, such as dress, speech, manners, morals, religion, culture, etc.; Part III contains a program of self-direction by which each reader can give himself a definite rating on an improvement scale. The author of this valuable and stimulating human guide is Professor of Educational Psychology at the University of Texas.

EARLY AMERICAN COSTUME. By Edward Warwick and Henry Pitz. 8vo, 380 pages. 64 illustrations. $4.00

This book not only covers the field of American costume but gives at the same time the background of colonial life into which the costume fitted, thus showing for the first time on a concerted scale the relationship of what our forefathers wore to what they ate and did, where they lived and worked, how they played and worshiped. Each chapter begins with a description of the conditions coeval with the costume treated. The result is a book that will give not only the general reader but even the artist or illustrator, the stage or motion-picture director, easily accessible material for the working out of an entire picture or set or the visualizing of early scenes.

CHANGING NEW ENGLAND. By Edward E. Whiting. Uncut 12mo, 320 pages. Illustrated. $3.00

This book offers a survey of the three hundred years' history of New England since the Puritan occupation, and shows the bewildering and dramatic changes which have come over the region in that time—social, economic, religious and industrial changes. Among the topics touched on by the author in this sympathetic volume are: How modern American government was evolved from early town government; what constitutes a "Yankee"; what effect immigration has had on New England; the New England conscience at work; and many others, all reflecting the individual spirit that has characterized the New England States and people since their beginning.

LECTURES ON ETHICS. By Immanuel Kant. Introduction by Dr. Paul Menzer. Translated from the German by Louis Infield. 12mo, 272 pages. $2.50

A hitherto unpublished collection of lectures, delivered by this celebrated philosopher at Konigsberg University between 1776 and 1780. They are particularly interesting in giving a view of a period of Kant's mental life concerning which little information has been available. Whoever knows Kant in his most voluminous, refractory and oft-times abstruse period will be pleasantly surprised to read Kant here in clear, impressive and terse sentences. An enlightening, welcome volume.

TELL YOUR OWN FORTUNE. By Doris Webster and Mary Alden Hopkins, authors of "I've Got Your Number," etc. 12mo, 166 pages. $1.00

An exciting and mirth-provoking successor to the famous "I've Got Your Number," "Marriage Made Easy," and "Help Yourself!" This volume resembles the first of the series in the universality of its appeal. It contains four parts of questions and answers entitled respectively "Your Past," "Your Future," "You Can Change Your Fate," and "Let's Make Money." The last part alone should be of sufficient interest to make this book another best-seller and add to the Webster-Hopkins batting average.

FATHER IN MODERN STORY. Edited by Maud van Buren and Katharine I. Bemis, editors of "Mother in Modern Story," "Christmas in Modern Story," etc. 12mo, 380 pages. $2.50

Menfolk will be surprised and gratified to discover the popularity of fathers in these numerous stories by outstanding authors. Elias Tobenkin's story of "Father and Son" strikes a vibrant chord. Bess Streeter Aldrich provides chuckles with "Father Mason Retires," and radio fans in particular will be charmed with Torrey Ford's "Cap'n Quiller Listens In." Charles Brackett discusses a legitimate use for the croix de guerre in "Father's Day," while Sophie Kerr, with characteristic cleverness, wins sympathy and admiration for the father in "Pack Horse." So the list continues, each story good to the last word—a fitting companion volume for Mother in Modern Story.

A CHILD'S GEOGRAPHY OF THE WORLD. By V. M. Hillyer, author of "A Child's History of the World," etc. 8vo, 480 pages. Illustrated. $3.50

A companion volume to the justly famous "A Child's History of the World," by the Headmaster of the Calvert School, Baltimore, Maryland. More than 50,000 copies of "A Child's History" have already been sold. The present book treats the subject of geography in the same delightful, informal, humorous way as its predecessor, and is enlivened with many sprightly, stimulating drawings and maps to make a palatable subject of what so often proves a bore to many children.

MARCO POLO, JUNIOR. By Harry A. Franck, author of "A Vagabond Journey Around the World," etc. 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

For twenty years Harry A. Franck, "The Prince of Vagabonds," has thrilled grown-up readers with his true tales of wandering and adventuring all over the face of the earth. This is his first book written expressly for young people—the story of an American boy's adventures during more than a year of travel in every part of China.

The young twentieth-century Marco Polo who is the hero of this book goes everywhere and sees everything in the ancient and often incredible land of China.

ANDREW JACKSON THE FIGHTING PRESIDENT. By Helen Nicolay, author of "The Boys' Life of Abraham Lincoln," etc. 12mo, 300 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

This is a biography especially designed for younger people, giving an honest picture of the hot-tempered backwoodsman who became the seventh President of the United States, yet bringing out those qualities of courage and loyalty which made him one of the most warmly admired as well as one of the greatest of our presidents. Miss Nicolay is a past master in the art of writing biography for boys and girls, as the popularity of her books on Lincoln, Grant, Hamilton and others attests.

THE BOYS' LIFE OF KIT CARSON. By Flora Warren Seymour, author of "The Boys' Life of Frémont." 12mo, 227 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

A little blue-eyed, tow-headed lad once ran away from his frontier home and became one of America's immortal empire-builders. Poor, undersized, uneducated and an orphan, his character and pluck made him one of the best-known and best-loved heroes of our Great West. That lad was Kit Carson.

His life is a series of vivid pictures—of caravans, desert trails, winter lodges, fights, feasts and councils, of fording streams and scaling mountains. This biography brings out admirably the qualities that have made Kit Carson—explorer, trapper, scout—a favorite hero with boys.

THE CHILDREN'S BOOK OF CELEBRATED LEGENDS. By Lorinda Munson Bryant, author of "The Children's Book of Celebrated Pictures," etc. Square quarto, 100 pages. 50 illustrations. $2.50

A beautiful addition to the artistic series of "Celebrated" books for children, which already covers the fields of sculpture, pictures, buildings, bridges, towers, American landmarks and European landmarks. Famous stories and legends of the world are here briefly retold, and each is illustrated by a well-known painting or other picture describing the scene. Either singly or as a series these books are treasures of permanent value for any child's library. All are uniform in size, binding and price.

DRAKE'S LAD. By Rupert Sargent Holland, author of "The Knights of the Golden Spur," etc. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

Sir Francis Drake's career is a series of dramatic events, rising step by step in interest from his early experience of Spanish treachery at San Juan de Ulloa to the ultimate defeat of the Great Armada. In DRAKE'S LAD we follow this career through the eyes of young Humphrey Penhallow, a lad who runs away to sea, wins Drake's friendship, and shares the experiences and dangers of his commander both at sea and in Drake's frequent encounters with enemies at court. It is a story filled with historic pictures and with romantic, daredevil characters of a lovable sort.

THE LUCK OF GLENLORN. By Edith Ballinger Price, author of "Ship of Dreams," "Gervaise of the Garden," etc. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

In this stirring tale Edith Ballinger Price has drawn a new setting in the remote Scottish highlands. Acquainted, herself, with the Outer Hebrides, she has infused into her romantic story a surety of detail that colors the whole background.

Andrew Birk, a young American of Scottish descent, exploring the Highlands in search of ancestral haunts, stumbles into the ancient castle of Glenlorn and into a mystery as romantic as it is baffling, a mystery heart-rending and breath-taking.

THE LOST KING. By Helen Coale Crew, author of "The Trojan Boy". 12mo, 206 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

The author of that charming and popular book, The Trojan Boy, here retells the story of how the wandering Odysseus returned to his home in Ithaca. She retells it in a new way—from the point of view of three Ithacan children of Odysseus' time. The light-hearted story of the three children is interwoven with the darker thread of Odysseus' wanderings, and the book abounds in vivid pictures of scenes beloved by all young readers—Odysseus' adventures, the endless web of Penelope, the slaying of the suitors, and many others that are famed the world over.

TIM TOWSER. By Robert Joseph Diven, author of "Rowdy." 12mo, 250 pages. Illustrated by Charles Livingston Bull. $2.00

A delightful dog story, truer even than the popular Rowdy. The story is told by Tim Towser, the dog hero, and recounts his development in company with his best-loved animal pal—Johnny, a sturdy grizzly cub; his adventures shared with Johnny in defending each other against their many animal foes; and his successes in many cases where humans were helpless. Mr. Diven's long study of wilderness folk and Charles Livingston Bull's famous animal drawings give this tale an authenticity and a closeness to nature which it could not otherwise have had.

THE WINNING HAZARD. By Allen Chaffee, author of "Linda's El Dorado," "Tony and the Big Top," etc. 12mo, 220 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A thrilling story of a boy's adventures and experiences in a Puget Sound lumber camp. Bob Decker gets a job during his summer vacation as roustabout in a high-speed, "high-lead" machine-logging camp, where the mammoth Douglas firs are hoisted across canyons and above the tops of lesser trees on the cables of huge logging engines. Any boy can learn almost as much as Bob Decker did about the intricate and hazardous work of lumbering from reading this exciting story.

STORIES OF OUR NAVY: Retold from St. Nicholas. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.25

The newest addition to the famous series of stories from St. Nicholas, most popular of children's magazines. This is a very timely volume in view of the wide public interest now being taken in our navy. The collection includes naval stories of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the World War, in addition to several articles on various branches of Uncle Sam's fighting fleet.

SHORTY IN THE TANK CORPS. By E. W. Keever. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A rapid-fire story of two young men's adventures in the World War, first as volunteer ambulance drivers with the French army and later in the tank service with the Americans. This is a book of stirring action which brings back vividly the bravery, the hardships and the humor of those war days. The pictures of service at the front are both thrilling and accurate, for the author was himself in the tank corps and took part in the St. Mihiel and Argonne offensives. A book that boys will like.

TOMMY DANE OF SONORA. By A. Grove Day. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

Breathless adventures of two boys in the mountains and deserts of northwestern Mexico. In the course of the story they are entombed fifteen hundred feet underground in a huge copper mine, captured by a semi-cannibal tribe, and confronted with a mysterious payroll robbery. A Mexican circus serves as background for a gripping series of clashes, during the small hours of a desert Christmas Eve. The author himself spent many years in the strange places described in this story.

SALLY IN SOUTH AFRICA. By Gulielma Day Orr and Henriette Schiele. 12mo, 200 pages. Illustrated. $1.75

A story of a twelve-year old girl's travels in South Africa in company with her mother, taken from an actual trip by an actual American girl. The plot of this tale, involving a missing diamond of great value, is fictitious, but the details of travel and many of the adventures of the road are absolutely true. Here is an unusual type of children's book, combining in high degree the thrills of fiction with the zest of reading about real experiences of a real girl in a faraway land.

THE JOYOUS AZTECS. By J. G. Francis, author of "A Book of Cheerful Cats and Other Animated Animals." Oblong quarto. Illustrated. $1.50

Delightful and original humorous drawings and verses for children by the creator of the famous Cheerful Cats. The figures of Aztecs drawn by Mr. Francis are taken from actual fragments of Aztec carving. The pictures tell their own story, but are richly added to by the clever verses that accompany them. This is a book that will bring joyous laughter from any one from one year to a hundred.

THINGS ANY BOY CAN MAKE. By Joseph Leeming, author of "Peaks of Invention." 12mo, 225 pages. Illustrated. $2.00

A book of simple toys and other objects for younger boys to make at home. The directions are clear and simple, and many line drawings and diagrams add to their value. The materials called for are easily obtained and inexpensive. Among the objects described in this book are a spool whistle, a secret box, a moving-picture theatre, simple but puzzling tricks, etc. A boon on rainy days at home or in camp.

BOUND VOLUMES OF "ST. NICHOLAS." The twelve monthly numbers in two royal square quarto, richly bound cloth volumes. Profusely illustrated. One year $6.00; each volume $3.00

St. Nicholas has been a standard among young readers for more than fifty years. Short stories, serials, up-to-date articles on current events and world progress, and special departments of interest to readers from ten to eighteen make this the most popular of all juvenile magazines. These volumes make a classic children's library.

ANTHEMS OLD AND NEW. By Ian Alexander, author of "Star of Dawn." Paper. $2.50

A volume of eighteen old and modern works for use by church choirs and choral societies. These works include eight polyphonic numbers, five classical, five modern, and six responses.

Among the new works, never before published, are anthems by well-known contemporary composers suitable for festival or general use. Of particular interest is an anthem arrangement of a negro spiritual which was prepared by John W. Work of Fisk University.

BLOOD AND FIRE: GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH. By W. H. Nelson. Dedicated to and with a foreword by Commander Evangeline Booth. Cloth. $3.00

A stirring biography of the founder of the Salvation Army which carries with it the story of the inception and growth of this great humane organization. The author writes from an inside knowledge of the Army, for he served it for thirty years.

BLOOD AND FIRE will be ready for publication before October, 1929, at which time the Salvation Army in the United States will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of its illustrious founder, General William Booth.

EXPERIENCE WITH THE SUPERNATURAL IN EARLY CHRISTIAN TIMES. By Shirley Jackson Case, editor of "Studies in Early Christianity." $3.50

The Christians' Bible is rich in miracles. Supernaturalism runs like a scarlet thread through the whole book from Genesis to Revelation. For centuries this phenomenon was contemplated with entire satisfaction by both laity and clergy. But in modern times a different way of thinking has been gaining favor. One whose inclinations move in this direction may sometimes feel at a loss to account for the prominence of the miraculous in Hebrew religion, and more particularly in early Christianity. Why did the advocates of the new religion concern themselves so extensively with the imagery of supernaturalism? To answer this question is the purpose of the present volume.

OLD SONGS HYMNAL. Words and music from the State of Georgia. Collected by Dorothy G. Bolton. Music arranged by Harry T. Burleigh. Cloth. $1.50

A distinguished collection of negro spirituals set down by Mrs. Bolton as the colored people still sing them on her plantation in Georgia. They have lost none of their spontaneity and simplicity in the delightful settings arranged by Mr. Burleigh.

The following sectional headings are indicative of the mood and temper of the spirituals: Folk Songs in the Making; Narrative Songs; Songs of Admonition; Songs of Striving, Weariness and Aspiration; Songs of Conversion; Songs of the Devil and Hell; Songs of Death; Songs of Judgment, Resurrection and Reward.

DEMOCRACY. By Edward McChesney Sait, Ph.D., author of "American Parties and Elections," etc. 8vo, 112 pages. $1.25

Dr. Sait's interesting little volume is the first survey of the conflicting ideas about modern democracy which have been expressed by those who are in authority to speak. It offers the layman an intelligent approach to what has so far been written on the subject. This book should be read by all who take an active interest in politics and who earnestly desire to further the cause of good government.

HAVE WE KEPT THE FAITH? By C. A. Prosser, Ph.D., Director of the William Hood Dunwoody Industrial Institute, and Charles R. Allen, Sc.D., of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, author of "Vocational Education in a Democracy," etc. 8vo, 429 pages. $2.75

This is a stimulating discussion of a vitally important and urgent subject written in an animated and convincing manner. It reveals that education in the United States has drifted far off the course charted for it by the Founders; that the American public schools are cultivating an antiquated system of aristocratic education; and that, if we are to keep the faith, we must now revive the earlier concepts of the aims and functions of democratic education. A timely book-of-the-hour for Americans.

COMMUNITY RECREATION. By James Claude Elsom, M.D., Professor of Physical Education at the University of Wisconsin. The Social Workers' Library. 8vo, 250 pages. Illustrated. $2.25

Full and specific directions for guiding the recreation of communities and groups. This very complete and well-organized manual discusses the philosophy of recreation, explains the methods of organizing the community for recreational activities, reviews the history of such festivals as Thanksgiving Day, Hallowe'en, Christmas, New Year's, Arbor Day, etc., and describes in detail social activities for the different holidays and festivals, as well as for schoolrooms, camps, picnics, and the like. The descriptions of the games are supplemented by discussions of their particular benefits.

ENGLISH LITERATURE IN FACT AND STORY. By George F. Reynolds, Ph.D., Professor of English Literature in the University of Colorado; co-author with Garland Greever of "The Facts and Backgrounds of Literature," etc. 12mo, 505 pages. Profusely illustrated. $2.25

An unusually appealing and interesting review of the origins and history of English literature, written in an animated style, with many delightful anecdotes about writers, and with much information regarding events, traditions, and customs which influenced thought and helped to mould literary form. The book is profusely illustrated with an assortment of half-tones, silhouettes, drawings, and caricatures.

OUR REPUBLIC. Revised Edition. By S. E. Forman, author of "The American Democracy," "Advanced American History," "The Rise of American Commerce and Industry," etc. 8vo, 925 pages. With maps. $4.00

The continued demand for this interesting, one-volume account of United States history, first published seven years ago, has made necessary the preparation of this revised edition which brings the book up to date. Among the recent events of importance that are treated in the new edition are the oil scandals, the Boulder Dam legislation, the Hoover-Smith presidential campaign, and the Kellogg Anti-War pact. Our Republic is conceived in terms of the nation's growth and is so organized that the successive stages of its growth are graphically revealed. While the book neglects no important phase of political development, it is not a drum and trumpet history of wars and political intrigue, but rather an intensely human story of the advancement of American civilization.

CHELSEA HOUSE

FALL, 1929

79 SEVENTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

(Printed in the U. S. A.)

CHELSEA HOUSE NEW COPYRIGHTS

The books listed in these pages sell at 75 cents each. They are all new, copyrighted stories that have never before appeared in book form, comprising fiction of the most popular type—Western, detective, mystery, adventure, and love stories.

The books are well bound and printed from large, clear type, on good paper. In appearance they are the equal of most books put out by other publishers to sell at $2.00.

ORDER BY NUMBER

(1) UNSEEN ACRES
By Harry Golden

The man who shot an inoffensive ranchman, held up a stagecoach, and did other sundry lawless acts, started Jack Smith on a course of vengeance.

Harry Golden, author of "Unseen Acres," rests after a good hunt.

(2) THE HOUSE OF ROGUES
By Christopher B. Booth.

This is the sort of detective story that thrills everybody. It is really a splendid piece of writing, and so plausible that the interest and glamour of it do not wear off for days after the book has been finished.

(3) JERRY PEYTON'S NOTCHED INHERITANCE
By David Manning

Just because Jerry Peyton's father had been a bandit, certain people in a Western community proceeded to visit the sins of the father upon the son. But, through an act of grave injustice, it was proved that Jerry was a better man than his father.

(4) THE BRAND OF SILENCE
By Harrington Strong

Sidney Prale left New York for Honduras with plenty of friends. He returned with only a single friend upon whom he could depend.

(5) JOHN STANDON OF TEXAS
By Johnston McCulley

As an adventure story, this is unique. Most of its scenes are laid in the southwestern United States and Mexico. There is some lively fighting, and Standon gives a splendid demonstration of American courage.

(6) GEMS OF PROMISE
By Emart Kinsburn

Just over the border in Mexico, a bleached skeleton lay resting beside an ancient firearm. The weapon was inscribed "Gabriel Gamez, A. D. 1812." And it led Morgan Tuttle, saddle tramp, through a series of enthralling adventures.

(7) THE BLACK STAR
By Johnston McCulley

This is the story in which Johnston McCulley's famous character, Black Star, was first introduced to the reading public. Here, too, will be found Roger Verbeck and his man, Muggs, who were out to capture Black Star.

(8) THE MAN FROM MICHIGAN
By Charles Wesley Sanders

Jim Wallace, born and raised in Michigan, hears of a gold mine in California, rich beyond the wildest dreams, and starts out in search of it.

---

(9) BLACK STAR'S CAMPAIGN
By Johnston McCulley

Black Star, master criminal, who conducts a campaign of organized loot in this story, is a dominating figure. And against this supercrook are pitted the mental resources of Roger Verbeck.

(10) BULL HUNTER
By David Manning

Bull Hunter is big, clumsy, slow-witted, and a butt for the rude pranks and ridicule of his comrades. But he only needed to be shown how to use his tremendous strength to advantage.

(11) BULL HUNTER'S ROMANCE
Sequel to "Bull Hunter"
By David Manning

This is another series of Bull Hunter's exploits. It deals with Bull, his horse, and his dog; and the trio have a number of stirring adventures.

(12) HILL-BRED BARTON'S CODE
By Charles Wesley Sanders

Billy Barton had a grievance and determined to return injustice, measure for measure. Of course, he did not get very far along this road before he discovered that it was a hard one to travel.

(13) THE SPECTACULAR KID
By Robert J. Horton

Heralded by rumor as a killer, "The Spectacular Kid" came to the Smith River country. He was a queer character, with an almost effeminate love of silver ornaments, reënforced by a surprising amount of bravery and manliness.

(14) WHO KILLED WILLIAM DREW?
By Harrington Strong

John Walkins Wright gave his niece a diamond collar. It disappeared mysteriously, and to make matters worse, old William Drew, the butler, the only person who might possibly tell where it went, was found dead.

(15) JIM CURRY'S TEST
By David Manning

This is primarily a tale of Western adventure, but in some respects it is the story of a horse. Meg was a splendid, white mare, and she flits in and out of the pages of the story, much to the reader's edification.

(16) THE TRACKING OF K. K.
By Douglas Grey

The detective in this story is Thorndyke Flint. He is confronted by the mystery of a dead Japanese curio dealer, and the disappearance of a very rare piece of Chinese bronze of great antiquity.

(17) KING CHARLIE'S RIDERS
By David Manning

King Charlie ruled a very unusual kingdom, and his subjects were extraordinary and nondescript. They certainly were not as good as they might have been, but they set things in motion, and this story is the result.

(18) UNWELCOME SETTLERS
By James Roberts

Obeying Greeley's injunction, "Go West, young man, go West," Neil Sterret first secures a wife and afterward gives evidence of strength of character that surprises everybody, even himself.

(19) WHISPERING CAÑON
By James Roberts

Whispering Cañon is a fascinating spot. This story peoples it with some very likable folks, and some who are not quite so attractive; "Red" Saunders, for instance.

"Uncle Matt" Simms and Rance Rundel are two of the good characters, and their adventures make this story really worth while.

(20) SQUATTERS AT DABCHICK LAKE
By Emart Kinsburn

Tom Trentacosta, otherwise "Thirty Ribs," was a thorough tramp and proud of it. Moreover, he was a celebrity of trampdom—a king of the road. But when he threw in his fortunes with "Neckyoke" Talley, and his daughter, Grace, to homestead at Dabchick Lake, it was the beginning of a new life for Thirty Ribs.

(21) THE BOSS OF CAMP FOUR
By Emart Kinsburn

They sold "Spookmule" Paxton twenty thousand acres of land, and before the ink was dry on the deed they were doing their best to get it back.

Why? And who are "they"?

(22) WATCHED OUT
By Eugene A. Clancy

This is a tale in which Wall Street figures. Given some crooked work on the part of some crooked people, the author makes the most of his opportunity, until in the end the reader is perfectly satisfied that John Gore, although he won happiness and fortune, deserved them.

(23) QUALITY BILL'S GIRL
By Charles W. Tyler

"Blue Jean Billy" Race is an unusual character, a girl whose obsession is the memory of an injustice visited upon her father, "Old Quality Bill." Blue Jean is a seagoing bandit, and it does not make any difference to her whether she goes on board a boat or swims.

(24) THE COYOTE
By James Roberts

When a man is forced to flee into the Arizona desert, with a price upon his head; when he is regarded as the possessor of a very sinister reputation, then either he has played life a scurvy trick, or he has not been used fairly. But Roger Rathburn went into the desert country as an outlaw and a gunman.

(25) THE SCARLET SCOURGE
By Johnston McCulley

Sergeant Sam Haynes decided that the way to tackle a hard job is to work hard at it. So, when Lorenzo Brayton, investment swindler, was found dead in his office, Sam got to work.

(26) ANNE AGAINST THE WORLD
By Victor Thorne

Anne, a shy little home girl, is the heroine of a romantic love story. She was driven out into the world by her desire to help her talented brother, and was led into grave danger.

(27) ROVIN' REDDEN
By James Roberts

When Joel Landon robbed a bank, he naturally resented Lem Redden's interference, but the latter fixed things so that he himself went to jail in Joel's place.

After matters were explained to Sheriff Blackburn, there didn't seem to be any way of getting Lem out except to let him break jail, and that led to more trouble.

(28) GOLDEN ISLE
By Roland Ashford Phillips

Concealing jail breakers is not a healthy occupation. In the case of the escape of Rex Costello from Sing Sing, however, Lloyd Bucknell found that it was to his advantage to hide the prisoner and afterward take him on a treasure hunt.

(29) THE KIDNAPING SYNDICATE
By Christopher B. Booth

The friendship formed in the prison cell by Pallister, the forger, and "Twisty," the yegg, led to the inception of "The Kidnaping Syndicate." After they were released, the pair embarked on one of the most astounding criminal enterprises ever conceived by warped human minds; but there came the inevitable day of reckoning.

(30) THE HUSKS OF LIFE
By Mary Douglas

Jennie Riley was forced to flee from the unpleasant attentions of the foreman of the factory in which she worked. Wandering on the streets, she picked up an envelope addressed to an artist in Greenwich Village. She took it to the address, and then life began for her.

(31) THE GOLDEN BOWL
By Harrison Conrard

Gold, plenty of it, appears in this story of Arizona. "Black Mike's" father and some friends had just discovered a bonanza spot so rich as to look like the treasure box of Croesus. Notwithstanding this, Mike chose a precarious vocation which was made even more so by the inexorable natural laws of the desert.

(32) WHOSE MILLIONS?
By Joseph Montague

Wanted: An heir to an English estate worth twenty million dollars.

Jim Woolworth, the man delegated to find the missing heir, is beset by all sorts of cranks, and finally by a gang of crooks.

(33) THE SPIDER'S DEN
By Johnston McCulley

"The Spider" was a crook, a master criminal, crippled in body and hideous in appearance. He recruited most of his gang from the ranks of respectable young men who were temporarily in financial difficulty. John Warwick happened to be one of these, and he had some exciting adventures as a member of The Spider's organization.

(34) HER DESERT LOVER
By Louisa Carter Lee

When Philip Lane opened his dining-room window to admit Beatrice Hale, Fate stalked in at her side. And all through the evil hours, the heartbreaking disappointments which followed, Fate still stood at Philip's shoulder, exercising an influence over him that could not be denied.

(35) OBJECT: ADVENTURE
By Ray Courtney

Kent McGregor wanted a job on a Western ranch, so he advertised in the newspapers. "Object: Adventure," his message ran.

As a result, he was hired by one O. B. Davis, but when he went out to meet his new employer at the Bar Diamond Ranch, O. B. Davis proved to be a very attractive girl.

(36) THE CRATER OF KALA
By Joseph Montague

Here is a vivid story of the South Seas. Professor Lang and his daughter, Dorcas, charter the Ahimanu for a journey of exploration. And Jim Waring has a mighty tough job in protecting the professor and his daughter from "Red" Johnson, the buckaroo skipper.

(37) THE DEMON
By Johnston McCulley

"Big Charlie" Snokes, gang leader, killed Alderman Redson, political boss.

Both men had been interested in the same girl, which is only one of many reasons why things began to happen with startling swiftness.

(38) THE WOMAN IN MAUVE
By Georgette MacMillan

Ronald Franklin was what the world calls a confirmed bachelor. Then, one night, he met the one woman—but she vanished almost as suddenly as she had appeared.

He found her again in a new rôle—as the notorious "Woman in Mauve," and his devotion was severely tested.

(39) THE CACTUS KID
By James Roberts

He hailed from Texas. They did not know his name; he would not tell them. So they called him "The Cactus Kid." He could play any known tune with a six-gun, and was suspected of being an outlaw. Much to the surprise of every one, he put himself on the side of law and order.

(40) AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY HOURS
By William Wallace Cook

David Whitley, of Detroit, agreed to pilot an airplane around the world within a week. John Morning, the manufacturer of the plane, agreed to pay him $100,000, if he did so.

(41) A SEASIDE MYSTERY
By Christopher B. Booth

The loss of Mrs. Hendershott's hand bag at the country club was the signal for a train of exciting events which followed so closely together that Jim Bliss, a New York detective, certainly had his hands full.

(42) A GIRL AGAINST ODDS
By Marcia Montaigne

Katherine Waite, walking along a country road, discovered an unconscious man. She had never seen him before, but she had him taken to her home and treated by a physician. Of course, this is a good start for a love story.

Steve Brent on the trail. From "The Cavalier of Rabbit Butte," by James Roberts.

(43) THE CAVALIER OF RABBIT BUTTE
By James Roberts

Every one will be interested in Steve Brent, who, although he admits that any one could write all he knows on the white spaces on the ten of clubs, nevertheless enjoys unusual gifts of mind and body.

(44) FOOLS OF TREASURE
By W. E. Schutt

An inverted, homemade American flag, a tiny island off the African coast, a vast treasure, a most interesting girl, a satisfactory male character—these are the ingredients of this story, bound together by the strongest bonds of adventure, assailed by enemies and the elements, but emerging triumphant at the end.

(45) THE EYEWITNESS
By John Paul Seabrooke

Lawyer Colby went to visit his wealthy client, Lloyd Latshaw. He was met with a most astonishing request on Latshaw's part, that a codicil be added to his will, disinheriting his young wife under certain circumstances.

(46) HER WEDDING RING
By Marcia Montaigne

When Tom Storms, a young musician, met Rose Ellison, youth called to youth, but there were obstacles. With the proverbial impetuosity of youth, they sought to override these obstacles, instead of trying to find a way around them.

(47) TUMBLEBUG RANCH
By Emart Kinsburn

This story reveals a little-known phase of the West—the life of the construction camps that build the railroads across the great stretches of the Southwestern desert regions.

"Prince Pliny" Bates, his father, "Bellowing" Bates, the contractor, Nancy Ransom, and other characters in the story will make a lasting impression on the reader's memory.

(48) WHERE THE TRAIL DIVIDES
By Roland Ashford Phillips

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police story. Certain disturbances lead Inspector McCloud into the hands of "Blondy" Morgan and his gang.

The adventures which he and his companion, Sergeant Fraser, have, are exciting and interesting, to a degree sufficient to satisfy the most exacting demand in that respect.

(49) FOUR KNOCKS ON THE DOOR
By John Paul Seabrooke

A series of murders baffles the police and engages the attention of the famous private detective, Norman Clyde. All the victims of the unknown assassins, it develops, were born on the same day, November 16th.

(50) THE MAN WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY
By Victor Thorne

In a fit of jealous anger, John Grant accused his sweetheart, Nancy Leigh, of accepting the attentions of his rival. Too proud to deny the charge, Nancy let him drift away from her.

(51) THE BLACK SIGNAL
By David Manning

There was something a little unnatural in the daring of Lew Melody, something frightful in his hunger for danger. But when he met Mary Furnival, known as "Sandy," throughout that rugged section of the mountain-desert country, a great change was wrought in him.

(52) FRASER'S FOLLY
By W. E. Schutt

For eleven years the two exiles, Fraser and the man who called himself Philip Nolan, wandered up and down the western watershed of the Andes. Then they found a gold-bearing quartz ledge that proved a magnet for a sorry crew of scoundrels.

(53) SHADOW HALL
By John Paul Seabrooke

When Rachel Mallory went to Shadow Hall, she did so with a premonition of evil, and it was not long before her nameless dread was turned into reality. A story with a finely sustained atmosphere of uncanny mystery.

(54) THE LOVE BRIDGE
By Mary Imlay Taylor

To Duncan Hart, the engineer, his bridge across the mighty canyon was a dream. He had grown to love it. He wanted his sweetheart, Alice Rankin, to be the first woman to cross it; but another girl, a daughter of the wilderness, risked her life to be the first of her sex to go over its span.

(55) THE LUCK OF BLIND GULCH
By Joseph Montague

The letter was written on coarse paper and transgressed all the laws of grammatical correspondence, but it brought visions of untold wealth to Jefferson Briggs, on his run-down Missouri farm.

(56) OTHER FOLKS' MONEY
By W. B. M. Ferguson

When Wayne Carrington found a wallet containing several hundred dollars, it seemed like a godsend. Not only for poor, frightened Quigley, the bank cashier who had "borrowed" from the bank and begged for help, but for himself it would mean everything. Should he keep it? That was the question that tempted Carrington.

(57) BLACK STAR'S RETURN
By Johnston McCulley

Never has there been a more popular picturesque character than Black Star. Suave rogue and master villain that he is, his exploits have a sardonic humor and a compelling fascination, so that one never tires of reading about them.

(58) THE GOLDEN TEMPTATION
By Victor Thorne

People referred to Clayton Carr as a "master of men." Success had come to him in everything—except love. The story of his beginning life all over again and winning his way to true love and happiness makes an unusually fine romance.

(59) BLACKIE AND RED
By David Manning

Two boys ran away from an orphan asylum, and Andy Connell, the old prospector, gave them shelter. They hated each other and fought time and time again; yet they always stuck together.

(60) SOUTH OF FIFTY-THREE
By Jack Bechdolt

Jonathan Hayes was in many respects a primitive man. He knew little or nothing of the ways of civilization, for he had lived all his life on the bleak shores of Kalvik Island, off the coast of Alaska. When it became known that Hayes held the secret of an immensely valuable cache of sealskins, he became the object of more than one conspiracy.

(61) THE WOMAN IN 919
By John Paul Seabrooke

At the Winsonia Hotel, where she occupied room 919, she was known as Mrs. Harlowe Green. She had married a weak-minded young scion of wealth, whose family was endeavoring to buy her off. She had other enemies, too, and one night her career of trickery and intrigue was terminated in a tragic manner.

(62) MR. CLACKWORTHY
By Christopher B. Booth

A book full of laughs and surprises, which incidentally furnishes an illuminating revelation of the confidence game as played by an expert con man, and which may prove a means of warning to the unwary who are likely to fall for some of the Mr. Clackworthys of real life.

(63) THE WAGON BOSS
By Emart Kinsburn

Here we again meet Chet Fanning, whose adventures proved so entertaining in Mr. Kinsburn's other book, "The Boss of Camp Four." Few, if any, other writers know the life of the construction camps of the West better than Emart Kinsburn.

(64) BACK OF BEYOND
By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

Against the advice of Sergeant Alfred Rawson, of the Mounted Police, Doctor Kirkland and his daughter, Louise, pushed on to Back of Beyond Valley, although winter was close at hand. Soon the Yukon country was in the grip of the blizzard, and then a call for help came to Rawson from the remote northern valley.

(65) MR. CHANG OF SCOTLAND YARD
By A. E. Apple

Of the many striking criminal characters in the pages of detective fiction, few are more fascinating, more enthralling, than the smooth, debonair Chinaman, Mr. Chang. While the reader will shudder at Mr. Chang's deeds, he will be amazed by the quick turns and surprises with which the story is filled.

(66) WANDA OF THE WHITE SAGE
By Roy Ulrich

The first surprise was when the girl called at Mrs. Richmond's dingy boarding house and asked to see Dan Chadwick. The second surprise came when she offered Dan a job that carried with it a retaining fee of twenty-five thousand dollars. But the third and greatest surprise came when she announced that one of the conditions of the bargain was that he must marry her.

(67) GOOD HATERS
By George Gilbert

When her father died, Irene Carson determined to run his ranch, the Bar Z Bar, by herself. There were lots of good cowmen round about who would have been glad to share her lot, but Irene would have none of them. Finally she hired Anse Rodmere, who was about as much of a woman-hater as she was a man-hater.

(68) TOUCHING CLOUD
By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

This story is laid in one of the wildest and most magnificent wilderness regions of the West—the Ute Indian country. Touching Cloud is the son of a Ute chief, and at the outset he is plunged into grave danger of the law on account of suspicious circumstances in which he is placed.

(69) $10,000 REWARD
By Christopher B. Booth

When Jim Travis came to Overlook Manor he found many things which did not please him. Events crowded one another rapidly in the days that followed, and it was not long before they reached their climax in a most peculiar crime.

(70) THE WIFE OF ASA PINCHEON
By Anne O'Hagan

Marjorie McDermot married Asa Pincheon because she had fallen in love with him practically at first sight. Then she proceeded to learn the unfortunate truth that you never know a man until you are married to him.

(71) THE BRUTE
By David Manning

He came out of the wilderness, a man of splendid physique, capable of conquering the world and winning a fortune for himself. But civilization got its grip on him, and he drifted into a life of drunkenness and crime. He became The Brute—a creature to be hated and dreaded, until Crusader, the magnificent stallion, came into his life.

(72) RED MOUNTAIN, LIMITED
By Eugene A. Clancy

This is the narrative of the adventures of Eddie Burke, a nimble-witted youth with a sense of humor and a philosophy which taught him to make lots of money and get plenty of fun out of life. When a gentleman from the West came to shoot Eddie's business partner, John J. Rodman, young Mr. Burke saw a chance to gratify his liking for both money and amusement.

(73) THE WIZARD'S SPYGLASS
By Emart Kinsburn

Assuming a dead man's identity seemed an excellent way for Kern Lambert to cover his own tracks; but his impersonation of the suicide, Judson Cross, led him into the turmoil of criminal intrigue which Cross had killed himself to avoid.

(74) QUICKSANDS
By Victor Thorne

The girl, a startling beauty, brought up in poverty, was starved for the luxuries which money and money alone could bring. Her chance came when her seamstress mother died, leaving her five thousand dollars, insurance money.

(75) THE FIGHTING WADES
By John H. Hamlin

The Spur Tracks Ranch was run by the Widow Wade—a lonely, grim old woman, who had never recovered from the shock of her son's marriage to a gay butterfly of a girl twenty years previously. When the child of that marriage, her granddaughter, Fanchon, came to Spur Tracks for a visit, the reception prepared for her was calculated to overawe the girl. The events that followed made a decidedly novel Western yarn.

John H. Hamlin, author of "The Fighting Wades," poses for his picture just after a deer hunt in the Lava Beds of Modoc County, California.

(76) RONICKY DOONE
By David Manning

In and around the town of Stillwater, in the mountain-desert country of the West, Ronicky Doone made his living as a gambler. He had something of a reputation, too, as a champion of lost causes. One of his strangest adventures was that which took him East to New York, in company with Bill Gregg, a chance acquaintance of the trail.

(77) BLUE JEAN BILLY
By Charles W. Tyler

In "Quality Bill's Girl," Mr. Tyler told how Blue Jean Billy, a wild, free, glorious creature of the sea, was won away from her life of outlawry by her love for Robert Wood, the detective. In this story, a sequel to "Quality Bill's Girl," something happens to put the iron of bitterness into the girl's heart against the law and its representatives, and she resumes her rôle of highwaywoman of the sea.

Charles W. Tyler, author of "Quality Bill's Girl" and "Blue Jean Billy."

(78) RIM O' THE RANGE
By Ethel Smith Dorrance and James French Dorrance

Even though the Arizomex Ranch was regarded as a well-nigh worthless property, scarcely affording sufficient feed for its cattle, it figured in a pretty crafty conspiracy engineered by old H. C. Livermore, president of the Lariat National Bank of Mesquite Wells.

(79) WILD BILL
By Joseph Montague

Of the many brave pioneers who figured in the winning of the West, probably none stands out more splendidly and in more noble and heroic proportions than the man who was known as "Wild Bill" Hickok.

In this story, the author reveals Wild Bill as the fine, courageous, thoroughly likable human character that he was.

(80) THE GLACIER GATE
By Frank Lillie Pollock

When Doctor Rupert Lang was summoned on board a yacht lying in Mobile Bay to attend a sick man, he thought he was merely going on an ordinary errand of mercy. As a matter of fact, he was being made the tool of a crew of scoundrels seeking to wrest the secret of the Glacier Gate and its priceless store of emeralds from Morrison, the explorer, whom they had in their power.

(81) THE AMATEUR DETECTIVES
By Christopher B. Booth

When Tom Cotton was mysteriously murdered, it gave Andy Wicks and his sweetheart, Tess Kennedy, their long-awaited chance to test their ability as detectives. An unusual detective story which shows what a couple of keen-witted young people can accomplish in a line of investigation that is supposed to be the exclusive province of highly trained experts.

(82) MARCIA
By Anne O'Hagan

Disillusionment came to Marcia Bostwick very shortly after her marriage to Doctor Loring Bristow, and it was not long before the inevitable "other woman" began to figure in the proceedings. How she worked out her problems forms the basis of an absorbing romance of married life.

(83) COWGIRLS—PLUS
By George Gilbert

When her father died, leaving his ranch to her stepmother, Prima Jensen decided to ride for a job. Prima was a crackajack cowgirl; she could ride herd, brand, break horses, and swing a lariat with the best cow hand.

Gordon MacCreagh, traveler, adventurer, explorer, has put some of the vivid experiences he has lived into his fiction. He is the author of "The Inca's Ransom" and "Poisonous Mist."

(84) THE INCA'S RANSOM
By Gordon MacCreagh

Down through the centuries, ever since the first coming of the white men, the fabled gold mines of the Incas of Peru have been the objective of covetous adventurers. Mamu, the ancient seer of the Incas, protected the gold from the marauding Spaniards, and in modern times his descendant, also known as Mamu, kept faithful watch over the treasure.

(85) THE CRIMSON BLADE
By Madeleine Sharps Buchanan

The job of ticket seller in the New Palace Theater proved a big temptation to young Milton Barnes, but he resisted it successfully until his friend, Maizie Montour, suggested a scheme whereby he could safely annex a good slice of his employer's money. In getting away with his loot, however, Barnes found himself involved in a darker, more gruesome crime.

(86) THE AWAKENING OF ROMOLA

By Anne O'Hagan

(87) RONICKY DOONE'S TREASURE

By David Manning

Adventure never stayed long away from Ronicky Doone. He was a born soldier of fortune and champion of lost causes. When, therefore, he saved Hugh Dawn from being killed by a band of outlaws, he started on a new trail that led him on a treasure hunt in company with Dawn and his daughter Geraldine, better known as "Jerry."

(88) FAST MONEY

By Eugene A. Clancy

Jim Coulter and Wall Street did not mix. Before the Exchange opened that day, he had been worth three hundred thousand dollars. At four o'clock the same afternoon, his money was gone. Eventually he evened the score with the crooked speculators who had cleaned him out, and the manner of his doing it makes an entertaining and ingenious tale.

(89) THE GREEN BAG

By John Paul Seabrooke

The mysterious murder of Mrs. Sarah Copping, known as the meanest person in Crown Point, aroused little sympathy for the victim, but it gave a lot of trouble to District Attorney Jack Hall and his friend, Luke Osgood, who tried to get at the bottom of the affair.

(90) LENNISTER OF BLUE DOME

By James Roberts

No one had ever heard a first name applied to him. He was just Lennister. There were many wild rumors concerning his past, but now he was hired to put an end to the rustling activities of Bolt Blodgett and his gang of rustlers on Blue Dome range, and this proved one of the most perilous adventures of his career.

(91) TWO-GUN GERTA

By C. C. Waddell and Carroll John Daly

A rollicking Western yarn, dealing with the adventures of "Red" Conners, who has been doing cowboy stuff in the movies and decides to take a vacation trip across the Mexican border. He is hired by Miss Gerta O'Beirne, otherwise known as "Two-gun Gerta," to manage her property, the Voreza Ranch.

Frank Lillie Pollock, author of "The Glacier Gate," "Rainbow Landing," and "Mirador Treasure."

(92) RAINBOW LANDING

By Frank Lillie Pollock

It was a grim chase that led Lockwood to Alabama's pine woods to work in a turpentine camp. But when he found his man he also found some one else who made him desire something better than to kill. There is a relentless grip to this story from beginning to end.

(93) THE PHANTOM ALIBI

By Henry Leverage

The crime was already solved when Sidney Marway, special investigator, was called in on the case. The evidence against Andrew Knight, brother of the murdered man, was overwhelming, and he was under sentence of death when Marway went out to the little Pennsylvania town where the crime was committed. A dramatic mystery story by the author of "Whispering Wires."

(94) MARK TURNS WEST
By Mary Imlay Taylor

When Mark Brent returned to his home in the West after an absence of several years, his chief possession was a pouch of diamonds, which he had acquired in the course of his wanderings. These stones had brought trouble in their wake before, and they continued to exert a sinister influence on Mark's fortunes.

(95) ON THE TRAIL OF FOUR
By David Manning

Himself an outlaw, with a price of fifteen thousand dollars on his head, Hugo Ames set out from his hole-in-the-wall country of the Western mountain wilderness to ride on the trail of the men who had killed his friend, Truck Janvers. And what a series of perilous adventures he encountered in his search for the slayers of the old prospector!

(96) STRAIGHT CROOKS
By Howard Fielding

A curious experiment in criminal reclamation was the quasidetective bureau started by the famous criminologist, Woodburn Newcomb, under the name of the Practical Scientific Reform Association. In charge of this organization were three notorious and picturesque criminals, ostensibly "going straight."

(97) POISONOUS MIST
By Gordon MacCreagh

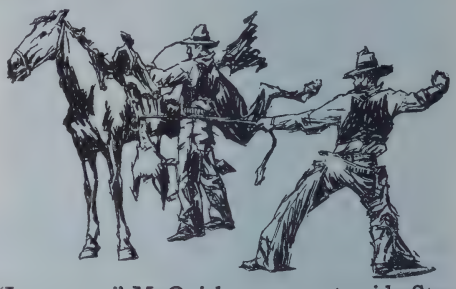
Out of the rubber jungles of the Amazon, strange rumors of natives who traded quills of gold for merchandise reached Bill Blair, as he loitered in Manaos. To Blair, it was the call of adventure, and he lost no time in organizing an expedition to go to the source of the treasure.

(98) THE LOOTED BONANZA
By E. Whitman Chambers

The boom days had passed in that part of the rugged Sierra country. Formerly, gold-mad miners had wrested millions in treasure from the heart of the mountains. Now the region was given over to the sheepmen. But there was one man who had faith in his mining property, known as Crimson Castle, and he stuck to it determinedly.

(99) JUST BUCKAROOS
By Robert Ormond Case

If you want to meet real cowboys, taken directly from life, you will find them in the two leading characters of this book —"Lonesome" McQuirk and "Windy" de Long. They're plain, everyday hombres of the Oregon ranges, middle-aged, hard-bitten, shy of women, skilled in the handling of cards and six-guns, thoroughly loyal and courageous.



"Lonesome" McQuirk prepares to ride Starchaser. From "Just Buckaroos," by Robert Ormond Case.

(100) THE PURPLE LIMITED
By Henry Leverage

It was one of the most remarkable railroad robberies that criminal ingenuity had ever conceived. To hold up a train, rifling the express or mail car and relieving passengers of their valuables, is a simple matter, but in this case a gang of thieves had made away with the whole train, the Purple Limited, one of the crack flyers of the C. M. & Western!

(101) MASQUERADE
By William Morton

Being held up by masked robbers is always an exciting experience, and Anne Carfax was properly thrilled when the adventure befell her while she was driving her car along a lonely stretch of country road. But the excitement did not end there. Within a few minutes, Anne learned that her rescuer was none other than "Gentleman Joe," alias "Smiler" Carey, the escaped convict for whom the whole countryside was searching.

(102) SPANISH NUGGETS
By Emart Kinsburn

It was the diary of a tramp known as "Kokomo, the Crow," otherwise Miguel Vincente, that caused young Tupelo Troy to give up the easy life of a gentleman of leisure in Los Angeles, and set out on a quest for buried treasure in the big-timber country of northern California.

(103) THE MOUNTAIN FUGITIVE
By David Manning

Mischief-maker, town bully, overgrown idler, such was Leon Porfilo as a boy. In the hope of mending his ways, his mother placed him under the tutelage of Father McGuire, the parish priest of the little desert town of Mendez, and though that good man taught him a lot and reformed his waywardness to a great extent, Leon's natural propensity for getting into trouble soon asserted itself, and it was not long before he was a fugitive in the mountains.

(104) THE TELLTALE PRINT
By Christopher B. Booth

The penalty that old men must pay for having young wives was not long in coming to Hopkinson Perrin, following his marriage to lovely Myra Fleming. Jealousy and suspicion haunted his mind with their agonizing terrors. It was not long before this strained situation reached a tragic outcome, and the events that followed furnished a mystery that was, on the face of it, unsolvable.

(105) FLUID OF THE SUN
By Clair Lombard

It was a mighty dream of water-power development that brought the young engineer, Gail Halleck, to the big-timber country of Whitewater Valley, where François Gascoigne reigned as lumber king. When Halleck reached his destination, and proceeded to put the plans of his company into execution, he found that the ousting of the old lumberman would not be an easy task.

(106) SILVER SPURS
By Joseph Montague

To "Dixie" Tyler, the silver spurs that he always wore served as a symbol of the urge that made a rover of him, looking always for what lay beyond the mountains. And so, when he rode into Robador Cañon and fell in with a trio of scoundrels, he was right in his element when they tried to start something with him, and he easily showed himself their master with the six-gun.

(107) THE HOUSE OF CARSON
By Arthur Mallory

When he set out to spend a few weeks as the guest of the Carsons at their home on Chautauqua Lake, Arthur Ward thought that he would have a quiet, uneventful time; but that was where he was mistaken. Even as he was being driven from the railway station on the evening of his arrival, he got an inkling of the devastating fear, the terrible sense of disaster that haunted his host, George Carson.

(108) BANDIT'S HONOR
By David Manning

More of the adventurous career of Leon Porfilo is related in the pages of this stirring volume. In "The Mountain Fugitive," the curious chain of circumstances by which Leon was driven into the mountains, a fugitive from justice, was revealed. In "Bandit's Honor" the author relates how Leon fought his way back to an honorable position in the world.

(109) HONEY OF DANGER
By Frank Lillie Pollock

A fugitive in the forest wilderness of northern Ontario, Delaine, the chemist and artist, thought he had found a safe haven from the sleuth hounds of the law on an isolated bee ranch. As it happened, however, there was fresh trouble brewing at this place, and it was of more serious nature than that which he had fled to escape.

(110) HAWKS OF HAZARD
By Joseph Montague

Yielding to the irresistible call of adventure, Vance Loudon embarked at Samoa as a passenger for a cruise on the trading schooner Manawa. The fare took half his worldly capital, but the voyage was rich with the promise of strange scenes among the remote Madgeburg group of islands, in the Pacific, and Loudon could not withstand the temptation.

(111) THE AVENGING TWINS
By Johnston McCulley

Their uncle had been ruined by a powerful group of business men. From a legal point of view, these influential rascals had done nothing wrong. The law could not be invoked to punish them for the suffering and misery they had caused; and yet they had taken advantage of the elder Selbon. The twin nephews of the ruined man, Peter and Paul Selbon, determined to right their uncle's wrong.

Johnston McCulley, author of "The Black Star," "The Scarlet Scourge," "The Avenging Twins," et cetera. From a portrait sketch by Maurine McCulley.

(112) ARIZONA GOLD
By E. Whitman Chambers

Down in the little desert town of Aztec, Arizona, old John Sanderson had a hard fight on his hands to carry on his gold-dredging operations in opposition to the powerful North Star mining interests.

But Harding was a fighting man who didn't know the meaning of the word "quit," and he stuck to the finish.

(113) THE EDGED TOOL
By William Morton

Never was there a more tangled web of mendacity spun than that into which John Fraser was lured, when he went to work under the direction of his cousin, Alan Hooker, at The Towers, and it was no deep-laid design of his own that turned him from an unwitting accomplice into an "edged tool" in the hands of a clever scoundrel.

(114) THE CARVED TRAIL
By Emart Kinsburn

A cheap, cloth-covered suit case, offered for sale at an express company's auction in San Francisco—and Christopher Horn's last thirty-five cents! (166) HIDDEN HERDS
By George Gilbert

Before he was adopted by "Slender" Burton and the other hands of the Box 9 Ranch, Lew Osmond was a greenhorn. In Mr. Gilbert's other book, "The Quick-draw Kid," Lew's earlier exploits are related. This volume tells of his later feats in recovering a lost herd of cattle that had fallen into a walled-in valley in a remote corner of the canyon country.

(167) THE GREAT RADIO MYSTERY
By Chester K. Steele

What would you do if you received a note from an unknown writer, demanding thirty thousand dollars by a certain date and threatening you with death if you did not produce the money? Probably you'd ask your best friend's advice, and when you found he had a similar note, you would feel that there was a pretty well-laid plot of murder and extortion on foot. This was the kind of mystery that Detective Tom Danford was called upon to solve.

(168) THE OUTLAW SHERIFF
By Hal Dunning

Jack Allen, the sheriff, had a brother, known as Jim-twin Allen, also as the White Wolf. Branded as an outlaw, with a big price on his head, the little freckled gunman, with his two lean gray horses, was a picturesque figure who made himself feared and respected wherever he appeared.

Hal Dunning, author of "The Outlaw Sheriff."

(169) THE CALL OF SHINING STEEL
By Don Waters

There is a lure and glamour about the call of the shining steel rails that grips some men just as strongly as the will to succeed in business, law, medicine, or any other occupation or profession. Zeb White was a born railroader, and this story tells of the obstacles he overcame in winning success in his chosen calling.

(170) VINCENTE, THE YAQUI
By Wilson Campbell

He rode across the desert, a magnificent bronzed specimen of Indian manhood, clad in faded blue dungarees, his only weapon a knife in his braided-leather belt. As he rode through the Palo Verde Valley his horse was shot from under him, and he was accused of stealing horses from the Z B Ranch. When Alf Chase, son of the owner of Z B, intervened, a splendid friendship began that carried the two through many strange adventures.

(171) I DID IT!
By Garret Smith

Receiving a legacy of four hundred thousand dollars when you are just about broke from bucking the real-estate game is quite pleasant, but when the money comes to you as the result of the murder of an uncle whom you supposed to be poor, and you are accused of the crime, such a legacy has its drawbacks.

(172) PRAIRIE SHOCK
By John Holden

A woman trying to run a construction camp has a hard job on her hands, and a tenderfoot bookkeeper is not always very much help, especially when there is the accusation of a crime hanging over his head.

(173) THE GUILTY ACCUSER
By Armstrong Livingston

The coroner's jury found that Richard Gray had shot himself in a moment of temporary insanity, but his sister, Jean, was unwilling to accept a jury's verdict. She therefore prevailed on friends to investigate further, and Peter Creighton, the famous New York detective who has figured in several of Mr. Livingston's previous books, was put on the case.

(174) DOOM CANYON
By Joseph Montague

"Dark as a dead man's tomb" is "Doom Canyon," the inaccessible hiding place where "Lobo" Smith and his gang of desperadoes made their headquarters.

To fight single-handed against this outlaw band was a task to daunt the finest courage, but a stranger known as Strong did not hesitate to bring Lobo Smith and his crowd to justice.

(175) KILLING JAZZ
By Christopher B. Booth

A jazz phonograph record played an important part in the structure of mystery and crime in this story. Caleb Ballinger's weak heart failed him, and he fell dead, when he heard the blaring music sounding from his phonograph downstairs on Sunday, which to him was always a sacred day observed in peace and silence.

(176) SQUATTER'S TREASURE
By Emart Kinsburn

A girl construction-camp boss has some thrilling adventures in her quest for hidden treasure, in this story.

(177) THE ISLAND WOMAN
By Captain A. E. Dingle

The British-government agent, Lynn, picked Jim Gurney for his astounding ability as a rough-and-tumble fighter. Jim was just the man for his mission in the island of Tarani, where a gang of pearl pirates and scoundrels, under the leadership of a woman outlaw, had their headquarters.

(178) RIDIN' FER CROSS T
By George Gilbert

"Snubby" Bricker, cowboy, sure found plenty of excitement when he got down to the Cross T Ranch, owned by the girl, Donna Ynez.

The Cross T was founded by the girl's grandfather, and naturally its wealth aroused the covetousness of various people.

(179) THE CRIMSON CLOWN
By Johnston McCulley

One of the most fascinating characters in fiction is the clever rogue, Delton Prouse, known as "The Crimson Clown."

He would appear unexpectedly in his clown's suit of crimson, with its hood and mask, execute some daring and brilliant criminal exploit, and escape by discarding his disguise.

(180) RANGE RIVALS
By John H. Hamlin

This breezy Western story takes the reader to the Sierra country of California, where Buckjump Ranch is situated.

The ranch was owned by Widow Gruman, and when she leased it to her foreman, Tige Northrup, a bitter range rivalry was started.

(181) THE ISLE OF DRUMS
By Joseph Montague

They had many names in the South Seas for the island known as Aoba. Some called it "Man-eating Isle," and others "The Traders' Graveyard" and "The Isle of Drums."

And so when Thad McKay, at his headquarters on Hope Island, got word that Sam Parks, the pearl trader, and his daughter, Lenna, were in the hands of the cannibals, he set out to rescue them.

(182) THE WHISTLING WADDY
By Donald Bayne Hobart

They called him "Solitaire" Stevens because he preferred his own company to holding down a job on some ranch. Like many lone men, Solitaire had developed the habit of whistling to himself, so that he was also known as "The Whistling Waddy."

Solitaire had just one real friend, old Jerry Grimshaw, and when Jerry was killed, The Whistling Waddy set out on a trail of adventures, that carried him into deadly peril time and time again.

(183) HUNTED DOWN
By Robert H. Rohde

The little black box containing a fortune in jewels proved a lure for the desperate criminals headed by the "Red Duke."

Old Z. B.—"Bet a Billion"—Warburton was very careless in the way he carried the little black box, but he kept it out of the clutches of the Red Duke's crew.

In their effort to get possession of the box, the gang murdered one of the Warburton household, and that brought the magician and detective known as "The Great Macumber" into the game.

(184) POUNDING THE RAILS
By Don Waters

In this realistic story of railroad life, the author has brought an exceptional knowledge of his subject into play and has put into his pages the excitement and romance, as well as the human interest, in the lives of the men who "pound the rails"—which is their expression for driving a locomotive.

(185) OUTLAWS OF BADGER HOLLOW
By G. W. Barrington

A glorious bay stallion, proudly defying the hungry lassos of men. Such was the first outlaw of Badger Hollow.

Then "Curly" Blanton came into the Hollow, bent on subduing the stallion—and himself became the second outlaw of Badger Hollow.

(186) BUCKING WITH BAR C
By George Gilbert

The railroads had raised the freight rates on cattle and the ranchers decided to try driving their herds to Hanseburg, just as the old-time cattlemen had done.

"Cow Foot Freight," some called it, and others, "The Longhorn Express." It was slow but sure, and it meant a profit for the cattlemen and the defeat of the railroads.

Young "Cricket" Bursand, owner of the Bar C Ranch, was the man who started the idea. And he proved that he was neither crazy nor yellow, in the stirring adventures that followed.

(187) MR. CHANG'S CRIME RAY
By A. E. Apple

Escaping from the toils of justice, Mr. Chang devotes his evil mind to obtaining a remarkable destroying ray that will bring him triumph over his enemies. Chief among these is the clever Chinese detective, Doctor Ling.

The battle of wits between these two wily Orientals furnishes about as much excitement and thrilling suspense as any one can possibly want to crowd into an evening of reading.

(188) THE RANGE WAR ON V V
By Emart Kinsburn

In sporting circles, Billy Rose was known as "The Kokomo Man-licker." He was a professional boxer, a good one, too.

But when Billy tackled the life of a cowboy and horned in on a cattle-range war, he found himself up against a much tougher proposition than he had ever been called upon to face in the prize ring.

(189) FORTUNE UNAWARES
By Joseph Montague

The adventure starts in Crandall's gambling house—an old brownstone mansion in New York. Then the scene shifts to Shanghai, and the vivid tinge of its Oriental atmosphere takes on a deeper hue.

The action centers about a wonderful ruby which was coveted by many, a magnificent stone that men would shed blood without compunction to possess.

(190) LOOT OF THE LAVA BEDS
By John H. Hamlin

Visiting the Boxed Arrow Ranch, "Rick" Kendal found his brother-in-law dead, with a big bruise at the base of his skull. Around the victim's neck was twisted a curious necklace of polished pebbles.

Rick Kendal was just a tenderfoot, unfamiliar with ranch life, and the adventures following his discovery of the murder were of startling character.

(191) THE POISON EYE
By Madeleine Sharps Buchanan

The wax figures of the Crompton Museum apparently came to life at night, foretelling the crimes that terrified the town. Each time their warning was right—even when the wax figure of Harbison was found lying on the floor with the left eye destroyed.

(192) THE WELL-WISHER
By Robert J. Horton

There was five thousand dollars reward for the "Well-wisher," wanted for stage and bank robberies and murder, and yet the man who called himself Ralph Bennett decided to assume this desperado's identity.

(193) HIS STUDIO WIFE
By Violet Gordon

Saving a man's life is not a reason for marrying him, especially when he is an artist without good prospects.

Gwytha worked in a department store, but she had ambitions her husband could not fill. It was not long before she realized she had made a mistake, and yet she solved her problem.

(194) LOST LOOT
By Joseph Montague

A rhyming riddle and an incomplete map drawn two centuries ago were the only clews that started Meredith, a prosperous New York lawyer, and Jeanne Towers, a lovely girl, accompanied by a maiden aunt, on the mysterious quest into the strange lands of the Caribbean Sea.

(195) WHITE WOLF'S LAW
By Hal Dunning

Whole towns were terrorized by the sound of the "White Wolf's" name. Although wanted in many States, there were hard-boiled cow-punchers who would have willingly died for this freckled-face kid who rendered justice in his own way.

(196) JUDY THE TORCH
By Arthur P. Hankins

Judy was a lady of many names and personalities, but was best known as "Judy the Torch," queen of tramps.

A fascinating yet ruthless type of criminal, not altogether bad and yet far from good, Judy the Torch excited interest in whatever she did.

(197) THE ROAD TO BROADWAY
By Ellen Hogue and Jack Bechdolt

Don McManus, owner of the International Carnival, finds a forlorn and lovely girl on the beach of Coney.

Who is she? No one knows, and she herself cannot remember; but she can dance divinely!

Then her past comes back, and she must hide it, although her silence makes misery for the man she loves.

(198) BLACK SKIN AND BROWN
By Don Waters

Hezekiah Argall trembles before six words: "Black cargo! Up sail and run!" What is his secret?

It is hidden behind the flare of a burning ship and the tumbling of briny waters, a secret that sends a vessel sailing tropical waters under a mad captain.

(199) SQUATTERS' RIGHTS
By George M. Johnson

The cattlemen hated Treadwell because he was a squatter; they persecuted him because he was trusting, and they were hard men.

Treadwell's daughter wouldn't have enjoyed her visit to the cattle country, either, if it hadn't been for "Quick Dick" Graham.

(200) DECEIVER'S DOOR
By Christopher B. Booth

An engrossing tale of an almost superhuman criminal who baffled not only the police but also his own accomplices.

Was this man flesh and blood? Impervious to firearms, his form crumpled before an attack and he appeared elsewhere unharmed, ready to execute more of his most stupendous and ruthless crimes.

(201) NICE GIRL
By Vivian Grey

Romance had dropped right from the sky for Betty Mainwaring. It was just a piece of white paper wrapped around five copper pennies that brought it, and then her life became a dazzling series of emotions—fear, sadness, love.

(202) RED PEARLS

By Merlin Moore Taylor

Horror and death lie in their wake; hard men sacrifice their lives for possession of them.

The powerful and mysterious Sun Kong holds the secret—the name that is whispered in the South Seas. But no one knows whether he is a man or a myth.

(203) BANDITS OF BALD HILL

By G. W. Barrington

"Slim" Martindale butted into a situation appealing to one of his adventuresome frame of mind, and found himself in a terrific battle with a gang of claim jumpers.

It was lucky for Marsden, the prospector, and his daughter that Slim happened on their trail and horned into their party.

(204) HAUNTED BELLS

By Madeleine Sharps Buchanan

A deep tolling—age and death in every shuddering note. What is the sinister power that causes the bells to break the silence of years?

There are dainty footprints in the belfry tower. On the rusty chains is a bit of exquisite lace. Is this the secret?

(205) THUNDER BRAKES

By Cherry Wilson

Putting the herd on Thunder Brakes was the task for which "Tex" Rankin and his buddy, Dell Young, had hired out to the desolate Curly Q Ranch. It was the climax of Jeff Hale's feud against the Box Bar—but it was for June Hale that they both worked.

(206) THE GIRL AT THE STAGE DOOR

By Beulah Poynter

Love drove Phyllis Ballard to the stage door that last night of the season. Would Kent Randall understand that she was no idol-worshiping flapper?

Kent did understand. But Harrison Ballard had a deep aversion for the stage and sent his daughter from the house. Then a terrible crime cast its red shadow over her life, and suspicion turned upon the man Phyllis loved.

(207) RIDIN' JIM GORMAN

By Joseph Montague

Gorman needed both his guns when he answered George Marsden's call for help. When he arrived, he found his pard delirious from a gunshot wound.

Then Gorman was double crossed by his friends and appointed sheriff. And it was indeed a sorry day for rustlers when "Ridin' Jim" Gorman became sheriff.

(208) THE BEAK OF DEATH

By Lilian Bennet-Thompson and George Hubbard

Newt Page was found dying in the Croyden home. A few hours before his death, Mary Croyden had refused his marriage proposal.

Jesse Bullard, a clever detective, was assigned to the case. But his carefully built-up theory collapsed before mysterious stabbings and murderers who vanished into thin air.

(209) SPRUCE VALLEY

By Frank Richardson Pierce

Amidst the gorgeous settings of the Northwest spruce and pine forests, lumbermen had been waging a bitter fight for supremacy, laying waste the forest.

Ken Morgan, a forest ranger, took up the battle against them, fighting for the preservation of the timber.

(210) ANGEL FACE

By Vivian Grey

They called Jo Dair "Angel Face" because that was the impression she made on most people. Hers was the type of beauty that brings the world to its feet.

As a night-club hostess, she created a sensation which led to a brilliant stage career. Still, she did not lose sight of the great love which was the dominant motive of her life.

(211) RESTLESS GUNS

By William Colt MacDonald

Sloping into Cuarta City, "Stony" Brooke and "Tucson" Smith saw a man backing through the saloon door, his six-gun blazing. They rescued the lone gunman, thus making an enemy of "Hawk" Blackwood.

Hawk was a rustler whose operations were terrorizing the ranchmen. Stony and Tucson decided to break his game to the tune of singin' lead.

(212) THE SILENT CRACKSMAN

By John Jay Chichester

It was an amazing series of adventures through which Maxwell Sanderson, "The Noiseless Cracksman," took his friend, Barton Clark.

For those who prefer detective stories in which brains are used instead of strong-arm methods, this story is unconditionally recommended.

(213) THE LOST ANTHILL MINE

By Arthur Preston Hankins

With an ancient map to guide him, "Rad" Carval headed an expedition into the unexplored mountain tracts of Southern California.

But in this vast country of death he soon found signs that others were following him. The amazing events that followed brought the hunters to a most desperate plight.

(214) DANCING JUDITH

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

Judy Grant started her career as a colorful little artist's model in Greenwich Village. But the graceful spontaneity of her dancing carried her to the high places of the world.

(215) ROGUES OF FORTUNE

By John Jay Chichester

At last the famous Sanderson was in handcuffs—a thousand miles from his accomplice, speeding on an express toward prison. Then a desperate break, and Sanderson had escaped again, calling upon his ingenuity to hide his betraying hands. More adventures of the "Silent Cracksman."

---

(216) THE MAVERICK OF MARBLE RANGE

By Robert J. Horton

Bannister was hired by Florence Marble, cowgirl owner of the Half Diamond Ranch, to carry out a mysterious quest. Before he had finished his fight to protect her interests, he was executing his own law with his lightning gun hand and clearing their path to freedom and happiness.

(217) MOON MAGIC

By Vivian Grey

Life was a fragrant bubble to Valerie Vane until she left her wealthy home to marry the poor boy she loved.

Then, in the grim reality of poverty and the weakness of her husband, she found a new understanding of life and the courage to rebuild her shattered dreams.

(218) THE LOVES OF JANET

By Thomas Edgelow

For twenty-three years it had been the job of Janet Wilde to soothe the jagged nerves of her famous actor father. When her father died, she vowed she was done with being a soother.

But the call of the artist in Janet was strong, and it gave her a definite knowledge of what love should mean when it finally came.

(219) THE SHERIFF OF VACADA

By Joseph Montague

The chattering telegraph announced a train holdup, murders, a kidnaping—a challenge to Gorman's courage and skill with his six-gun.

Confidently, he rode away to win the recognition of his entire State and the love of a beautiful woman.

(220) THE GOLDEN BALL

By Lilian Bennet-Thompson and George Hubbard

One morning Horace Peyton, a sixty-year-old dandified philanderer, was found dead in his rooms at the exclusive Laurel Inn.

Who had killed him? A tiny golden ball was Detective Jimmy Clyde's only clew!

---

(221) HER OTHER HUSBAND

By Louisa Carter Lee

As a refugee in the underworld, Connie Neville met Eddie Costello, young, handsome, hard—who said he loved her and would go straight after they were married. Connie believed him; accepted his protection.

Then, in the disillusionment that followed, Connie clung to a poor inventor who loved her. Bravely they struggled to rebuild her shattered life.

(222) GAY CAPRICE

By Beulah Poynter

The careless freedom of her father's studio gave Caprice her only knowledge of life—until love came to her through a young American artist.

But Caprice knew her father to be a failure, needing her aid. And, with the protests of her lover in her ears, she set out for America to secure aid from her wealthy grandfather.

In the weeks that followed, she was beset by designing relatives, fighting for her grandfather's wealth. Her heart was tortured by a longing for the love she had put aside. But eventually her loyalty and devotion brought her the fulfillment of her dreams.

(223) GUN COUNTRY

By William Colt MacDonald

"Blaze" Routledge returns to his home range to find it terror-ridden by a band of mysterious Black Riders, who ruthlessly strike their victims in the dark, unhindered by the terrified ranchers. The excitement of Blaze's six-gun adventures sweeps you rapidly to a rip-roaring climax.

All that the cowed citizens of Cougar needed was a man to lead them—a man of Blaze Routledge's caliber, courageous, resourceful, versed in the knowledge of men and their ways, and skilled in six-gun magic.

This stirring Western story has all the glorious breeziness of the cattle country.

(224) FLYERS OF FORTUNE

By Forbes Parkhill

"Ding" Garth, supposed to be dead, believed himself dishonored in the World War. Bitter, disillusioned, he joined a band of Mexican patriots fighting for the independence of Mexico.

Death no longer held terror for Garth. Recklessly flying into the teeth of destruction, he twice changed the fortunes of battle. But always his past hung over him like a preying eagle, ready to strike him down.

Though the revolution failed, Ding found the action necessary to soothe his jagged nerves and clear his name before his own countrymen.

(225) THE MIRACLE MARRIAGE

By Reita Lambert

Richard Sells sent his gay, empty wife to Europe and buried himself in a Connecticut fishing town to forget his unhappiness.

There in the home of old Captain Stayton and his daughter Dorcas, Richard found the peace that had escaped him for so long. But bitter discovery soon overtook him—the knowledge that his happiness came from his love for Dorcas.

Even as he decided to slip away with his love unspoken, the finger of small-town suspicion pressed its stigma upon him and the girl. But in the storm of malice that sought to destroy them, they found their anchorage in their mutual love and understanding.

(226) THE SPLENDID FOLLY

By Beulah Poynter

Dawn McAllister was to double for a famous screen star in a dangerous stunt. The money would save her dying father.

Then came a train wreck, with the star killed on the way to location. Her death was hushed up, and Dawn was offered the chance to take the star's place. She accepted, only to find herself in a maze of serious complications.

(227) EMPTY SADDLES

By Cherry Wilson

When Dare Devlyn bought the Corral de Terra Ranch, he hoped that this old ranch, the scene of a bitter feud between cattlemen and sheepmen, would bring him excitement.

Unwittingly, he set fire to the old feud which had smoldered unquenched for thirty years. He had plenty of excitement then, and nearly lost the girl he loved.

(228) THE DEATH FIRE

By Lilian Bennet-Thompson and George Hubbard

What evil design was behind the death fires that burned near Cragwood Castle?

Jimmy Clyde's wide detective experience had never led him to believe in the supernatural. Nor had he ever been on the scene where he belived that further crimes would be committed. Grimly he set to work, hoping to complete his quest before the owners of Cragwood were destroyed.

(229) BLACK PLACER

By Frank Richardson Pierce

A race for the Alaskan oil fields; a beautiful half-breed girl; a white girl; Tom McNally, son of a famous Northman; "Wolverene" Bland, a murderous blackguard who lived beyond the law—these are some of the elements of Pierce's greatest novel of the North.

(230) THE FRONT PAGE GIRL

By Jack Bechdolt

Bill Lannigan fell in love with Janice O'Dell and promised her a job on a New York newspaper. She left her small-town home to be swept into a great drama of love and jealousy among the brilliant and erratic people of the newspaper world.

Cherry Wilson

Author of "Thunder Brakes," "Empty Saddles," etc.

ABOUT CHELSEA HOUSE BOOKS

CHELSEA HOUSE is the book department of one of the largest and oldest periodical publishing houses in the United States, with a record covering over seventy years in the fiction field.

The best serials appearing in such magazines as THE POPULAR, FAR WEST, WESTERN STORY, DETECTIVE STORY, SEA STORIES, et cetera, are selected for publication in book form under the Chelsea House imprint. These magazines have been the means of introducing some of America's best-known writers to the American reading public—O. Henry, Peter B. Kyne, Charles E. Van Loan, James Oliver Curwood, and many others.

The members of the editorial staff of Chelsea House are experts in the fiction field. They have had years of experience in catering to the taste of the large body of the American reading public. They know the kind of story that will appeal to the general run of readers. It is not their aim to publish books that will be read only by a limited circle.
